CAR CRISIS TODAY: STRIKE NEAR, LOWDEN HEARS

WILSON BROKE FRENCH PACT, G. O. P. CHARGES

Should Have Sent Alliance to Senate, Leaders Assert.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

Washington, D. C., July 24.—[Special.]—Heated debate in the senate today followed charges by Republican leaders that President Wilson already had violated the Anglo-French-American treaty of alliance by failing to carry out article IV, in which he pledged himself to submit it to the senate simultaneously with the treaty of peace.

In the midst of the discussion, Senator Lodge, Republican leader, introduced a resolution requesting the president to transmit the treaty of alliance to the senate at once, "to the end that the senate may consider said treaty in connection with the treaty of peace with Germany."

G. O. P. "Naggers" Assailed.

Senator Hitchcock, Nebraska, Democrat, vehemently assailed the Republicans for "nagging" the president. They were seeking by every means, he said, to "stab the president in the back."

Their tactics during the peace negotiations, he charged, had weakened the president at the conference, and were responsible in large part for the compromises against which the Republicans were complaining.

Senator Brandegee, Connecticut, Republican, pressed Senator Hitchcock in vain for an explanation of the president's failure to submit the treaty of alliance.

Submit Alliance "Presently."

The best information Senator Brandegee was able to extract from the Nebraska senator was that the president would submit the treaty "presently" and that it was no affair of the senate's until he did submit it.

Various explanations were put forward to clear up the mystery of the president's withholding the treaty. Some senators thought the president had decided it might weaken the defense of the league of nations. Senator Moses, New Hampshire, Republican, member of the foreign relations committee, offered this explanation:

"Dispatches tell of a formidable movement afoot in the French chamber to amend the league in several important particulars. The old French proposal, rejected by the covenant commission, to create an international military force, has been strongly revived.

Calls It Club Over France.

"Is it not probable that the president is holding the alliance as a club? He fails to submit it in accordance with the promise under article IV. Now he can say to the French deputies: 'Accept the league covenant just as it is, drop all of your amendments, or I will refuse to submit the treaty of alliance to the senate.'"

Senator Brandegee started the discussion by reading the printed text of the treaty of alliance, laying special stress on article IV., which provides:

> The present treaty will be submitted to the senate of the United States at the same time that the treaty of Versailles is submitted to the senate for its advice and consent.

Lodge Reads Article Twice.

To further emphasize the article, Senator Lodge reread the text first in French and then in English.

"The French language is extremely exact," said Senator Lodge, "and there is no question as to the terms of the treaty as submitted to the French chamber and to the house of commons.

"There may be good reasons for paying no attention to the provisions of article IV., but it is evident that it was put in by the French prime minister with a very considerate feeling for the senate of the United States."

Brandegee Voices Doubt.

"I do not know," said Senator Brandegee, "whether article IV. has been scratched out by some one in this country with a pen. That would not take it out of the treaty or take it out of the contract. You cannot get a hook out of your jaw in that way."

"I protest," said Senator Hitchcock, "that senators have been carrying on a policy of systematically criticizing, nagging, and attempting to discredit the president, and I call attention to one of the results.

"It has been to weaken his influence at Paris, and when that had been accomplished and he had been forced to yield at some points to the contentions of other countries there, senators rise here and condemn him for this yielding."

"May I ask the senator," inquired

ARREST WIFE OF FITZGERALD IN LOST GIRL CASE

Trap Woman at Man's Cell; Find His Revolver.

Mrs. Muriel Fitzgerald, wife of Thomas Fitzgerald, walked into the East Chicago avenue station shortly after 6 o'clock last night. She told Acting Lieut. William Howe that she would be able to tell if her husband was guilty of the supposed kidnaping of 6 year old Janet Wilkinson if she was granted five minutes' conversation with him. Lieut. Howe agreed.

Five minutes later she was nestling in the patrol auto on her way to detention home No. 1, where she will be held as a suspect with her husband.

How Woman Was Trapped.

When Lieut. Howe escorted her to her husband's cell he sent Detective Sergeant Harry Powers down the corridor ahead of her. Powers secreted himself behind Fitzgerald's cell and waited. When Mrs. Fitzgerald appeared he took out a notebook and pencil and scribbled down the following conversation that took place between them:

"When I received that telegram telling me to come home I knew what was the matter. You stick to your story and all will come out all right."

"Well, you go to the package room of the Virginia hotel and get a small package I left there," Fitzpatrick replied. "Whatever you do, Muriel, stand by me."

Woman Insists She's Innocent.

When Mrs. Fitzgerald again appeared at the desk she found two detectives by her side. She was a prisoner.

She pleaded and begged the men to let her go, stating that she had nothing to do with the case and that her husband was not guilty. Then Lieut. Howe showed the notes on the conversation to her.

At Detention Home No. 1 she was "sweated" for more than an hour, but detectives were unable to force any admissions from her. She maintained steadfastly that neither she nor her husband knew anything about the kidnaping.

Police Go for Package.

Policemen were sent to the Virginia hotel parcel room to obtain the package referred to by Fitzgerald, but they were unable to find it. Then the janitor suspect was taken to the hotel and the parcel was obtained. It contained a new revolver in a new chamois case. Every chamber of the gun was loaded. Detectives said it had never been used.

This discovery prompted the police and the Wilkinson family to renew the belief that their little girl is still alive and being held for ransom. They also have placed more strength in the theory that if Janet has been slain, Mrs. Fitzgerald is aware of it and is shielding her husband.

Mrs. Fitzgerald returned yesterday afternoon from Bangor, Mich., where she had gone Saturday. She was notified of her husband's arrest Tuesday night by Edward C. Watson, a lodger at the Fitzgerald apartment.

Seek Child in Bangor.

Suspecting that the child may have been sent to Bangor by Fitzgerald, detectives will attempt to trace his wife's movements since Tuesday. It is possible, they contend, that she could have come to Chicago, participated in the

THEY GAZE AGAIN, AND SURE ENOUGH SHE WEARS SOX

She was a perfect thirty-six, pretty as a doll, and stepped into the patrol wagon with the air of a queen.

Detective Sergeant Gregory Moran nudged Detective Sergeant Loftus and blinked. Loftus nudged back—and blinked twice.

"Did you see what I did?" they duetted.

"Couldn't be, though—must be a fancy color, or something," Moran mused.

"We'll watch when she gets out," they agreed.

They did. And sure enough they found she was wearing the cutest little sox—they came a trifle above the ankles.

"Well, whatdyou know about that?" whatted the detectives.

O, yes, she was booked as Lillian Davis, waitress, 2112 Seminary avenue, charged with the larceny of two furs from the Model Cloak company, 108 South State street. Mr. Mooney's art students made her acquaintance while she was obtaining two furs, which they say are the ones stolen, from the check room in the Hotel Morrison.

She will be arraigned tomorrow. Meanwhile she's giving the folks at detention home No. 1 a few lessons in snappy dressing.

BOY DROWNS AS FRIENDS LOOK ON

Although several persons were on the beach near the Lawrence street pier, Winnetka, yesterday, no one would venture into the water to rescue William Olis, 13 years old, 3429 Kildare avenue, Chicago, was was struggling beyond his depth.

Among those who watched the boy's battle for life were three companions, with whom he had gone swimming. After a few minutes he sank. His body had not been found last night.

John Moke, 14 years old, 4022 Cornelia street; Walter Wuernel, 13 years old, 4341 Henderson street, and William Taswell, 13 years old, 4145 Henderson street, were the boy's companions.

King Puzzled as to Honor to Confer on Lloyd George

LONDON, July 24.—King George is eager to bestow an honor on Premier David Lloyd George in recognition of his services in the war and at the peace conference, and the form which the honor is to take is being discussed in court circles, says the Mirror.

The premier would not accept a peerage, the newspaper asserts, while knighthood of the garter, which is the highest honor in the sovereign's gift, is practically confined to peers, although an exception was made in the case of Sir Edward Grey in 1912.

The Mirror suggests that if the Grey precedent is followed some special honor may be created.

Bela Kun Asks Allies for Pass to Argentina

LONDON, July 24.—Bela Kun, reported to have been deposed as head of the Budapest soviet government, has asked the allies for safe conduct to the Argentine republic, where he intends living, according to an Exchange Telegraph Copenhagen dispatch quoting Vienna reports.

BOMB SHAKES UP CANDY FACTORY

Windows Shattered in Block Radius but None Is Hurt.

A bomb was exploded in the alley in the rear of the Beich Candy company, 122-128 South Green street, shortly after midnight. Windows were broken for a radius of a block around, including those of the Illinois state hospital and the Chicago Eye and Ear hospital. Nurses were shaken out of their beds, but nobody was hurt. The damage was inconsiderable.

Watchman Showered by Glass.

The Pinkerton watchman employed by the candy company, John W. Kanagy, 6137 Wentworth avenue, was in the front of the building and was showered by broken glass, but not hurt. It is quite some distance from the front to the rear, and when Kanagy reached the scene of the explosion, which was on a fire escape, the perpetrators had escaped.

There has been a strike at the candy company for several weeks, but recently it was settled, and all but a few of the worst agitators were taken back to work. At the wholesale grocery of G. Matalone, next door to the factory, a more recent strike was inaugurated. It is possible that the bomb was meant for the grocery company.

No Clew Found.

Lieut. Norton of the detective bureau and a squad of detectives are working on the case, as are policemen from west side stations. No clew had been obtained to the bomb throwers at an early hour.

The bomb contained dynamite. It was about a foot long and six inches in diameter.

NEGRO DEFENDING GIRL KILLS WHITE, SO THEY HANG HIM

Atlanta, Ga., July 24.—Berry Washington, 72, a Negro, was lynched May 26 near Milan, Ga., for killing a white man in defense of a Negro girl. This information is contained in a story which the Atlanta Constitution will publish tomorrow.

Milan officials, the story says, declared at the time that they wished to keep the news of the affair from becoming public, so as to arrest the lynchers, but, according to the account, no arrests have been made.

Texas Mob Hangs Negro.

Gilmer, Tex., July 24.—Chilton Jennings, a Negro, was taken from jail here this afternoon and hanged in the courtyard by a mob of about 500 men. The man was arrested charged with attacking a woman here yesterday.

DIP DROPS STOLEN WALLET IN COP'S POCKET—CELL

"Help! Murder! Pickpockets!"

James Stone, a colored gentleman, indigenous to New York, who was giving Chicago the once over after being overseas with the Y. M. C. A. sang the words in a dramatic tenor as the Sixty-third street car on which he was riding neared South Park avenue.

Policeman John Wade, dolled up in civies, dozing in a corner of the car, came to life in time to feel something drop into his pocket. It was Mr. Stone's wallet and contained some $7. Three passengers attempted to leave the car, two by the front door, one by the rear. Wade collared the one headed rearward, dragged him off the car and fired a couple of shots at the other two who were hotfooting it away from there. He missed. They kept going.

His prisoner he found was Mickey Franks, known as "The Immune," who has been arrested numberless times, but as yet never had learned the ins and outs of penitentiary life.

LORDS DROP SUFF BILL PUTTING AGE LIMIT ON WOMEN

LONDON, July 24.—[By the Associated Press.]—The Adamson bill, giving the franchise to women on the same terms as men, but only at the age of 30, was dropped by the house of lords this evening at the suggestion of the Earl of Kimberley, who had moved the second reading of the bill.

The house of lords on Tuesday passed the second reading of a bill, introduced by the lord chancellor, entitling women to hold public office and exercise public functions. It made no change in the franchise affecting women. The government bill was a substitute for the bill of William G. Adamson, offered in the house of commons on behalf of the Labor party.

Three Girl Fugitives from Chicago Home Returned

Milwaukee, Wis., July 24.—[Special.]—Vivian Bagaene, 20, her sister Marjorie, 16, and Rose Tobinski, who, by the aid of a rope of bed sheets, escaped from the House of the Good Shepherd, Chicago, on Wednesday, were apprehended here by two detectives today and sent back.

Two other girls attempted to follow them, but unsuccessfully. After climbing out of the window the girls vaulted the twelve foot wall which surrounds the home. They were met by three sailors from the Great Lakes station.

Getting Back Loot Taken by Germans

PARIS, July 24.—Figures given today in the course of the sitting of the chamber of deputies by the peace treaty committee show that offices set up in Wiesbaden and Brussels to obtain the return from Germany of stolen goods have effected the recovery to date of 255,000 and 896,000 tons respectively of material of all kinds. It was stated, however, that this was but a small proportion of the things taken by the Germans. As an example it was asserted that of 950,000 head of cattle carried off only 8,000 head had been recovered.

LABOR, CAPITAL HAND IN HAND VITAL: LOWDEN

Each Must Respect Other's Rights, He Declares.

BY ARTHUR M. EVANS.

Springfield, Ill., July 24.—Gov. Lowden says America's problem is one of establishing economic equilibrium.

In analyzing the industrial situation today he said now is the time for all groups to keep their feet on the ground and to carry in mind this idea:

"More profits and wages cannot be squeezed out of a business than it produces."

The governor covered the entire field, from the readjustments sought by sober-minded reconstructionists to the propaganda of the extremists and the gabblings of the beauty-parlor bolsheviki.

Gov. Lowden's views of what is needed may be summarized as follows:

The Paramount Needs.

1. A strong "get together" movement between worker and employer. The "democratization of industry" through works committees, or similar bodies, which will give workers full opportunity to have grievances settled in amicable fashion and to have a voice in management of conditions of employment, hours, wages and kindred affairs. It must be a revival of the old human relations which existed between employer and worker in the days of the small shops.

2. Steps to make certain the worker is deriving from the product his just share of his contribution towards it—a real share in the profits.

3. Restoration of balance between earning power of men and purchasing power of wages.

4. Reduction of cost of living; profiteering must stop.

Causes of Unrest.

The governor's analysis of the causes of unrest is thus summarized:

1. The world cataclysm which has destroyed faith in the permanence of things—this is the underlying psychological cause.

2. High cost of the necessaries of life—food, roof, clothes—is greatest contributory cause.

Other vital factors to be considered are:

1. Recognition that America's most dangerous enemy is the red flag brigade and that good citizens must meet the extremist propaganda with propaganda of their own; class warfare is abhorrent to democracy.

2. General acceptance of the principle that American liberties are to be preserved as they were won. American democracy is the antithesis of communism; under our ideals of liberty full swing must be kept for the diversified human capacities, resourcefulness, initiative, energy and talent; individualism is America's precious heritage.

From Omega to Alpha.

The governor was so absorbed in the general question of industry that the interview began tail foremost, as it were. As a starter the governor cracked open the nut and exhibited the kernel, instead of first calling attention to the beauty of the shell and the excellence of the hammer, in the old fashioned expository way.

"Here's the nub," said the governor. "You cannot divide more than you create—that is fundamental. Let it sink in. It's a principle which every one should keep in mind.

"It's as simple and unromantic as the alphabet—you cannot take more profits and wages out of a business than it produces. Not unless it goes to the wall. No economist can upset that apple cart. It's as elemental and sound as one of Euclid's axioms.

"Russia knows it today. The Trotzkyites stood on their heads and said the principle was wrong. The bolshevists upset the theory, but they wrecked Russia's industry in doing it. You can't take out of a business more than it produces."

Changes Wrought by War.

"What are the causes of the unrest?" asked the interviewer.

"Who knows the real answer to that?" said the governor as he paced the floor. "Isn't it psychological as much as material? The word cataclysm has changed us all. You and I and other men are not what we were in 1914. Five years of strain for the en-

AIR MAIL MEN IN EAST STRIKE; CALL PLANES BAD

Object to Going Up in Treacherous Weather.

Belmont Park, N. Y., July 24.—America's first regular air mail service may be tied up tomorrow by the first strike in the history of aviation.

Twenty postal airmen, all ex-army flyers, sent an ultimatum today to Second Assistant Postmaster General Praeger demanding reinstatement of two pilots who refused to fly in alleged defective machines and treacherous weather.

Praeger replied that pilots Leon Smith and E. Hamilton Lee, the men dismissed, would not be reinstated. It is expected that the twenty comrades of the pair will refuse to go aloft tomorrow, thus suspending, temporarily, at least, the New York-Washington service.

May Strike in West, Too.

The pilots believe the Chicago-New York service also will be affected by a sympathetic strike because the men in that branch are subject to conditions against which Smith and Lee complained.

The Belmont Park pilots claim that never in their army service were they asked to fly during weather of the kind which has prevailed recently in New York.

Two pilots have been killed, McCusker and Sanborn, who, the strikers claim, were sent out in machines "which their superiors had been told were unsafe."

There have been fifteen accidents during the recent rains.

DARING AIDS BOMBER

Hempstead, N. Y., July 24.—[Special.]—Great interest was manifested here today upon the arrival of the large Martin bomber which is circling the United States. The first leg will end tomorrow about noon at Augusta, Me., where the governor and many officials will welcome Col. Rutherford S. Hartz, who is in command of the ship.

While the ship was passing over Baltimore at an altitude of 5,000 feet the oil and water tanks were noticed to be leaking. Walking along the eighty-five foot wing spread, Electrician Tobias calmly swung to the wires below and repaired the slight damage with as much unconcern as if the bomber was in its hangar instead of cutting through the air 5,000 feet up at a ninety-mile clip.

The bomber plans to leave Maine this week, flying in stages along the Canadian border sections to Seattle, thence down the Pacific coast line to San Diego, and then east to Florida and north again to Washington.

Resume Uncensored Radio Messages to Germany

Washington, D. C., July 24.—Uncensored wireless communication with Germany by way of the Nauen station was opened today for the first time since the United States entered the war. A number of commercial messages were sent through the navy's radio system.

CARMEN CHIEF HERE TO HELP SOLVE TANGLE

State Aids Say Only Concessions Will Avert Walkout.

Gov. Lowden received from members of the public utilities commission last night their preliminary report of their efforts to prevent the threatened strike of 15,000 street and elevated railway employés.

The governor was informed that unless marked concessions are made today a walkout is inevitable.

Officials of the carmen's unions, traction company executives and the utilities commissioners will convene this morning in the commission's offices at 10 o'clock. Unless a compromise is reached, or tangible hope of one develops, a massmeeting of the employés will be called before the end of the week, at which the men will be asked to set an hour for quitting their posts.

Mahon on Way Here.

W. D. Mahon, international president of the employés brotherhood, left Kansas City for Chicago last night to take charge of the situation here. His presence at this morning's session is expected.

W. S. McClenathan, secretary of the elevated trainmen, said Mahon had approved an immediate walkout, but William Quinlan, president of the surface crews, was noncommittal.

The governor, following his talk with the commissioners at the Blackstone hotel, expressed hope the executives who attended today's meeting would find an acceptable basis of compromise. He refused to discuss the subject further. The commissioners were equally reticent.

Discuss 7 and 8 Cent Fares.

It became known, however, that no proposition discussed by the car men since the utilities board began its investigation Sunday at the governor's behest had involved less than a 7 cent fare on the surface lines and an 8 cent fare on the elevated roads—tariffs which the commissioners believe the public is unwilling to pay.

And should the men persist in attempting to enforce their present demands in full, an 8-cent surface line fare and a 9-cent elevated fare is not impossible.

The crux of the controversy is the men's demand for an eight hour day and three supplemental conditions: first, that no daily wage shall be paid on a basis of less than eight hours; second, that 80 per cent of all runs shall be "straight" runs; and, last, that all runs must be completed in ten hours or less.

Rush Hours a Problem.

The companies are confronted with two periods during the day when travel increases 100 per cent over normal; between 7:30 o'clock and 8 A. M., and 5:30 and 6 P. M. Roughly, ten hours intervene.

If sufficient car crews are started to work at 6 o'clock, for example, when the morning rush begins, to care for that crest of traffic, 80 per cent of them must leave their cars at 2 o'clock in the afternoon; either that, or the company must pay time and a half for the additional hours required for these crews to span the evening crest.

Must Pay for Eight Hours.

It has the alternative of hiring other crews to go to work when the first number of trainmen have completed their original eight hour stretch. But early afternoon traffic meanwhile has fallen to half that of the morning; in consequence of which the company must either pay half the men for idling about the barns or place cars in operation for which the public has no use. Of course the latter course is considered the least desirable, as it involves additional consumption of electricity and wear and tear on rolling stock.

Nor can the company—under the unions' ultimatum—hire men to work only four or five hours daily unless it elects to pay them for the full eight hour day.

Fare Raise Inevitable.

Coupled with the men's demands for at least 75 cents an hour, with time and a half for overtime—a concession it is intimated their officials are ready to make under their original insistence on 85 cents an hour—the enforcement of these conditions, the commission believes, might well cost the public 8 and 9 cent fares.

Assuming, however, that even the basic eight hour day were insisted upon, with a 75 cent an hour scale, 7 and 8 cent fares still would be unavoidable. And no margin, according to the commission's estimates, would be available for the payment of time and a half for overtime.

Reject 62 Cent Plan.

It was said last night that both the traction officials and the representatives of the men had rejected the suggestion of the commission that 62 cents an hour, time and a half for overtime, and a nine hour day might be a compromise fair to all, the public included. For in the event of its acceptance the surface lines could afford to operate for 6 cents, with a 1 cent charge for transfers, and the elevated lines for 1 cent more.

The commission also advanced the proposition that the present 48 cent an hour scale, established by the Taft-Walsh war labor board in July, 1918, might be regarded as having been fair to the men at that time.

With that as a premise, it was advanced that the increase in living costs during the last year could be ascertained and an increased wage awarded accordingly.

Quote Walsh Article.

But representatives of the men quoted a magazine article by Frank P. Walsh, who, with former President Taft, directed the board's activities, in which was represented as having said the 48 cent scale was a makeshift and partly unjust to the employés.

Figures gathered by the commission, however, disclose that necessities of life are about 25 per cent higher now than when the Taft-Walsh investigation was conducted. Accordingly, it concedes that much of an advance in wages to be just.

But to grant the eight hour day—which the men assert must be conceded before negotiations can commence—and a 25 per cent increase, too, means a wage of 70 or 72 cents an hour.

What Fare Raise Means.

A cent added to the surface lines' fare increases their revenues about $4,000,000 annually—or about half what such additional labor expense would involve. Though the elevated lines, which are now charging a cent more for transportation, are in somewhat worse condition financially, it is not believed traffic conditions would permit more than 1 cent difference in their fare.

L. D. Bland, international treasurer, denied that thus far in the negotiations the men had been offered anything, thereby challenging the assertion of Leonard A. Busby, president of the surface lines, that 60 cents an hour for eight hours' work had been proposed to union representatives at a conference on Wednesday.

Mr. Busby admitted that neither a nine hour day or time and a half for overtime had been discussed.

Admits Getting Offer.

McClenathan confirmed the statement of Britton I. Budd, president of the overhead roads, that such a proposition had been submitted at their conference, but declared the men's leaders did not have courage enough to present it to their constituents.

"Eight hours at 60 cents and ten hours at 48 cents," he explained, "amount to the same thing. And how would we give battle to the high cost of living?"

The men further insisted if the "60 cents an hour for eight hours" proposition was accepted the roads would restrict all runs to eight hours and limit the men's earning capacity to their present scale.

False, Says Busby.

That assertion Mr. Busby branded as false; rather, he said, the surface lines would make it possible for men who desired to work nine and ten hours to continue doing so. Eleven hour runs, he thought, would be eliminated.

Bland quoted Mr. Busby as having said 5,000 extra men would be needed to install an eight hour day, and that estimate he declared grossly inaccurate.

"Seventy-five per cent of the surface lines' present employés," he declared, "are working all the time; the remainder are extras. Only a few more men would solve the difficulty."

McClenathan estimated 18 per cent more men would be needed if the elevated lines adopted an eight-hour basis.

Climax Due Today.

"Tomorrow is the day," said William Quinlan, president of the surface employés, with reference to today's conference; he refused to be quoted further.

Coe W. Mills, recording secretary of the same union, thought the companies could meet all the men's demands if they desired.

"It doesn't seem to me," he said, "as though all this talk should go on much longer."

The full commission will attend today's conference—Chairman Thomas E. Dempcy, James H. Wilkerson, Frank H. Funk, Walter A. Shaw and F. J. Lucey.

West Suburban Car Lines' Plea for Raise Delayed

Pending the settlement of differences between the Chicago Traction interests and their employés who are seeking a 77 per cent increase in pay, the plea of the Chicago and West Towns railways company before the public utilities commission was continued yesterday until next Wednesday, when efforts will be made to adjust fare rates seeks fare increases to meet expected in the western suburbs. The company demands for increased wages.

The Endless Circle Blamed.

"Just now it is a continuous pendulum swing between higher prices and higher wages. Each is boosting the other. Neither is moving towards a balance.

"One day I read that beef on the hoof goes down; yet next day the retail price of beef roast goes up. Why?

"And with a flourish, the clothing makers predict that prices of garments will soar next fall, and advise the public to buy clothes now. Instead of getting ready for a rise in price, which is simply passing the burden on to the public and furnishing cause for a fresh effort to adjust the earning capacity of the consumer to make his pay envelope fit the advanced price of his new overcoat, the clothing business ought to make a determined stand to bring prices downwards instead of upwards.

"In some instances, too, it appears that both employer and worker are polly-foxing against the producer and consumer. The milk strike, for example, sent the milk wagon drivers' pay to $35 a week.

Consumer Always Walloped.

"At the same time the dealers were allowed to charge one cent more for milk. This was far more than the increased pay to the drivers, so both drivers and dealers profited. But the producer on the dairy farm did not share in the increased price, while as to the consumer, he was struck where he is used to being hit—in the pocketbook.

"In my opinion, the spot where the unrest can first be punctured is in the high cost of the necessaries of life. Until there is a decrease in the cost of food, I fancy the tension is not likely to be diminished."

"What's the greatest need in industry?" the governor was asked.

"A strong 'get-together' movement on the part of employer and worker," answered Mr. Lowden. "The signing of the armistice found labor and capital together as never before. In war activities they worked as one.

His War Board Worked.

"Some criticism was voiced when I appointed the State Council of Defense and put Insull and Armour on one and Walker and Olander on the other. But it worked out as I knew it would. In all the council's war activities there was unanimity all through.

"We're all in one boat; the community of interest between all men is recognized as never before. The nation flourishes most when every single element in it is prosperous.

"We've got to work in the direction of closer industrial relations. That's fundamental. Shop councils, for example, like the works committees established in Great Britain and in some establishments here, I believe, are sound. They afford every worker opportunity to take up any grievance where it will be given a proper hearing.

"We've got to get back to the human interest relationship that pervaded a factory in the days of the small plant, where the employer and his half dozen workers were knit together and when the worker always spoke of 'our shop.'

"Our Shop" Attitude Vital.

"Get the employés in our modern industrial establishments to the point where they speak of 'our shop' instead of 'the works' and something will have been accomplished towards solving the problem.

"That may sound like sentiment, but I believe the heart is as vital a factor as the mind. Close human touch; close industrial relations; friendship and amity between labor and capital instead of discord and distrust—these are fundamental things. They are root factors.

"We must contrive somehow to bring about that hearty good will and sympathy between the great organizing genius at the head of an industry and the humblest worker in the mill, and the first step toward this concerns itself with profit sharing. It is to make certain that each is deriving from the joint product the just share of his cntribution toward it.

"Private property must remain if civilization is to go on, and the more people who own property the higher will that civilization be. Our concern should be not to destroy private property, but to distribute it more widely and more equitably.

"Industrial prosperity, I believe, rests upon private owership and management of business. It would not be effective to overturn the present system. Russia tried to run business by committees, and look at Russia. The soviets took over the factories. For a little time all went well, but soon they found that without the efficiency which comes from private owenrship and management wages alone were exceeding the gross value of their output and those factories have largely closed.

Can't Discard Initiative.

"Consider, too, the various coöperative ventures which have collapsed. Remember, also, that most business concerns fail. Why? Because they haven't the management, or because they cannot compete with more effective management of rivals. You have got to have the initiative and incentive which come only through private management.

"Expert management means economical production and larger profits, and this means a greater share for the worker.

"Collective bargaining, of course, is recognized everywhere. An unorganized workman is not on an equal footing with the employer. Suppose he has a house and family and loses his job—it means a great deal to him, but it means nothing, materially, to the employer. They are not on an equal footing, and to equalize them, the world recognizes the right of collective bargaining."

"Is bolshevism a real menace in America?" the governor was asked.

At the question Mr. Lowden began to pace the floor again, occasionally stopping to pound, in his earnestness, the shoulder of the interrogator.

The Serpent in Our Bosom.

"Our most dangerous enemy is within our gates," he said. "He bears different names—sometimes it is the Independent Worker of the World, sometimes the soviet, and sometimes the 'One Big Union,' and sometimes socialism.

"For many years we regarded the Socialist party as visionary but not destructive. But in the last few years that party has pulled off its disguise. True enough, many of its members have proved themselves genuine patriots and Americans. But these have been a hopeless minority.

"In every way it could, the Socialist party sought to obstruct the government in the prosecution of the war. No enemies have arisen in our midst who have not received the support and sympathy of the Socialist party. They profess to love peace, but they march with ease only under the red flag of revolution. They seek by force and lawlessness the overthrow of the government which Washington founded and Lincoln saved.

"The bolshevists know they must arouse class warfare, if they are to win, so they declare a war of classes. To create discontent and jealousy they employ words which are as foreign to American soil and American institutions as are, for the most part, those who utter them.

"These agitators and extremists speak of the proletariat and the bourgeoisie.

"But in America there is no proletariat and no bourgeoise, as these terms have been used.

"True, we have more workers in proportion to our population than any other country of which I know, because labor, whether of brain or hand, has always been honorable in America.

"But no matter how humble the worker, his son tomorrow may belong to what they call the bourgeoisie class, and no matter how wealthy or proud a so-called bourgeois may be today, his children tomorrow may be working with their hands, and without, thank God, losing caste or hope.

Every Man Has His Chance.

"Nor shall we ever have a permanent working class unless the doctrines of the bolshevist prevail. You may destroy the so-called bourgeoise, but when you do you have blotted out all the gains which the workers of the world have made in all the centuries.

"Why, this is simply the old struggle of ambitious men to rule the world. William of Hohenzollern attempted it in the name of the divine right of kings; Lenine and Trotsky attempted it in the name of the divine right of the proletariat.

"One is as destructive of a government of law and order and justice and righteousness as the other.

"Bolshevism is merely kaiserism turned upside down, that's all.

"I don't want to convey the idea that bolshevism is at the bottom of the present industrial situation; in general we have merely a movement toward economic readjustment—that is what the workers are seeking—but in many places and groups the bolshevists are showing their heads and sowing their pernicious propaganda.

"They constitute a danger which no thinking man should overlook. Their propaganda is going on night and day and we must meet it with propaganda of our own. Above all we must so order our social and economic life as to give the lie to the charge that citizenship is composed of classes with antagonistic interests. America is established not on the old world caste system but on democracy.

"American liberties are to be retained just as they have been won. Sturdy generations of hard working people who cherished independence, thrift, industry, truthfulness, respect for law and order, family life, and the home established the foundation of our liberties and were always ready to fight in their defense. Our ideals and principles are the opposite of the communism of the bolshevist.

"Some speak of nationalization of wealth as something new. It's the oldest thing in history. Savage tribes in every land have been communists. Our Indian tribes for years nationalized their wealth. They enjoyed their lands in common; when famine came they starved in common. On a vast continent they were able to maintain only a small population, and half the time that was in want.

"Communism? In all the world's history there has never been a civilization that did not have its beginning in the recognition of man's right in property, to the product of his own labor, whether of hand or brain. Without the incentive of private property civilization would languish and die.

"If the ruin which has come to Russia were to be extended over the earth all the gains humanity has made in a thousand years would be lost and mankind again would have to begin the battle for liberty, justice, and equal opportunity."

FOSS AND EXPERT IN HOT CLASH ON TRACTION FUTURE

Municipal Ownership Vs. High Fare Advocates at U. S. Hearing.

Washington, D. C., July 24.—Eugene N. Foss, former governor of Massachusetts, advocating government ownership of all public utilities, and James L. Quackenbush, counsel for the Interborough Rapid Transit company of New York, who declared Mr. Foss' proposals were "stuff and nonsense," gave the federal electric railways commission today the liveliest session since its started its investigation of the condition of street railways in this country.

"Private ownership has fallen down," Mr. Foss asserted. "There is left only public ownership with private operation or public ownership and operation. This primarily means a better democracy. We have got to democratize our transportation; then we have got to democratize our industries; otherwise they will be in the condition they are in abroad."

Calls It "Old Stuff, Bunkum!"

"Put a stop to this cheap talk, to this 'old stuff,'" retorted Mr. Quackenbus. "The thing to do is not to talk bunkum, but to recognize facts. Unless we can get an increase in fare between now and January, it means a receiver for the Interborough. If you are going to do something, get busy. Put a little oxygen into the patient, and then if a major operation is necessary, perform it."

Other witnesses today were J. D. Mortimer, president of the Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light company, and James O. Carr, Pittsburgh, formerly a member of the New York upstate public service commission.

Letter from Edison Read.

A letter from Thomas A. Edison was read, in which he said:

"The ironclad contracts between the roads and cities made in pioneering days under normal conditions have no protective clauses against the greatest change that has takep place in centuries, due to the world war.

"The municipalities can exact their pound of flesh if they so desire, with the ultimate bankruptcy of these organizations, but the spirit that is now abroad in the world is against this. We are all trying to play fair. If suffer we must, we must all suffer alike. If prosperity comes, all should participate in a like manner."

Mr. Foss expressed a belief that the electric lines in his state would be well on the way to public ownership "before snow flies."

Recent fare increases to 10 cents in Boston were not popular, he said, resulting in a loss of 25 per cent in traffic and $4,000 a day in revenue.

BUILDING ISSUE DEADLOCKED AS PARLEYS FAIL

Building Trades Council Expected to Act Tonight.

Chicago's building tieup still remains on. Failing to adjust the differences between the carpenters and the contractors, the fourth meeting of the employers and a committee of the union men broke up in a deadlock yesterday.

Denying the request of the union men that Secretary of Labor William B. Wilson be allowed to name an arbitrator, the contractors declared that an outsider could not adjust the differences.

Headed by Simon O'Donnell, the union delegation promised to take up the whole matter as it was gone over in the four meetings, with the Chicago building trades council, which meets tonight. While they would not commit themselves, it is expected that the union committee will tell the carpenters they cannot get the $1 an hour they are after and to accept the 92½ cents offered and thereby allow over 100,000 workers to go back to work.

Another point which will no doubt be brought up is the fact that prospective home builders and others contemplating various kinds of construction work are weary of the whole mess and the mounting high costs of building and are commencing to think twice before they let contracts.

Resolutions Adopted.

The contractors, with the approval of the union men, handed out six typewritten pages covering the four sessions.

Part of it follows:

"Resolved, That in order that conditions may be made satisfactory for the building industry of Chicago, including the material interests, the contractor, architect, and owner, the executive committee of the Building Construction Employers' Association of Chicago herewith expresses its sincere belief that no resumption of building construction operations should take place until all building trades had reached an amicable solution of their wage demands with their employers' association and that all existing jurisdictional trade disputes be disposed of.

"That no increase of wages shall be conceded to any trade greater than the rate given and accepted by the bricklayers, plasterers, and laborers, i. e., 12½ cents per hour.

"That any increase of wages granted to trades who have not at this date entered into an agreement respecting such increases shall become effective thirty days after signing such agreements."

LABOR NOTES.

Martin Murphy, president of the Stock Yards Labor council, said yesterday the demands of the stock yards workers for an increase in wages of from 20 to 50 per cent would be presented to the packers and Judge Alschuler tomorrow or Monday.

Millinery box packers employed at some of the millinery firms went out on a strike yesterday to form a union and formulate demands on the firms.

Benjamin Schlessinger says that about 4,000 ladies' garment workers will strike Monday if the manufacturers refuse to met the union officials today.

Harry Hahn, a member of the executive committee of the Barbers' union, local No. 548, announced last night that the master barbers had met the demands of the barbers for an increase in pay and the proposed strike has been called off. He says haircuts will be 50 cents, shaves and tonics 25, and that the haircuts will cost 10 cents more on Saturday and days before holidays. The shops to be closed on Sundays.

Many of the United Cigar stores in the city were closed yesterday due to a lockout of the clerks, who formed a union. D. J. Keeley, vice president of the company, says no demands have been presented.

LLOYD GEORGE GAINS HEADWAY IN BIG STRIKE

Meanwhile Great Britain Lifts Iron Hand to Avert Social Chaos.

BULLETIN.

LONDON, July 24.—(By the Associated Press.)—It is understood that an amicable settlement of the coal strike will certainly be arranged tomorrow as a result of a meeting of a subcommittee of the Miners' federation with the coal controller tonight.

BY HENRY HYDE.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[By Special Cable.]
[Copyright: 1919: By the Tribune Company.]

LONDON, July 24.—It begins to look as if "the Little Welsh Wizard" might successfully work another of his repeated miracles in handling the coal strike situation.

There has been so far no actual change. Surface indications are rather worse than otherwise. But much of last night and all today Prime Minister Lloyd George has been busy in conferences with coal mine owners and union officials. Out of these have come a government offer of readjustment of piece work rates which may temporarily end the strike which is tying up coal mines in Yorkshire and surrounding districts.

Iron Hand Shows.

Meanwhile the government is multiplying steps which, whether so intended or not, will certainly give all classes of the British public a sharp foretaste of what is in store for them, if the great general strike of the triple alliance, so long threatened, finally comes to pass.

Not only are sailors from the fleet manning pumps in the coal fields with plenty of soldiers in helmets and fully armed ready to protect them, but today the government issued an order forbidding export of coal from Cardiff, except on order of the admiralty. That instantly cuts into the export trade of British manufacturers.

Today also an order went into effect providing that not more than two hundredweight of coal per week should be delivered to any London householder. That gives a preliminary touch of coming trouble to London's 8,000,000 population. Next Monday—whatever happens meantime—a number of passenger trains will be cut down, to start, by 20 per cent, to be followed by further reductions until the service is reduced by half. That will teach the traveling public all over the island what a great general strike will mean.

Law Warns Reds.

This evening in the commons Bonar Law said in response to a question that the government was aware that a certain number of people were engaged in an attempt to pull down the whole structure of civilized society in Great Britain. The newspapers are full of warnings of woe and wrath to come, some of which read as if they were inspired.

Within the next few weeks it is declared a new registration for food rationing will be necessary. This is blamed on the strike of American seamen and dock workers, whose idleness is said to be holding up food shipments.

May Import U. S. Coal.

American coal is going to France and Scandinavia, and today I hear that it is likely an attempt will be made to bring large shipments of coal across the Atlantic in huge barges. The strike of dock workers at Liverpool continues and the Mersey river is filled with ocean liners and big freight steamers which cannot get up to the docks to unload.

Today the Yorkshire miners refused to hold a conference with Sir Eric Geddes on the subject of manning the pumps in the coal mines. He is reported returning to London with most of his staff. A few thousand miners went back to the pits today, but the number still out is more than 250,000. Fifty thousand workmen in other industries have been warned that the factories will have to shut down Saturday night, and it is predicted that by Monday, if there is no relief, the number—outside of coal miners—thrown out of work will reach several hundred thousand.

U. S. AND MEXICO WILL SUPPRESS BORDER RAIDS

Douglas, Ariz., July 24.—A complete understanding was reached today upon details of a plan whereby the officers of the United States army in Arizona and those of the Mexican federal army in Sonora will coöperate to prevent trouble along the Arizona-Sonora boundary.

This was the outcome of a conference held in Agua Prieta this afternoon between Brig. Gen. W. R. Smedberg, commanding the Arizona military district, and Gen. de Brigada P. Elias Calles, governor of Sonora and secretary of commerce and industry in the Carranza cabinet.

The conferees discussed recent incidents out of which friction had arisen in the border district, particularly in the vicinity of Nogales, Ariz. Gen. Calles stated that he had strengthened the border guard in that vicinity and could guarantee that there would be no repetition of the alleged thefts of live stock which had caused misunderstanding and friction in the past.

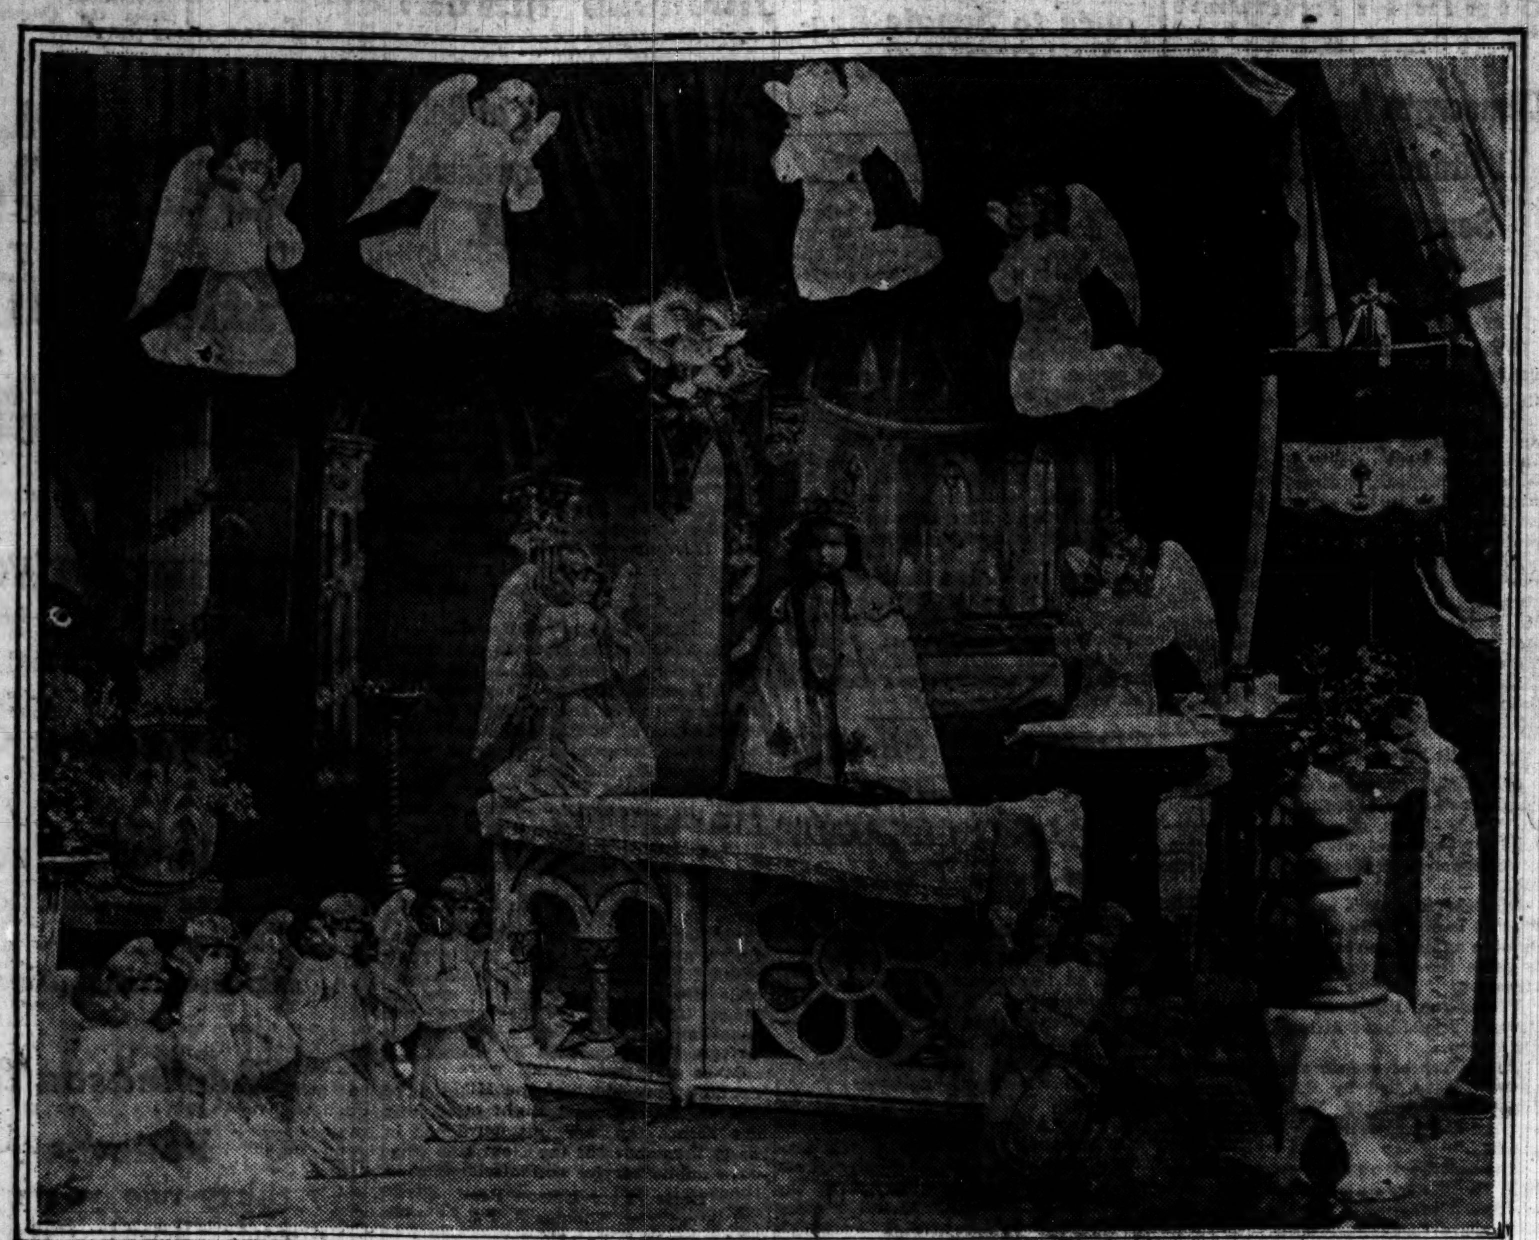
A program of coöperative effort on the part of the American and Mexican army officers was discussed and adopted, promising to eliminate such points of frication as have existed.

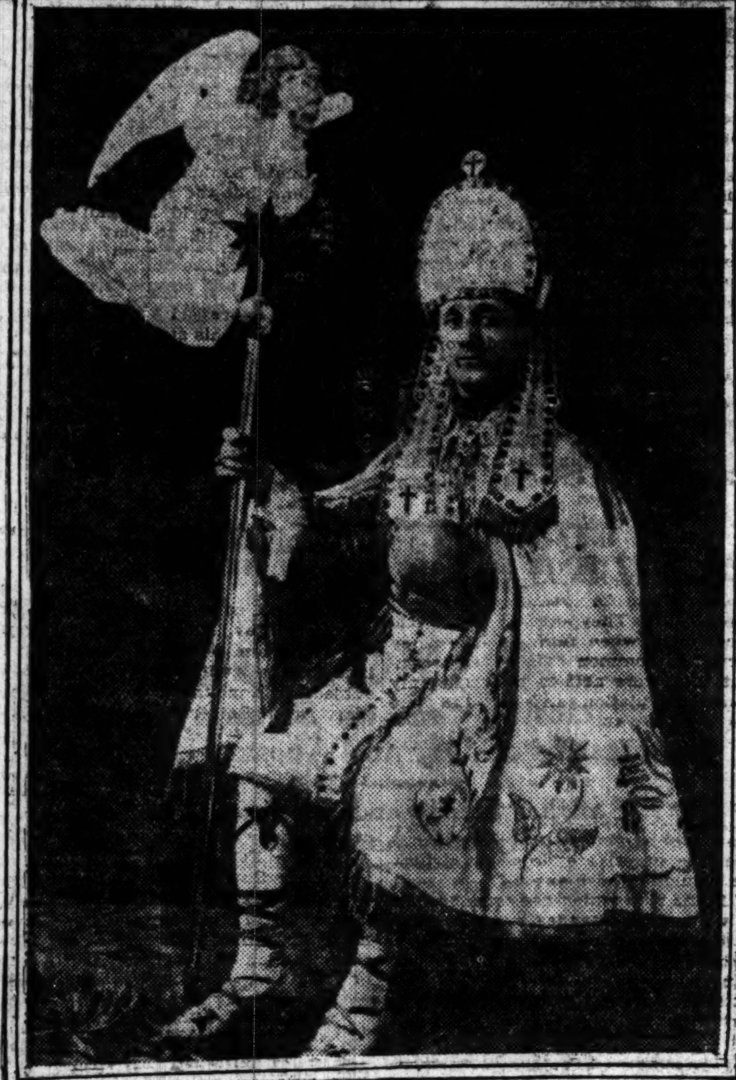
Georgia Refuses to Ratify U. S. Suffrage Amendment

Atlanta, Ga., July 24.—Ratification of the federal suffrage amendment failed so far as the present session of the Georgia legislature is concerned, today, when the senate voted against ratification, 39 to 10, and the house took similar action by a vote of 132 to 24.

The "Celestial Messenger" and Some of His Retinue

Chief of New Jerusalem Court and Followers; World in His Hand; Little Girl He Names His New "Virgin Mary."





JOSEPH M. ABBOT.

'CELESTIAL CULT' TRAILS ITS ROBES IN A CITY COURT

'Divine Leader' Has a Hearing Before Judge Hazen; Morals O.K.

He has been practicing his self-admitted "divine powers" in Chicago for thirteen years unrevealed—until yesterday. In the Maxwell street police court the bushel was removed from the "celestial messenger's" light by Judge Irwin R. Hazen.

This self-styled "savior of the world" is Joseph M. Abbot. With his bishop, Lumeno Monte; his bishop's amanuensis, and a flock of his followers he appeared in court in connection with the arrest of Mary Flazone, aged 22. Mary, a parishioner of the "messenger," was charged with contributing to the delinquency of her two younger brothers by taking them to the "Church of New Jerusalem," in De Kalb street, too often.

Ten Taxi Loads of Women.

The "celestial messenger" wheeled up in front of the Maxwell street court in a taxicab. Behind him came ten taxi loads of women—his character witnesses. The admiring looks of his white veiled witnesses followed him as he haughtily swept into the judge's chambers.

His appearance in court was admittedly distasteful to the high priest. It was a low court—he would "prefer to go to a higher court."

"His highness" became placated and compromised by being permitted to sit at the judge's right hand, with his bishop at his side. As he sat waiting for Attorney McGinley to make a report on the Church of New Jerusalem the "father" was reverently fanned by Mrs. Lean Manno, a leader among the faithful. He held a child his followers call the "Virgin Mary" in his arms until she went to sleep and was taken from the court. Mary is the 4 year old daughter of Mrs. Grazlima Sarimilla, whose husband works for the Sawyer Biscuit company.

The mother testified that Mary was born of immaculate conception, through the "celestial messenger" placing his hands above her as she knelt in prayer.

Child in Tinseled Robe.

The little flaxen haired girl appeared in court dressed in her robe of worship, covered with tinsel and wearing golden tinted slippers.

To the court's investigator Abbot asserted that two days before his birth he saved the life of his father from an attack of robbers. This happened in Sicily, where, he said, his father was a chief of police of a municipality. His spiritual powers did not recur to him again until 1906, while he was practicing his trade as a barber.

"When I first called at his church, 2021 Dekalb street, he informed me that I had not been sent by a judge, but God himself had sent me," said Attorney McGinley.

"He told me that one day in June, 1906, while he was seated in his barber shop on Polk street, Christ opened the door and slowly walked in. 'Do you speak Jewish?' the barber was asked. He answered 'No.' He added that he received his message in Latin, although his education was completed in the sixth grade of an Italian school.

Chartered by State.

"The Celestial Messenger" continued to shave and cut hair until 1917, when he secured a charter from the state for the organization of the Catholic Church of New Jerusalem.

"On my first visit to the church the 'Celestial Messenger,' whose title is Giuseppe Maria Abbate di Carmelo, modestly told me that he daily performed many miracles. He added that he had won the world war and banished the flu from the earth. The influenza epidemic was caused, he said, by the disrespect shown him by the people on Forquer street. This came about during a visit to one of his parishoners.

"He said he feared no personal violence, but for the sake of humanity he thought it best to protect himself, so he hired an automobile. When he arrived at the home of his follower the neighbors stoned him until he was lucky to escape with his life. As a punishment the Lord sent the flu upon the people, but the 'Celestial Messenger' fell a victim to the same disease. He said he needed no medicinal aid, but his parishoners called a doctor. The doctor promised him medical aid if he would stop the disease.

Ended Flu Epidemic.

"The first day 'His Highness' was able to go outside his house he raised the quarantine, suspended the epidemic of the flu, and the disease has been stopped all over the world," he said.

"A recurrence of the world war was predicted unless the heads of all other churches appointed him as their protector and accepted him as the prince of peace.

"I informed him that I had heard that he had the Blessed Virgin in his church. He said he had. When visiting one of his parishoners he found her kneeling in prayer; lifting his hands above her he prayed and went out. Some time later the child was brought to the church.

Elaborate Services.

"On invitation I attended one of the services. 'The Messenger' took no part in the ritual, but remained in the back parlor of the church with the 'Blessed Mother' in his arms. The services were conducted by the bishop, deacon, subdeacon, altar boys, and a dozen men dressed in military uniforms of many colors. About fifty people attended the church, the women occupying the front seats and the men the rear.

"With the permission of Father Fox, pastor of St. Charles Roman Catholic church, I took three members of the New Jerusalem church to see him. He said the man on De Kalb street was an impostor.

"I have been warned that if I went near the 'Celestial Messenger' I would be converted, as he possessed both spiritual and hypnotic powers. If he has these powers he made no effort to exercise them on me—if he did I haven't noticed it."

The spiritual barber substantiated the report of the attorney and submitted to the court a long list of names of the women and children for whom he had performed miracles. The list included sufferers from blindness, lameness, insanity.

The bishop testified that he was ordained in the new cult in 1918. His educational qualification consisted of a business course in a Waukegan business college and a correspondence school.

At his De Kalb street church the "Celestial Messenger" was found surrounded by forty of his cult. He had laid aside the brimless hat and priest's vestments which he had worn in court. He sat at his desk in his shirt sleeves with a diamond studded cross pinned to his shirt. The church was supported by free offerings, he said, pointing to the money on the table.

Incense Plus Cookery.

The altar room on the second floor is decorated with gaily colored photographs of the members of the church. Several dinner gongs are suspended about the room. The fumes of burning incense mingle with the odors from the kitchen.

Further investigation of the chief of the cult will be made when the case is taken to the Juvenile court. Judge Hazen decided the cult was morally clean and permitted Abbot to go. The case against Mary Falzone was discharged, but the older brothers were ordered to take the matter to the juvenile authorities. A petition will be filed by Carlo Falzone, 1913 West Taylor street, for the custody of his two minor brothers, Frank and Phillip.

800 KILLED, 1,600 HURT IN EGYPT'S BID FOR FREEDOM

LONDON, July 24.—[By the Associated Press.]—Eight hundred natives were killed and 1,600 wounded during the recent disturbances in Egypt, according to dispatches from Gen. E. H. H. Allenby, Cecil Harmsworth, foreign office under secretary, told the house of commons tonight.

Casualties to European and other civilians were: Killed, 31; wounded, 35; military, killed, 29; wounded, 14.

The death sentence was imposed on thirty-nine natives; detention for life, twenty-seven. Upwards of 2,000 were sentenced to short terms. Military courts have been dispensed with, the sentences which they imposed being reduced by three months.

"The Tribune" printed on Tuesday and Wednesday the Egyptian version of the revolt. In an extensive interview with Mahmoud Pasha, one of the delegates of the Egyptian nationalist party in Paris, J. H. Clayton of "The Tribune's" foreign service staff gave in detail the seriousness of the uprising, which is now borne out by Gen. Allenby's official report.

Clemenceau Gains Votes as Foes Renew Attack

PARIS, July 24.—[By the Associated Press.]—Premier Clemenceau's opponents continued yesterday and today to "shake the plum tree" in the hope of bringing down another ministerial plum like M. Boret, former food minister, if not the entire crop.

Today they attacked the premier through Minister of Finance Klotz and his financial policy, with the result that there was an increased government majority on a vote of confidence, the government getting 304 votes to 134.

M. Klotz expressed perfect optimism on the ability of France to emerge successfully from what he termed a difficult but not desperate situation, as against the gloomy views expressed by his critics.

BAUER-MUELLER PROGRAM BRINGS GERMAN DISMAY

Berlin Sees No Definite Plans to End Strikes and Aid Trade.

BY PARKE BROWN.

[Copyright: 1919: By the Tribune Company.]

BERLIN, July 23.—[Delayed.]—Germany's second revolutionary government is a disappointment to the German people. Hardly a good word is heard for the legislative program announced today to the national assembly.

While the speeches both of Gustav Bauer, president of the cabinet, and Hermann Mueller, minister of foreign affairs, are criticized on all sides, the speech of Herr Bauer particularly is disappointing. The tendency of public opinion, as indicated in Berlin, does not augur well for a continuance of this government with anything like control of the assembly unless more determination is shown than was displayed today.

Expectations Were High.

Largely because of several postponements since the hasty organization of this cabinet during the crisis of a month ago it was believed Herr Bauer's speech would outline a definite program of reconstruction in all phases.

It is felt here the government, guided almost entirely by Mathias Erzberger, decided to follow the middle or compromise course, in announcing its plans and that is the reason why the Bauer program deals largely with generalities without, as critics say, proposing definite steps to end the strike epidemic and put business back on a solid footing at home and abroad.

Comment by the Press.

BERLIN, July 24.—[By the Associated Press.]—The program of policies outlined by Premier Gustav Adolph Bauer to the German national assembly yesterday received some adverse comments and brought out several expressions of disappointment from the afternoon newspapers today.

The Deutsche Tageszeitung termed the program not one of reconstruction, but a "program of weakness and destruction."

The Lokal Anzeiger criticized the premier's address sharply, although it said the address represented "not only a work program, but a workingman's program."

The newspaper declared, however, that public opinion in Germany is not behind the premier in his abhorrence of revenge and his sentiments regarding the league of nations.

The Taeglische Rundschau expressed the opinion that Herr Bauer "dare not oppose the strike plague which threatens the existence of the government, but on the contrary caters to the strikers."

REDS' SOLDIERS AT PSKOV LOSE TO ESTHONIANS

COPENHAGEN, July 24.—The Bolshevik offensive east and west of Pskov has been stopped by Esthonian troops. The bolsheviki in that region are in full retreat, according to an Esthonian official report received here today.

Other Forces Menace Reds.

VIENNA, July 22 (Tuesday).—[By Associated Press.]—Gen. Simon Petulara, leader of the Ukrainian troops, and Gen. Gregorieff, former prefect of Odessa, operating against the bolsheviki, have succeeded in effecting a junction of their forces in the rear of the bolsheviki along the Dniester river on the Bessarabian front.

Petlura is marching on Kiev from the west, Gregorieff is coming up from the south, and Atman Anhell is leading important Ukrainian bands which are advancing on Kiev from Konotop and other points northeast of Kiev.

Kolchak Wins More Support.

OMSK, Friday, July 11.—[Russian Telegraphic Agency.]—Pledges of full support in the fight against the bolsheviki were received today by the all-Russian government of Admiral Kolchak from a congress of officials representing the Cheliabinsk, Troitsk, Verkhne-Uralsk, Krasno-Ufimsk, Ekaterinburg, and Schadrinsk districts.

WASHINGTON NEWS —IN BRIEF—

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 24.

REPUBLICAN senators who said today that former President Taft's compromise reservations on the league of nations never would be accepted and that they came too late anyway were surprised to learn that Mr. Taft had gone over the president's head and was seeking to get the ear of Democratic senators on his conciliation plan.

Senator Hitchcock, the Democratic pilot for the peace treaty, is among the administration senators to whom Mr. Taft has written.

On all sides it was said that Mr. Taft's plan probably would have little effect on senate action. Some of the Republican leaders say their plan now is to insist upon direct amendments to the peace treaty, but Senator Hitchcock insists that the administration has plenty of votes to defeat all such amendments.

THE counselor for the Japanese embassy called at the state department today to explain that Japan could not very well make a public declaration regarding its intentions with respect to restoring Shantung to China until Germany has delivered the papers giving title of Shantung possessions to Japan. He said that he had urged his government to make some kind of public statement, but that it obviously could make no specific statements regarding concessions of territory until it has the title and the peace treaty gives Germany three months to deliver these to Japan.

CHARGES that the president had violated article IV of the proposed Anglo-French-American treaty of alliance specifying that the pact should be presented to the senate together with the peace treaty, were made in the senate today and provoked lively debate.

Senator Brandegee made the charge, following which Senator Lodge introduced a resolution calling upon the president to submit the alliance treaty at once.

Senator Hitchcock severely criticized the Republicans for "nagging" the president and "stabbing him in the back," declaring that such tactics had weakened the president's influence at the peace conference and handicapped him in getting settlements of important issues.

LEVY MAYER of Chicago, in a statement for the Association Opposed to National Prohibition, giving the status of referendum proceedings against ratification of the amendment in various states, says that proceedings against the amendment on constitutional grounds will begin in the Supreme court of the United States when it convenes next October.

A RESOLUTION requesting the secretary of war to place all canned vegetables and meats on the domestic market at once was recommended for adoption by the house in a report from the committee on war expenditures. Representative Graham, chairman of the committee, will seek a special rule for immediate consideration tomorrow. The Democrats on the committee will file a minority report.

Baltic Commission Asks Neutral Aland Islands

PARIS, July 24.—The Baltic commission of the peace conference presented a report today recommending that the Aland islands, between Sweden and Finland at the mouth of the Gulf of Bothnia, be neutralized under the guarantee of the league of nations.

LONDON MAY NOT TRY EX-KAISER, LORDS ARE TOLD

Curzon Concedes Uncertainty as Treaties Are Approved.

LONDON, July 24.—[By the Associated Press.]—It is possible that former Emperor William may not be tried in London, according to an announcement made in the house of lords today by Earl Curzon of Kedleston, government leader in the upper house.

The lords passed the peace treaty and the Anglo-French treaty through all stages. In the course of the discussion Viscount Bryce, former ambassador at Washington, deprecated holding the trial of the former German emperor at London.

Baron Buckmaster said there were grave reasons why the government ought not to pursue any further the project of trying the German war lord. It was certainly unfitting, he declared, to ask an English judge to sit on such a tribunal to administer a law he does not know by procedure and has never been defined, in a court he does not control.

Not Comparable with Napoleon.

In his reply Earl Curzon said he thought the kaiser in exile in no way comparable with Charles I. or Napoleon. He was unable to imagine that a man who had ignominiously fled his country could be turned into a martyr or a hero by a trial, while his continual presence near the German border might be a political danger.

It might be, however, that the trial would not be held in London. No final decision has been reached and the chances of the trial becoming a spectacular show and disturbing public opinion and the daily national life were competent and important considerations. Even if the trial were within the shores of Britain it by no means followed that London would be the place selected.

Called Farce by London Paper.

Chicago Tribune-New York Times Cable.
[Copyright: 1919.]

LONDON, July 25, 3 a. m.—The Daily News editorial says:

"Lord Curzon's speech carries the farce of the ex-kaiser's trial a stage further. We gather from it that while the ex-kaiser is to be tried and tried in England, the ceremony is not to take place in London, so they are going to get it over quickly at some little Peddlington-in-hole without giving the accused a chance of creating unpleasant scenes.

"Probably the next thing we shall hear is that the ex-kaiser has been tried and condemned in his absence."

VALERA'S MATE SCORNS ALL BUT A 'FREE IRELAND'

Voices No Constructive Policy and Denounces Great Britain.

BY JOHN S. STEELE.
[Copyright: 1919: By the Tribune Company.]

DUBLIN, July 24.—Today I have been living in the past, for two hours I have been listening to Arthur Griffith, vice president of the Irish republic, and in the absence of Eamonn De Valera, acting president, expound the wrongs of Ireland at the hands of England for the last 700 years. I have not heard one word of constructive policy, but merely denunciation, not even a sign of a desire to arrive at a practical settlement, but an evident desire to make clever talking points against Great Britain without regard for immediate improvement of the relations between the two countries or in the condition of Ireland.

I hope this does not seem a prejudiced view, but it is the impression left on my mind, and I entered the Irish White House prepossessed in favor of Mr. Griffith, who had been described to me as a man of brains, honesty, and ability.

Against Dominion Rule.

In reply to my first question about the attitude of the Sinn Fein party towards the proposal for dominion home rule he said:

"No form of dominion home rule is satisfactory to us, because the country has declared for absolute independence, and we think we can make it possible."

In reply to further questions he said: "I admit the military obstacle is there, but we propose to overcome it as other countries, such as Poland, Bohemia, etc., have overcome it, as soon as President Wilson carries out the principles he announced to mankind. The military obstacle cannot overcome us. The power which rules by military force alone can never succeed against the people in the end."

"Discussing economic relations, Mr. Griffith denied Ireland economically is dependent on England.

"England is Ireland's best customer, but Ireland also is England's best customer next to America."

Mr. Griffith produced figures showing that for 1914—the last normal trade year—Great Britain's exports to the United States were $865,000,000, and those to Ireland $675,000,000 and to France and Germany combined only $675,000,000.

"Not a Poor Country."

"This country is not a poor country, but actually and potentially one of the richest countries of Europe. Therefore, the English commercial policy is to keep it from development. At first this was pursued by direct legislation for centuries, and indirectly since.

"I pressed for specific instances. Mr. Griffith quoted British legislation of 1820, 1830, 1840 to 1850, etc. The most modern instances of the alleged opposition of English traders was the establishment of the Ford factory at Cork which, however, was established and through the effort of Arthur Chamberlain found a great explosives business at Arklow. I put the direct question, 'Would you accept the dominion scheme as an installment of justice and work for it, if convinced the offer was in good faith?' His reply was as follows:

"If England set up tomorrow a convention in Ireland, freely elected by the whole people of Ireland and agreed to accept any decision as to the government of Ireland that the majority of that convention came to, that would be a genuine action on her part, but she will never do it, and has not the slightest intention of doing it."

"Never Can Conquer Us."

"What, then, will be the result?" I asked.

"They have tried to conquer us for 700 years and have not succeeded. They never can conquer us."

"But they have held you down?" I queried.

"They cannot keep on holding us down for ever. All we ask of America is that the principle applied to Poland and Bohemia be applied to us, and as we have suffered vastly more than these countries, we should be the first country in Europe to which the principles should be applied. We say also that America won the war and, had not America intervened, the British empire would be at an end. America saved the British empire because she was assured by her president that the military power of no nation can be allowed to rule the destinies of another nation. We thoroughly agree with that principle, and all we request is that as America won the war on that principle it be applied in our case."

Visits Mount Joy Prison.

This afternoon I visited the famous, or notorious, Mount Joy prison, where political offenders against British rule in Ireland are confined in an effort to find out whether the stories of brutal treatment of prisoners so widely circulated have any foundation in fact. I am not here concerned with a discussion just yet of the sentence of from six months to two years for seditious speeches, circulation of seditious literature, and similar offenses. That is a matter of government policy, but I am concerned with describing the treatment of prisoners after succeeding in breaking into the jail.

I think it will be conceded that no one expects a jail to be a bed of roses, but if I had my choice of all the jails I am familiar with, I would choose Mount Joy. It is an entirely modern building. The cells are large and airy, every one with a window opening to the outer air. It is scrupulously clean, except in the quarters of the political prisoners—and I will explain that later. The workshops for indoor work are large, airy, and well equipped. There are extensive gardens for those who prefer to work outdoors, plenty of room for exercise, and as prisons go, a model to the world.

Immediately Shown Prison.

I arrived unheralded with an order to Gov. Munroe, who did not know I was coming, to let me see everything I wanted, and I was immediately conducted around the prison. I met a large group of political prisoners coming down from their cells for exercise. They were chatting with each other, some whistling, some smoking, and keeping no semblance to an orderly march, not to speak of the lockstep.

A little later I saw them playing rounders in what has been described as an animal cage, but which is a large railed in inclosure with a locked gate, the object being to economize guards who would be necessary if the men were allowed to exercise and play in the open yard. Apart from deprivation of liberty, it constitutes no hardship.

Mr. Ginnell in the Cage.

Also I saw Lawrence Ginnell, a member for many years of the English parliament, exercising in the cage by himself. Mr. Ginnell was serving six months for seditious speeches and he informed me he prefers to exercise alone, as he is unable to hold his own with the other politicals who nearly all are very young men.

Also I sampled the food, which is good and seemed to be plentiful. The bread especially, of which complaint has been made, is much better than the bread I have been eating for months in London and paying good money for.

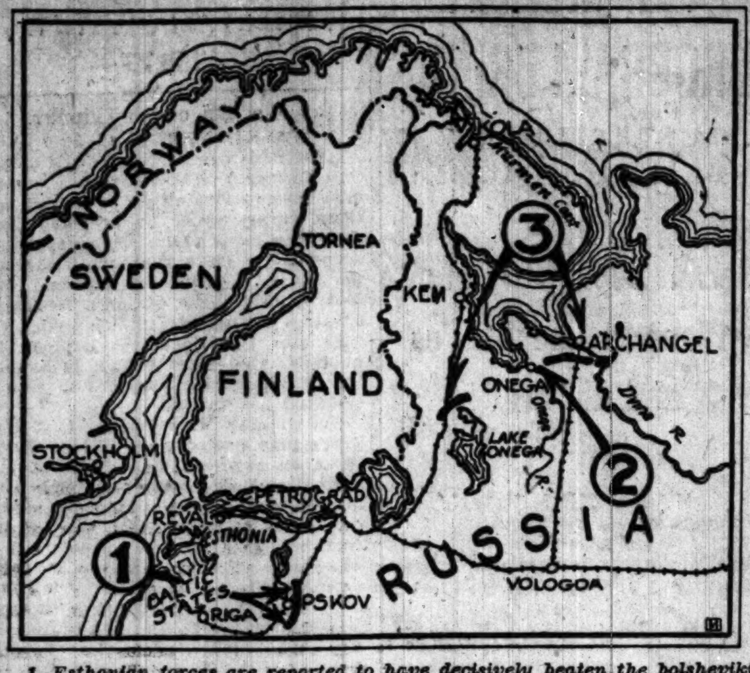
Gov. Munroe told me that the political prisoners are entitled to many privileges. They wear their own clothes as I saw. They are allowed to exercise, play, and talk freely together, which I also saw. They may be in the open air from 10 to 12 o'clock of mornings and from 2:30 to 5 in the afternoon, while the ordinary prisoners are allowed only two hours of exercise daily and may not speak to each other.

Have Own Food.

The politicals also are allowed to have their own food sent in, and, if they desire, their own books and papers, except seditious publications. They may have their own toilet articles. They may write and receive letters every day and have two visits weekly. Ordinary prisoners are entitled only to one visit after fifty-six days and one each twenty-eight days thereafter.

The politicals also are not subject to punishment for failure in discipline as are the ordinaries, and this explains the comparative lack of cleanliness in the political cells. The cells of the ordinary prisoners are scrupulously clean, while those of the politicals, who are not punished for their lack of thoroughness in cleaning, while not offensive, are far from the spic and span condition of the ordinary inmates.

BOLSHEVIKS WIN AND LOSE



1. Esthonian forces are reported to have decisively beaten the bolsheviki in a battle near Pskov. Immediately afterward they assumed the offensive and are driving the Red army back in confusion.

2. The Russian volunteer troops on the Onega front, who were coöperating with the British, have gone over to the bolsheviki. The Onega front is now entirely in the hands of the bolsheviki.

3. The railroad front on the Kola-Kem-Petrograd railway is still in the hands of the British. Their numbers are few, but they seem to be still masters of the situation. Reinforcements are on the way to help them.

There have been no changes on the Archangel front.

FRENCH TROOPS ENTER SOFIA TO ESTABLISH ORDER

GENEVA, July 24.—As the result of an attack on French soldiers by Bulgarians a French regiment has arrived at Sofia, the Bulgarian capital, to disarm the local garrison, according to the Roumanian bureau at Berne.

The French contingent, the bureau states, is supplied with an equipment of rapid fire guns to back up its task of restoring order.

Bulgars Kill French.

PARIS, July 24.—A French regiment was attacked by Bulgarians as the regiment was landing at Lom Palanka, on the Danube, twenty-two miles southeast of Vidin, a few days ago, according to a dispatch from Belgrade today. A lively fusillade ensued, lasting three hours. Three French soldiers were killed.

NOTHING TO SAY BY JAPAN UNTIL GERMANY ACTS

Washington, D. C., July 24.—[Special.]—The state department, following Secretary Lansing's return to Washington today, was given a clear intimation by Japan that no public declaration relating to the return of Shantung to China will be made until Germany has turned over to Japan the title to Shantung rights. Under the terms of the treaty Germany has three months in which to do this.

Secretary Lansing saw the president for the first time since his return from Paris, but nothing was made public regarding their conference.

In his conference with newspaper correspondents the secretary declined to discuss the peace treaty and was particularly reticent with reference to the Shantung settlement, which he is said to have opposed.

FRIEND AND FOE OF LEAGUE BALK AT TAFT PANACEA

Democrats for Treaty as It Stands; G. O. P. in Senate Unyielding.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., July 24.—[Special.]—Fearing President Wilson's unyielding attitude towards reservations may wreck the peace treaty, including the league of nations, ex-President Taft today went over the head of Mr. Wilson in appealing directly to Democratic leaders in the senate to line up for his compromise program disclosed yesterday.

Among those he communicated with was Senator Hitchcock, Nebraska, pilot of the administration forces; but Mr. Taft found the Nebraska senator and his Democratic colleagues standing stanchly behind the president and showing no disposition to abandon their bitter opposition to any qualification of the treaty.

Both Sides Noncommittal.

Mr. Taft's program of compromise "interpretations," outlined in letters to Will H. Hays, chairman of the Republican national committee, evoked little response, in fact, from either side today.

Opposition leaders said that while it would undoubtedly influence public opinion against unreserved acceptance, it came too late to affect the senate situation.

Pro-league senators, likewise believed it would have little effect on senate action.

The group of senators opposing the entire treaty, led by Senator Borah, Idaho, and Senator Reed, Missouri, emphatically rejected Mr. Taft's proposals.

The middle group of reservationists hold the Taft plan wholly inadequate and insist they never could be satisfied with mere "interpretations."

Administration forces were unwilling to admit they were ready to yield to any such compromise.

Senator Knox, Pennsylvania, said: "We will never consent to the treaty being ratified with mere interpretations. All reservations must become a part of the treaty itself."

Means Amending Treaty.

Senator Lodge, Republican leader, said Mr. Taft's proposal to limit British league representation would amount to an amendment of the treaty itself and would require the resubmission of the treaty to the various signatory nations. He stated also that he had never seen the text of the Taft interpretations.

"Mr. Hays called me on the telephone this morning," the senator said, "and told me he had read in the morning papers the letters of Mr. Taft to himself, but had not yet received them. He was on his way to Michigan and presumed they would overtake him."

Senator Moses, New Hampshire, Republican, foreign relations committee member, said Mr. Taft's compromise came too late.

Senator Borah issued this statement: "Mr. Taft's letter, when analyzed, says three things: First, that the interpretations are not necessary; second, that even if made they will be ineffective; third, that we have got to have votes. I agree with him as to the second proposition, and I thank him for the admission of the third."

Treaty as It Stands O. K.'d.

New York, July 24.—Following publication of certain interpretations in the senate acceptance of the peace treaty suggested by former President Taft, officers of the League to Enforce Peace, of which Mr. Taft is head, tonight issued a statement saying "the league and Mr. Taft have been and now are in favor of ratifying the treaty as it stands without reservations or amendments."

Britain Cancels Orders for Ships Worth $210,000,000

LONDON, July 24.—Since the signing of the armistice the British admiralty has canceled orders for 526 ships, resulting in a net saving of $210,000,000. This announcement was made during the course of the naval debate in the house of commons tonight by T. J. MacNamara, parliamentary secretary of the admiralty.

VIOLATION OF FRENCH TREATY LAID TO WILSON

Pledge to Send Alliance to Senate Broken, G. O. P. Says.

Senator Moses, "whether he believes that if a different attitude had prevailed here, the president would have been able to save China and prevent the shame of Shantung?"

"I am not able to answer," replied Senator Hitchcock. "But he has been over there alone contending for ideals of justice. He would have been stronger if it had been known that the senate, his partner in the treaty making power, was supporting him here.

"It is in extremely poor taste, this effort to hamstring him and stab him in the back, while he was away, and now to attack him because he has failed to get everything he hoped to secure."

Senator Brandegee criticized the president's policy of inviting certain Republican senators to White House conferences, stating that "having tried his case before the senate as the jury the president now sends for the individual jurymen."

COMPLETE PLANS FOR BEVERIDGE'S TALK ON LEAGUE

Arrangements have been completed for the massmeeting at the Auditorium next Tuesday evening, when former Senator A. J. Beveridge will speak on the league of nations under the auspices of the League for American Independence, of which Henry Watterson is the head.

A committee including Senator Medill McCormick, Speaker David Shanahan, Col. Abel Davis, Fred W. Upham, and Col. J. V. Clinnin, who have the meeting in charge, will provide a limited number of free reserved seats, which may be obtained at the box office in advance. All other seats will be open to the public. Palliara's band will play.

It is announced critics of the league covenant as it stands now do not intend to let President Wilson have a monopoly of stumping the country. Senator Hiram Johnson has completed a tour of New England. Senator Reed [Democrat] of Missouri has toured the south. Mr. Beveridge's Chicago speech will be one of several he will make in the west. Col. Watterson and other officers of the League for American Independence propose to resume their speaking campaign and carry it through to the Pacific coast after the president has started his trip.

FRENCH ASSERT U. S. RIOTS MEAN NEGROES' REVOLT

Papers Say Lack of Color Line Abroad Impressed Colored Yanks.

BY JOHN DE GANDT.
[United News Staff Correspondent.]

PARIS, July 24.—The American Negro encountered no color line in France. Returned to the United States, he is determined never again to submit to race segregation in either society, business, or politics.

Two leading French newspapers—Premier Clemenceau's L'Homme Libre and L'Avenir—in their editorial columns today thus diagnosed the trouble which led to the sanguinary race riots in Washington.

First "Feeler" of Revolt.

The Washington riots do not represent a sporadic outbreak, in the belief of L'Homme Libre. They are the "feelers" to test the strength and determination of whites and blacks and a possible forerunner to more widespread revolt, the paper believes.

"The attitude of the Negro movement in America," says L'Homme Libre, "leaves it supposable that a general Negro upheaval may develop.

L'Avenir Reviews Problem.

L'Avenir reviews the problem at some length, saying: "The American prejudice against color is well known. There are special hotels and restaurants for Negroes, and in trains special cars and compartments are set apart for them. They are not encouraged to enter cafés, restaurants or theaters frequented by whites, except as servants.

"Until now the Negro population of the United States has accepted this condition. But war has developed in them the spirit of revolt. This is why: American Negroes came to France in thousands and mixed in our public and national life like any one else, entering cafés, where their business was solicited, and eating at whatever restaurants they pleased."

METHODISTS HIT AT KAHN.

Washington, D. C., July 24.—[Special.]—The charge by Representative Kahn of California that Washington race riots were due to prohibition was challenged today by the board of temperance of the Methodist Episcopal church in a statement made public through its secretary, Deets Pickett.

"Instead of talking nonsense Mr. Kahn should be seeking a way to minimize friction and secure better adjustment of racial relations," he said.

IMMEDIATE SALE OF SURPLUS WAR FOOD IS ASKED

House Committee Scores Baker for Wasting Large Stock.

Washington, D. C., July 24.—Immediate sale of the $120,000,000 surplus stock of foodstuffs held by the war department under a plan which will "insure opportunity for the people of the United States to buy" was recommended today by the ten Republican members of the house war investigating committee.

The five Democratic committeemen withheld decision pending a review of evidence taken by a subcommittee headed by Representative Reavis of Nebraska.

The full committee, of which Representative Graham of Illinois is chairman, adopted a resolution embodying its suggestion, and Representative Graham announced that he would ask the rules committee tomorrow to report in a special rule for consideration of the resolution.

Democratic members of the committee will file a minority report and oppose the adoption of the resolution.

Charges in Reavis Report.

"The present high prices of food products and the need of the government for money suggests the necessity for the preliminary report relating to the war department's nonactivities in the sale of the very large quantities of food supplies now held in storage in the United States," says the Reavis report.

"In view of the tremendous quantities of food the government had on hand Nov. 11, 1918, and the demobilization of the armed forces, it at once became apparent that the war department possessed an immense quantity of food beyond the needs of the army.

"Actuated by this condition, Gen. Peyton C. March, chief of staff on Nov. 30, 1918, nineteen days after the armistice, issued an order authorizing the declaration of a surplus on all perishable food products.

"Inexcusable Delay."

"The next step was the declaration of surplus by the quartermaster general, and the last step was the sale of the surplus supplies by the director of sales. Notwithstanding the authorization of surplus by the chief of staff on Nov. 30, no action was taken with reference to declaring a surplus until May, 1919, or six months after the declaration was authorized. In the meantime the food was deteriorating and the high cost of living for the American people continued.

"This inexcusable delay resulted in the spoiling of millions of pounds of ham and bacon, to the great loss of the government and the people, who were in need of the meat food products. The inactivities of the government in the disposition of these food supplies was and is the result of a well defined policy of the secretary of war to withhold them from the domestic market and to protect the interests from which these products had been purchased, with the ultimate intention of disposing of them abroad so far as circumstances would permit."

Prince of Wales at White House in October

Washington, D. C., July 24.—The Prince of Wales will not come to Washington until the end of October, according to information received here. It is understood he will cross Canada to British Columbia, then enter the United States by way of Detroit.

Sir Sidney Greville, controller of the prince's household, and a high Canadian officer, will accompany the prince on his travels.

While in Washington the prince will be quartered in a residence provided by the government, although it may be that, following the precedent set by King George, when the president and Mrs. Wilson visited London, the prince will be a guest at the White House.

U. S. to Build Two Liner Goliaths; Can Use in War

Washington, D. C., July 24.—Two gigantic ocean liners, larger than any ships now afloat, and designed to cross the Atlantic in four days, are to be built by the shipping board. They will be 1,000 feet long, of thirty knots' speed, and will be equipped for use as commerce destroyers in event of war.

The ships will be fifty feet longer than the Leviathan and will have a gross tonnage of 55,000.

Karolyi Coming to U. S. for Better Hungary Terms

VIENNA, July 24.—[By the Associated Press.]—The object of the reported attempt of Count Michael Karolyi, former president of the Hungarian republic, to sail from Italy for the United States, it is stated here, is to enlist sympathy and to secure better territorial conditions.

kidnaping, and then returned to Bangor as an alibi.

Mrs. F. C. Greene, who had Fitzgerald arrested several years ago for indecent exposure in the presence of little girls, faced Fitzgerald in the Chicago avenue station early this morning and identified him as the man she had arrested. In the morals court at that time Fitzgerald was fined $100 and costs. Mrs. Greene then lived at 631 Lincoln Park boulevard. She now lives at 200 Superior street.

Mrs. Anna Clark, 17 West Pierson street, said her daughter Florence, had been attacked July 17 by a man whose description tallies with that of Fitzgerald. Mrs. Helen Lipschutz, owner of a confectionery store near the Fitzgerald home, related a similar story regarding her 5 year old daughter Anna.

Suspect Code Telegram.

Another point regarded as important by detectives is the telegram directed to Fitzgerald at 112 East Superior street and received there yesterday. It read:

"Dear Boy: Having a fine time. Be home Sunday. Much love. MURIEL."

The terms of endearment and the sending of the message after she had learned by telephone conversations with police officials that her husband was being held are believed to constitute a code telegram.

Another Man Arrested.

The arrest of S. C. Darby was another of the day's developments. Darby was found inquiring at 114 East Superior street. His curious behavior around the Wilkinson home led Acting Lieut. Howe to detain him. He was questioned but stated he knew nothing of the case and was making the rounds of the neighborhood on business.

Scores of anonymous phone calls continued to pour into the East Chicago avenue station regarding the case. At 11 o'clock last night an unidentified person called and said the missing girl could be found in room 400 Morrison hotel.

Detective Sergeant Michael Trant hurried to the hotel, but it was found that there was no room 400. A thorough search of the hotel revealed no clew to the missing girl.

Says She Saw Kidnaping.

The police attached importance to a phone call that came from a woman in the neighborhood of the Wilkinson home. She declared that she had seen the girl "kidnaped by a woman in an auto." The police are withholding the name of the woman and intend to question her today.

An iceman's son told of seeing the child buying some ice; a west side woman was certain that she had seen the girl early yesterday morning in a Logan Square playground.

There were other clews—many of them—and they were followed diligently by the police and Janet's anxious father.

Father Offers $500 Reward.

Following a long day of searching the father offered $500 reward for any trace of the child that would lead to finding her. He is proprietor of a small grocery and he stated he was willing to give every penny he had in the world if he could recover his child.

HER CHILD "LOSTED"

Last week it was "baby doll" who was "losted." And "baby doll" she is. It was Janet's title for the dollie she loved "mostest."

"You know, mamma, we have nicer dollies, but I love her best," Janet Wilkinson had reminded the mother, and the mother laughed—for she could laugh then.

Yesterday she sat amid the sorrowing group of her friends and loved ones and repeated it all—"and now it's my baby doll who is lost," and she added the prayer of all the mothers who have ever had "losted" little girls that Dollie might come back——

"I had put baby doll away from her," mourned the mother, "for she was such an ugly doll. No wig, it had been torn off, nothing but a shabby skirt——" and the mother fondled the poor battered doll. It was the caress the child could not give.

"Then they played dolls after she had fretted so long. She liked the big doll her daddy bought at Christmas, for its eyes were large and blue—just like hers—but it was baby doll she loved the most——" and the mother could not go on with the story of her Dollie's doll, the story of Dollie who is losted, too.

DR. ROBERTSON OFFERS WAY TO CUT H. C. L. 40%

Health Chief Suggests Co-operative Plan of Buying.

"If I could control Chicago's food as I control the food of inmates of Chicago hospitals and institutions under the health department I could cut the annual death rate 20 per cent."

This statement was made by Health Commissioner John Dill Robertson last night after a conference with Attorney Robert S. Iles, counsel for the newly appointed city food commission, which will meet in the mayor's office Tuesday afternoon to take up ways and means to curtail the high cost of living.

Then Dr. Robertson sent for his file and showed the prices at which food for the city controlled institutions is bought. He showed that while in most of the items the amount bought is less than that consumed by the occupants of the average twelve flat building, the price paid by the city is approximately 60 per cent of the price paid by the dwellers in such a building for the same products, bought from retail grocers, one family at a time.

Buy from Lowest Bidder.

"We figure the amount of each item that will be needed for the succeeding thirty days," said Dr. Robertson. "Then we advertise for bids, and buy from the lowest bidder.

"Each inmate gets enough to eat and in ratio of elements of diet that guarantees the best health results. If the same system could be followed all through Chicago the death rate could be cut one-fifth at least. If apartment buildings with ten or a dozen families would buy on such a system they ought to be able to get the same prices."

Then the doctor brought out a list of over 100 items from which the following are selected as typical.

Comparative Prices.

The retail store prices and the prices paid by the city institutions under the contract system compare this way:

Article, per lb.—	Paid by institutions.	Paid by consumer.

*29c to city hall; 600 lbs. daily.

There are dozens of other items on the doctor's marketing list, but those given make it possible for the housewife to compare the prices.

Sugar Prices Jump.

Sugar became the absorbing item of interest among the jobbers yesterday when wholesale prices jumped to $12.50 and $13.00 per hundredweight, with little or no stock available. Grocers in many districts limited their sale to two pounds per customer, but continued to sell, in most cases, at the old rate of 11 cents per pound. This paradox, of the retailer selling at a lower rate than the wholesaler, was due to the fact that they were selling stock bought up until the 10th of July, when the price ranged from $9.00 to $10.10 per hundred.

CITY COWBOYS MOUNT AUTOS TO SEE OMAHA

Duty or Dreams of Fiery Mustang Keeps Robertson Here.

BY CHARLES MACARTHUR.

Schuyler, Neb., July 24.—[Special.]—There were ninety and nine of the city hall faithful when Mayor Thompson's special pulled into Omaha this afternoon. Health Commissioner John Dill Robertson was the missing member of the flock. There was some speculation as to why the doctor missed the train, and the conclusion was that he had remained behind to guide Controller George F. Harding aright in his administration of municipal affairs. Another theory was that the health commissioner feared he might be called upon to straddle a razor back mustang on reaching Cheyenne. Ald. John P. Garner also is an absentee, owing to the illness of his mother. Corporation Counsel Ettelson didn't come, but he did not expect to.

Faherty Wins Big Stake.

With the single exception of the mayor, every one in the party slept until nearly noon. After a light luncheon a brisk rummy contest developed in the mayor's car, in which M. J. Faherty, president of the board of local improvements, was the big winner. His gains totaled 8 cents. This amount he promised to donate to the Twelfth street widening fund.

A simple solution of the cinder nuisance was discovered by Dr. William H. Reid, smoke inspector, who found that by closing all the windows of the train the cinders did not easily enter the coaches.

A small crowd gathered at the Omaha station and regarded the mayor as he posed for several photographers.

Several members of the party, including the mayor and Chief of Police Garrity, all in their shirt sleeves, rented autos and made a flying trip through the business section of Omaha. Frank H. Mesce and Charles Fitzmorris, the mayor's secretary, strolled about the town in their house slippers.

Plans Flying Regulations.

Just before leaving Omaha, Mayor Thompson said to reporters there:

"I am going to do everything I can to help establish laws for regulation of airships of every kind when they fly over Chicago. If dirigibles containing inflammable gases are permitted to fly over cities certain aerial lines of travel should be designated and licensed regulation of aircraft be provided for those using them.

"I am opposed to permitting any airship which uses inflammable and explosive gases to pass over a city. Laws governing and regulating the use of aircraft over cities are bound to come in the future, and a start on them might just as well be made now as after while. I am for such laws and I shall do everything I can to make them practical and safe."

Get Frantic Appeal.

When leaving Omaha the mayor received a frantic message concerning the city's one piece bathing suit controversy.

"Send Garrity back at once," the message said. "Hundreds of women clad only in one piece suits are storming the city hall."

It was signed "Lucy Page Gaston." Half of the boosters reached for their time tables and were only dissuaded from returning at once when it was discovered that the wire was William D. McJunkin's little joke on the party.

Cheyenne will be reached at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning. A mounted escort of cowboys will be at the station to meet the mayor, and it is possible the arrival of the party may be accompanied by a municipal parade. Placards extolling the city of Chicago and the administration have been strung along the entire train and copies of a Mayor Thompson song, written by John B. Strasburger, a member of the party, are being distributed broadcast.

WAVES OF FIRE DRIVEN BY GALE MENACE TOWNS

Miles of Upper Michigan Forests Blaze Like Furnaces; Baffle Fighters.

Detroit, Mich., July 24.—High winds continued today to drive fires at a rapid rate through pine forests, brush and over the prairie lands of upper Michigan and the northern counties of the lower peninsula.

Reports from fire wardens in half a dozen counties indicate that the situation is more threatening than at any time this year.

In the upper peninsula, forests around Trout lake and Raco appear to be the scenes of the largest fires which have been sweeping along unchecked for four days.

Railroad men who have passed through the district say the woods for miles along the right of way are a seething furnace and the fires are so scattered that efforts of fire fighters are all but useless; only a heavy rain, they say, will check the blaze.

One village, Dollar Settlement, was destroyed yesterday a short time after the residents had abandoned their homes.

State Police Fighting Fire.

So far as known no towns in lower Michigan are in peril. The fires have been burning in scattered localities for several weeks, and most villages have taken ample precautionary measures. Over 200 members of the state police joined the forces of the fire wardens today in fighting the flames.

Thousands of acres of Kalkaska county plains, parched by several weeks' drought, have been burned over, causing heavy loss to farmers. Many fires also are reported in Delta and Charlevoix counties.

Wisconsin Village Endangered.

Green Bay, Wis., July 24.—Forest fires threatened Ephraim in Door county, according to a long distance telephone message received here this afternoon from Sturgeon Bay. Later word was that the fire was under control and the town probably would be saved.

JURY HEARS OF PRO-GERMANISM IN FORD PLANT

500 Employes Suspected of Disloyalty, Department Head Says.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.

Mount Clemens, Mich., July 24.—[Special.]—Revelations of the extent of pro-German sentiment in the Ford factory during the war period were made today in the Ford-TRIBUNE libel trial through testimony of Edwin F. Clemett, one of the Ford company department heads. He said there were reports in his possession indicating 500 men in the plant who were pro-German.

Investigations were made and reports read today signed by operatives of the American Protective league, of which Mr. Clemett and several other Ford men were officers. About 400 employés of the factory were members of the league, spying on their fellow workers.

Henry Ford's attitude toward this situation, particularly his refusal to discharge Carl Emde, the man named in the Hughes report, was made plain. The Ford attorneys showed that the government knew all the facts, and that no action was taken. Mr. Ford did not discharge any of the men, although he was urged by his own people to do so.

500 Pro-Germans Estimated.

Mr. Clemett was examined by Attorney Elliott G. Stevenson for THE TRIBUNE.

Q.—How many pro-Germans were found in your plant? A.—We had, I would say, about 500 reports on men that would indicate from the report that they were pro-Germans.

Q.—Now, there was a long report submitted by you to Mr. Hughes, was there not? A.—There was.

Q.—Some months before Mr. Hughes came there these reports had been compiled and presented to Mr. Ford at a conference at which Mr. Lee, Mr. Martin, Mr. Kindsen, and Mr. Jewett were present? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—Recommendation was made at that conference, was it not, in connection with this report submitted? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—That among others, Mr. Emde should be removed from his work? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—The report was presented to Mr. Ford for consideration? A.—Yes, sir.

Q.—And the report that you had there, to present to Mr. Ford, and later was presented to Mr. Hughes, contained the report of operatives, members of the Protective league, in the plant, who had been investigating the attitude of men working for the company, as being pro-German? A.—Yes, sir.

Not All German Born.

The witness then identified the following letter as having been written to Henry Ford by J. I. White of 42 Watson street, Detroit:

"My purpose is only to let you know why I, a Yankee through and through, and a native born Michigander, could not continue to work in your tool design department, which is under Carl Emde and his German friends, and when I say German friends, I intend to include all in this particular department who are bosses or straw bosses. The ones who are not German sympathizers can easily be distinguished from the rest. They are not all German born, either. There were two I have in mind who are American born, but that does not seem to worry them at all. They are for Germany and against America and Uncle Sam."

Mr. Clemett said an investigation followed the letter. It was made by Fred R. Gillen, who reported confirming White's statement of quitting the tool designing room "because it was too d—d pro-German for him."

From "Operative 852."

Some testimony in the report given by Operative 852 was then read:

"Work seems to be going on better since the day that P. E. M. gave Oswald and Emde the talk on Nov. 20, but if the getting out of the work depended upon Oswald the Germans could whip 100 worlds.

"Emde has every authority, Oswald apparently none, and it seems the assistants are messenger bearers to Emde to have him come and look at, be O. K. or condemn a job. W. Pioch had made the remark: 'Some one is trying to get the old man, but he will get the some ones first.'

"If Emde is very loyal, why did he not report the reasons given by some of the men for not giving to the Y. M. C. A.? For example, Wasbauer stated: 'I don't believe in this —— —— —— war, anyhow, and the way to stop it is not to support it.'

Wouldn't Make Munitions.

"Oswald, second in charge in the drafting room, exercises very little executive ability; has at various times shown a decided apathy in getting work through the room. Has encouraged men in killing time by remarking such as 'O, hell, don't kill yourself and work yourself gray around here. I am not, and don't intend to.' This was while the liberty motor work was being done. He lauds the kaiser and German institutions; refuses to answer the phone, but tells his clerk to say 'Busy' when in reality talking war and subjects by the hour. He is said to have remarked: 'If we make munitions every damned German will quit.'"

Alien Visits Factory.

Mr. Stevenson asked the witness:

Q.—Have you given us all about Pioch? A.—Here is a report in which Mr. Pioch's name is mentioned (reading): "Oct. 15, 1917. Received from Mr. Cole's office, Oct. 15, 1917. A. Oberhausken, German citizen, refused to be naturalized. He does not have a permit. Visits Ford Motor company, last time being Oct. 11, from 8:30 until 10:30. The following men, all United States citizens by paper, denounce the United States government: C. Emde, E. A. Oswald, E. Wisroth, W. T. Pioch, Steven Stoy. Pioch is of German extraction, born in Bay City, Mich. His every word and action have been pro-German. He has been heard to make many remarks as to the impropriety of the United States entering the war against Germany."

Threaten Wilson's Life.

Gillen's report on one R. R. Gieske was then presented in evidence, as follows:

"Re Ralph R. Gieske, 214 Hendricks, Detroit. Age 24, American born, married, no children. This man by his own statement is a Socialist, according to John Burgess, 201 Laurel street, Royal Oak, corroborated by Ernest Greenman, Curtis street, lot 100, Fairview sub, Greenfield. The following conversation took place at this place yesterday:

"'During lunch hour Burgess was seated at his bench reading this morning's Free Press. The heading was "Million Men to France at Once." Burgess stated that would probably mean 2,000,000 men would be drafted. Gieske stated, "Yes, and another million to go to Washington to kill the —— of a President Wilson and the rest of the gang." Burgess asked him if he meant what he said, and Gieske said, "Yes, I mean every word that I said. I will be the first to pick up a gun to shoot the —— of a president." Burgess told Gieske that he was going to report him to the federal authorities, and consequently Gieske met him after working hours on the street and told him that if he reported him (Gieske) that he would immediately kill him.'

"We have interviewed Gieske, Burgess, and Greenman and we feel that some action should be taken in this matter. We have decided to discharge Gieske, but will delay doing so for a day or two, as we feel that if you wish to get him it would be much easier if he were in our employ. Will you kindly advise what action you wish taken in this matter?"

Mr. Stevenson asked:

Q.—He was arrested, wasn't he? A.—Yes.

Q.—Fined? A.—Gieske was fined $300 or six months by Judge Tuttle of the United States District court. Gieske paid the fine and was released.

Q.—Without desiring to repeat questions, I would be glad if you would give us all that related to Mr. Emde, which I understood was all read to Mr. Ford? A.—Yes, sir (reading). "Emde is overbearing and generally disliked by the men. He favors Germans and pro-Germans in promoting and in awarding yearly bonuses. He has been extremely apathetic in getting work through, especially from the advent of government work in the factory to about Oct. 12. Previous to the talk in C. H. Wills' office, Oct. 12, conversations of an hour or more were held upon the war, Germany, German institutions, Germany's excellent laws, paternalism, military prowess, German generals, and their qualifications and characteristics were common.

No One Discharged.

"When United States declared war Emde and Oswald both quit buying newspapers for some time. When building furnace to anneal aeroplane cylinders Loftus advised to build one only to try because of the expense. Reply of Emde was, 'Let the government pay for it; we should worry.'"

As evidences of pro-Germanism accumulated, Mr. Clemett and his fellow A. P. L. men grew anxious to get rid of this dangerous element. They went to the military intelligence bureau, whose agents were in the factory, and to the department of justice, "trying to get action," as Mr. Clemett said. No one ever was discharged.

Emde's "Sacrifice."

Henry Ford listened to the reports on Emde and stood like a rock against the desire of his associates to discharge the men. He insisted that nothing had been shown him to prove the man was dangerous. Mr. Ford suggested that the time was coming when all would be called upon to make sacrifices, and that, perhaps, Emde was making his at the time, in working on war material which was t be used against Germany.

THE TRIBUNE attorneys expect to conclude their case tomorrow.

KEEP STREAMS PURE!

A Letter That Will Give Comfort to Mr. Sam Brooke and His Finned and Feathered Friends.

Chicago, July 24.

To THE TRIBUNE, Chicago.

[Attention, Eye Witness.]

My Dear Sir: I read with no little interest your article in this morning's TRIBUNE, the "Lamentation of Forester Sam Brooke on the Pollution of Thorn Creek."

It is not necessary that this stream or the tracts through which it runs be declared a fish and game preserve to remedy the evils complained of. It is only necessary for a citizen of this state to file a complaint with the rivers and lakes commission of Illinois stating the facts, and then seeing it through by the proper push; that is, by pushing one notch faster than will the corporations responsible for the pollution, who, corporation like, will not be particularly favorable to an order compelling them to find some other cannel to carry away their waste chemicals.

The following excerpt from the laws of Illinois (an act approved June 30, 1913) will show at a glance the powers of the rivers and lakes commission to remedy the situation:

"It shall be the duty of said rivers and lakes commission to see that all of the streams and lakes of the state of Illinois, wherein the state of Illinois, of any of its citizens, has any rights or interests, are not polluted or defiled by the deposit or addition of any injurious substances, so that fish or other aquatic life is destroyed. And if, upon investigation, the commission shall find that any of such streams and lakes are so polluted and defiled, or are injuriously affected by the discharging therein of any foul or injurious substances so that fish or other aquatic life is destroyed, it shall be the duty of the said commission to enter an order commanding the abatement of such nuisances within such time as may be fixed by the commission."

If this will be of any value to you in bringing the matter before the people who ought to get busy, I will feel that I have been of service to the people, Sam Brooke, and his little fishes.

A MEMBER OF THE BAR.

PALMER REPLIES TO CHARGES OF UNFAIR DEALING

Attorney General Says Alien Property Claims Are Courts' Business.

Washington, D. C., July 24.—A. Mitchell Palmer, before the senate judiciary subcommittee, today renewed his fight for senate confirmation of his nomination as attorney general, and again vigorously defended his administration as alien property custodian.

He replied to charges of improper administration of alien enemy property, made by Harold Remington, a New York lawyer, and Leslie S. Kennard, an Indiana attorney holding a position in the alien property custodian's office.

Fears Breach of Ethics.

Mr. Remington, appearing before the committee in person, declared that as the department of justice must pass on many acts and claims of the alien property custodian's office, Mr. Palmer's appointment as attorney general was highly improper.

General charges of improper administration were made by Mr. Kennard in a statement recently submitted to the committee by Senator New, Republican, of Indiana, and answered today by Mr. Palmer, who presented an affidavit from Mr. Kennard repudiating his previous statement.

Question for Courts.

In reply to Mr. Remington, Mr. Palmer argued that the justice of claims could not be decided by the attorney general, but must be determined by the federal courts, which he said had upheld his views of the powers of the custodian of alien property whenever they had been tested.

Mr. Palmer said that with the approval of the president Turkish property in the United States was not seized because there was little of it and seizure might have provoked barbarous reprisal against Americans in Turkey.

Mr. Palmer will appear again tomorrow. Kennard was to appear, but could not be located today.

WOMAN, 85, MISSING FOUR DAYS.

Mrs. Maggie Heinz, 634 West Thirty-second street, has been missing since Monday, when she was seen going shopping. She is 85 years old, about 5 feet 4 inches tall, and weighs about 115 pounds. She wore among other articles a black and brown striped skirt and white waist and a black shawl. Miss Helen Markiuwicz of the same address, her grandchild, wishes information regarding her.

'E-MOTIONAL DAY' WELCOMES 803D TO HOME TOWN

Kisses, Jazz Music, and Fried Chicken Mark Return.

It was an "e-motional" day for Chicago's colored file closers of the 803d Pioneer infantry. Sergt. Abner Jackson of the "ole 2d battalion" told the world so late yesterday as he stood, smiling broadly, in the midst of the farewell cyclone of home folks, bidding their boys good-by at the Grand Central station.

"'Tween luscious kisses, jazz music, home folks an' fried chicken, you sho' have strained this heah reg'ment to the bustin' point!" he told the crowd. "So long fo' a few minutes. This am the beaucoupest town they is to come back to!"

That "Goes" for All of 'Em.

That goes all along for the 1,200 officers and men in the city's last outfit of colored soldiers, who were kissed, feasted, and paraded to the limit, from the time they fell into welcoming arms in the station at 8:30 o'clock a. m. until 3:30 p. m., when they pulled out for Camp Grant and demobilization.

Lieut. Col. A. J. Adler, who commanded the homecoming push, with Majors J. E. White and George Bronson, Captains S. L. Hypes and Wesley A. Behel, and other white officers of Chicago, who whipped the regiment into shape and helped make its record behind the lines at Toul, found the reception almost too much for discipline.

Real Home Cooking.

Forming at the station with a rear guard of happy relatives, the regiment marched to Grant park for its visit with home folks and for the huge dinner served under canvas, where real home cooking, emerging from a thousand well packed picnic baskets, supplemented the city banquet.

At 2 p. m. they formed behind the 165th Infantry band for their parade through the loop, and were cheered all along the line, ending their victory march at the station.

Colored workers of the Red Cross canteen distributed good things to eat at the station, and smokes at the banquet to make the day complete.

'L' Patrons Walk 10 Blocks as Current "Goes on Strike"

A number of citizens who have their habitat in the northern end of our village last night packed away a little training against the day the unions will make everybody walk. The electricity between the Bryn Mawr and Loyola elevated stations went on a strike or walkout or something, and pasengers were given nice little credit slips at either station and told to carry them to the other if they wished to ride. It was a nice little stroll of about ten blocks.

SAYS WILLIAMS COVETED STOCK IN COAL MINES

Washington, D. C., July 24.—A. E. Jones, counsel for independent stockholders of the old First National bank of Uniontown, Pa., testifying today before the senate banking committee, charged John Skelton Williams, controller of the currency, with unfair management of the bank's affairs after its failure.

Mr. Jones said 10,000 shares of coal mine stock had been turned over to the controller under an agreement by which J. V. Thomson, president of the bank, was to be given an opportunity to redeem it for $750,000.

The witness also testified that Mr. Williams had this stock assigned to himself, and that the controller's representative went to a meeting of bank stockholders and controlled that meeting for the purpose of bringing about the sale of the coal stock.

"The only conclusion any reasonable man can draw is that Mr. Williams wanted the stock or was a party to proceedings that would enable some of his friends to get it," Mr. Jones said.

"The charges are absolutely without basis," said Mr. Williams, who followed Mr. Jones before the committee. "I want to denounce Mr. Jones as a contemptible slanderer."

Sincere Personal Service

Greater Factory Efficiency and Surface Protection

Sherwin-Williams handle all of a factory's painting needs on a basis of operative efficiency as well as of economic surface protection and maintenance. This raises your painting necessities to the same systematic basis you inaugurated in your other business affairs. It greatly simplifies the work of maintenance engineers, makes it easy to meet promptly and continuously both present and future requirements, as thoroughly anticipated in this plan.

Sherwin-Williams Standardization Paint Plans

Cover the three great necessities of business—protecting plant and equipment; protecting and making most salable the manufactured article; stimulating the efficiency of operatives through finer working surroundings; and accomplishing the above on a basis of far greater initial and subsequent economy.

S-W Mor-Lite Egg Shell Mill White

Embodies the latest science in surface treatment designed to give factories 100% lighting efficiency. By intensive light diffusion it breaks up the harsh, direct beam and disseminates light waves all over the place. It gives even, perfectly distributed illumination without intense spots of light and without dark areas or shadows. It relieves eyestrain and nerve tension among fast workers; it betters attendance, decreases spoilage and increases output by restful, refreshing atmosphere it creates. Saves light bill.

S-W Metal Protective Paints

Embody the results of scientific study and tests. The purpose was to make superior paints for embodying the following qualities:—Impermeable to air and water; quick, firm drying; high resistance against abrasion; Elasticity to expansion and contraction; elimination of chemical re-action; chemical inertness and neutrality toward iron and steel; greater durability and covering capacity.

S-W Danger Red

On signals, fire equipment, sprinkler systems, electric conduits, throws out a brilliant warning; prevents many accidents and much damage loss. It also embodies highly protective qualities as a metal, fiber and wood protecting paint.

Sherwin-Williams also make specialized paints to protect factory roofs, chimneys, walls and foundations of every material—brick, metal, concrete, wood, stone, stucco and fiber.

S-W Dado Enamel

For basing light-colored walls with a washable strip, shoulder-high to prevent finger marks, oil splashes from machines, rubbing from greasy overalls, hands, elbows, and from scarring by abrasion, etc. Dado is very durable and can be scoured clean repeatedly.

S-W Roof and Bridge Paint

This paint represents great value, as it is made from the salvage of remnants of various batches of paint that would sell for a much higher price. It will work equally as well over wood or iron, where the colors would be satisfactory. We list it in Black, Brown, Red, Dark Green and Dark Gray.

S-W Concrete Floor Finish

Protects factory floors against the wear of heavy trucking and other freight handling. It fills pores, prevents moisture and atmosphere erosion, and gives tough, long enduring surface, easy to keep clean.

S-W Phenolene

Is a powerful disinfectant and germicide—more efficient than carbolic acid. But it is entirely harmless, safe and unequaled for personal use. A great help to cut down the absentee record.

Booklet on Plant Maintenance

There is valuable information in this booklet for the Purchasing Agent and the Maintenance Engineer. Mailed upon request to any Plant, Factory, Mill or large paint consumer.

PEOPLE OF TEN STATES CAN KILL DRY LAW: MAYER

Referendum May Alter Legislative Acts, Chicagoan Says.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., July 24.—[Special.]—Levy Mayer of Chicago, chief counsel for the Association Opposed to National Prohibition, has prepared a statement on the status of referendum proceedings on the prohibition constitutional amendment and plans for contesting the validity of the amendment in the United States Supreme court, which, he says, will be instituted when the court convenes in October.

The statement, made public here today, was prepared because thousands of inquiries had been received by the association respecting referendum proceedings instituted in fifteen states.

Mr. Mayer takes the ground that forty-five state legislatures having ratified the prohibition amendment, it will be void if the people in ten of the states where the referendum has been instituted should reverse the action of their legislatures.

In those states whose constitutions reserve to the people the right of referendum there is a provision, in substance, that "all acts, bills, and resolutions adopted by the legislature shall not take effect until a specified time after the legislature has adjourned," Mr. Mayer says.

All Bills Are Suspended.

"During that time all such acts, bills, and resolutions are suspended and do not have the force of law. If during that time the people petition for a referendum, the act, bill, or resolution is entirely suspended until the people have voted either in favor or against the proposition. The right of referendum exists in fifteen states.

"Petitions for a referendum have already been filed in seven of the referendum states, and in the others the petitions are being circulated for signatures of voters and when the requisite number has been secured, the petitions will be presented to the proper officials. After the referendum petitions have been filed, either general or special elections must be held.

"To date, legislatures of forty-five states have ratified the eighteenth amendment. The federal constitution requires thirty-six states. Rhode Island, Connecticut and New Jersey have not ratified. If the people in ten of the referendum states that are included among the forty-five do not approve of the ratification resolutions of their respective legislatures, then only thirty-five states will have ratified the amendment and the amendment will not have received the ratification of the requisite three-fourths, and, therefore, the amendment will not have been adopted.

Going to Supreme Court.

"In addition to the referendum reasons which may form the basis of an attack on the eighteenth amendment, it will be contested in the Supreme court on constitutional grounds.

"The states in which the referendum proceedings have been invoked are:

"Michigan, Ohio, Missouri, Arkansas, New Mexico, Colorado, Nebraska, Washington, California, Nevada, Maine, Oklahoma, Oregon, Utah and Idaho. Of these fifteen, the petitions were thrown out in Oregon, Utah and Idaho. An appeal from the decisions of the highest courts of Oregon, Utah, and Idaho may be taken to the United States Supreme court."

2.75 Beer Intoxicating.

New York, July 24.—Beer of 2.75 per cent alcoholic content is held to be intoxicating within the meaning of the war time prohibition act in a decision returned to-day by Federal Judge Thomas I. Chatfield of Brooklyn in a test case brought by the government against Martin Schmauder of New Haven, Conn., who was charged with selling beer in violation of the war time prohibition law.

Ferrari-Fontana, Singer, to Marry Cuban Beauty

New York, July 24.—[Special.]—Edoardo Ferrari-Fontana, noted tenor of the Metropolitan opera, again will be a bridegroom on Monday.

The bride to be is Miss Mario Esther Tallez, a Cuban beauty, daughter of Lorenzo Tallez, wealthy sugar plantation owner of Havana and niece of Dr. Carlo Manuel de Cespedes, Cuban minister to the United States. She is 21 years old. He is 40.

It was only recently Fontana's first wife, Mme. Margarete Matzenauer, likewise a Metropolitan star, got an absolute divorce from him. He was enjoined from marrying again in New York.

Air Motors to Be Tested at Fort Sheridan Sunday

"Please inform the public," Lieut. R. J. Lacket, in charge of the aviation mechanic school for wounded soldiers at Fort Sheridan, telephoned last night, "that it is cordially invited to come out here at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon and witness an endurance test of airplane motors. There will be a Liberty twelve, rigged with the new four blade English propeller; a Hall-Scout four, and a Hispano-Suiza eight.

SEEKS WILSON'S BUSINESS POLICY

Washington, D. C., July 24.—[Special.]—H. H. Kohlsaat, former Chicago publisher, talked over with President Wilson today the high cost of living and burdensome taxes and the possibility of some relief from the income tax. He has been living in New York for the last seven months, he said, and is interested in a big business project which he says is menaced by the grip that the government now has on incomes.

Mr. Kohlsaat pointed out to the president that a friend of his made a profit of approximately $500,000 from an investment of $15,000, and that the government took upwards for $400,000 of the income.

"I asked the president if soft boiled eggs cost as much in Paris as they do in New York and Washington, and he replied that they were about the only things that did not cost less abroad," said Mr. Kohlsaat.

Mr. Kohlsaat said his talk with the president was in behalf of some "business friend." He has made two visits to the White House within the last ten days regarding the same matter, but would not say just what it was. He is one of the very few individuals, outside of officialdom, who has been accorded an audience with the president since his return.

ROBBER SLAIN AS HE RAIDS BANK 'FOR GIRL'S SAKE'

Seeks Dream Farm Cash with Gun; Killed in Wilmette Battle.

Arthur Slackerman needed $3,000 to buy a farm on which he was going to settle down with "the most wonderful girl in Chicago." He asked his uncle, William Middendorf of Wilmette, for a loan, but the uncle was unable to finance him. Driven to desperation Slackerman attempted to hold up the Wilmette State bank yesterday and lost his life—all for the girl.

The girl for whom Slackerman went to his death is believed to be Hattie Aldominowicz, his sweetheart since the two were children in Russia. Their families had migrated to Joliet and there Arthur and Hattie had renewed the childhood friendship.

Was to Marry Today.

According to a story told last night at her home in Joliet by the mother of the slain bandit, Slackerman was to have been married today in Chicago.

Since Hattie came to Chicago from Joliet she had been employed as a clerk at Marshall Field & Co. Two weeks ago she showed her friends an engagement ring, but refused to give the name of the party of the second part.

For a time she roomed with Mr. and Mrs. Silverwood in the vicinity of Jackson park. Two weeks ago she moved and left no address. Mr. Silverwood stated that a young man weighing about 160 pounds, 5 feet 9 inches in height, and light haired had often called for her.

W. Potter Holst, who partly identified the slain bandit as the man who had attempted to rob the First Trust and Savings bank last week, said his description tallied with that of the man who had been seen with Hattie Aldominowicz.

Running Battle.

Slackerman was caught nearly a half mile from the Wilmette State bank after a running revolver battle with Samuel Hoth, assistant chief of police of Wilmette. He received four bullet wounds in the chest and died an hour later at the Evanston hospital.

Shortly after the bank opened yesterday morning he dropped a check through the window of the paying teller. It read "Pay to the bearer all that you have." It was signed "Bearer." W. D. Leary, the teller, refused to act and Slackerman pulled out his gun and sent a bullet straight for the teller's heart. The bullet struck a bar of the grating and Leary dodged under the counter unhurt.

Then Slackerman started toward the door and had run several blocks before a rain of bullets felled him.

HIGH COAL PRICES AND FAMINE LAID TO PROFITEERING

Combine to Raise Cost Bared by Alabama Congressman.

Washington, D. C., July 24.—Coal operators are profiteering, George Huddleston, Alabama congressman and owner of coal lands, charged today.

"If you buy your winter coal now you'll pay exorbitant prices dictated by a combination," said Huddleston.

"But if you wait until later you may be forced to pay still more, unless congress acts or the department of justice throws a scare into the operators."

Huddleston recently asked the department of justice to investigate the coal situation.

Combine Rules Prices.

"There is no doubt that a combination, either expressed or implied, exists among men who have to do with coal production and distribution," said the Alabaman. "The combination is intended to maintain prices and restrict production."

Huddleston is the author of legislation under which congress would fix coal prices for five years at the rates fixed by the defunct fuel administration.

"Coal operators are spending a mint of money on bluff propaganda to frighten the nation into buying coal now," said Huddleston. "The propaganda is appearing as paid advertising in newspapers.

"Operators say the reason coal production has dropped off is because there is no market for coal. They declare that is the reason so many mines are idle.

Why Market Is Weak.

"The truth is that coal prices are too high. Prices now are exorbitant. That's why there is no market now.

"The propaganda threatens that a coal famine will occur next winter unless orders pour in at once. Higher prices also are threatened.

"The operators say they cannot get miners because 40,000 foreign born diggers have gone to Europe. They also say the railroads next winter will be unable to handle the coal shipments because cars will be short.

"All of this is a misstatement of facts. I have a letter from J. B. Densmore of the United States employment service, saying 1,000,000 men now are working in connection with mines, and that thousands of miners have been idle since the armistice. That shows the operators can get miners if they want them.

Plenty of Coal Cars.

"I have another letter from W. T. Taylor, director of operations in the railroad administration, stating that railroads are in better shape than for several years preceding the war. There are now on the roads, subject to federal control, he says, 975,851 coal cars, and 4,000 locomotives in good repair, ready for service.

"Does this look as if the railroads could not handle the coal shipments?"

DIES FROM OPERATION.

Mrs. Mary Van Dorph, 26 years old, 2827 Ridgeway avenue, a widow, died at the county hospital yesterday, supposedly as the result of an illegal operation. The coroner will investigate the death.

SALARY BOOST COSTS 550 JOBS

Three hundred teams, 250 men, and sixty-five foremen were laid off in the city street bureau yesterday by Felix S. Mitchell, superintendent of streets, as a beginning of the retrenchment program which the bureau must make to meet the salary raises which have been granted.

Mr. Mitchell said the order will mean a reduction of 40 per cent in street cleaning and garbage removal. Before the order took effect there were only 800 teams and 1,500 men at work, and these are now reduced to 500 teams and 1,350 men. The retrenchment order will save the city about $3,900 a day.

The bureau has $1,100,000 with which to do its work for the remainder of the year. According to Mr. Mitchell, $1,700,000 would be needed if the present standards are to be maintained.

ONE TO TEN YEARS FOR EX-GOB.

Maurice Birmingham, former sailor stationed at the Great Lakes station, was sentenced to from one to ten years in Pontiac by Judge Windes in the Criminal court yesterday on a charge of larceny.

BALKANS STILL A POWDER KEG, DR. WALKER SAYS

Guerrilla warfare will continue to stir the Balkan states and the near east until the last territorial boundary question is settled, in the opinion of Dr. Samuel J. Walker of Chicago. Dr. Walker returned home yesterday after serving ten months in Greece and Macedonia as Red Cross officer.

"Salient points in the near east situation apparent now," he said, "lie in the general hatred for Turkey and Bulgaria by the Balkan allies and wide spread confidence and admiration for the United States.

"Public sentiment in Greece is for giving the mandate of Constantinople to the United States and making international the straits between the Black and Aegean seas."

BROKER FREED OF CHARGES.

W. R. Barnet of W. R. Barnet & Co., stock brokers at 11 South La Salle street, was discharged for want of prosecution yesterday before Judge Newcomer in the South Clark street court, charged with operating a confidence game. The case grew out of delay in delivery of stocks.

WORLD LEAGUE FRAUDS AND FRAILTIES.

The league of nations covenant may be a hoax, a dream, a dose of dope or something of practical utility in human affairs. We are convinced that the elder statesmen of Europe, typified by Clemenceau, consider it a hoax. Clemenceau never before was so extremely bored by anything in his life as he was by the necessity of making a pious pretense in the covenant when what he wanted was the assurance of the triple alliance. He got that assurance which, along with the French watch on the Rhine, the French in the Saar valley and in Africa, with German money going into French coffers, makes him tolerably indulgent of the altruistic rhetoricians.

The English, the intelligent English, we know have their tongues in their cheeks. The Italians are petulant imperialists and Japan doesn't care what happens to the league so long as Japan says what shall happen in Asia.

With these facts and implications as plain as day Americans are taking the covenant as a dose of dope which will produce a dream and in this they are doing their best to deprive the league of any practical utility which it might have for the United States and for the world.

The most conspicuous American advocates of the league do not stand in agreement with their own ideas two weeks running. What is inviolable one week is subject to change the next. Mr. Taft now doubts the sincerity of President Wilson in his method of negotiation and accomplishment and concedes that changes could and should be made.

Mr. Wilson, when he made his first return trip from Europe, was convinced that not even a period could be changed in the agreement. He went back to France and consented to the change of many provisions—without vastly bettering the prospects of the United States.

What is sacred in its inspiration and statement one week is conceded the next week to be futile or faulty. And yet, if the unthoughtful enthusiasms of many Americans had stampeded the senate, the futility and the faults would have been permanently inscribed on the inviolable tablets of the United States.

What confidence can be commanded by men who asserting one week that the ultimate of human wisdom has been attained in a document confess the next week that the document is frail? When are we to believe that their confessions are at an end? When are we to know that the frailty of the document has been completely revealed?

The senate would be renegade as a treaty making authority for the American people if it did not search the agreement completely and make it stand the test of American probabilities and prospects, make it meet the requirements of American security and well being and make it conform first of all to the real needs of this and other generations in the American republic.

UP IN THE AIR AGAIN.

British diplomacy is inexorable even in its courtesies, and this comment upon its methods, however plaintive, may be regarded as ill natured. In fact, it is only fearful.

It is officially announced that the Prince of Wales will visit Washington and New York, possibly other cities. Already the United States is flying at the tail of every man's kite instead of flying its own. We shall take a higher flight.

There might be a great deal of rationality in an alliance with Great Britain if it were designed to serve American purposes by getting as much as it gave. The British observe in us no sign of an intent other than to give without getting. It is a mood to be cultivated in a rich people.

A visit by the Prince of Wales, a simple courtesy, will be diplomatically successful. We shall inevitably go up in the air at the tail of another kite.

THE RED MAN'S REVENGE.

A TRIBUNE reporter wrote an amusing story of Charlie Ward, the college bred Indian who went to Federal Judge Page's court to hear the attorneys argue whether the 2¾ per cent brew was intoxicating.

Ward said he was loafing in Chicago for a week or so and the most interesting thing he could think of doing just then was to listen to the whites discuss whether it was safe to trust themselves with a low percentage beer.

As a man of a people in parental custody Ward knew what it was to be denied intoxicants. The Indian was denied the right to make a personal decision because he had no judgment and could not exercise any self-restraint if he came in contact with alcohol. The government, seeing this, legislated for him as if he were a child.

Later the southern states, knowing that the Negroes misbehaved and might become dangerous if they got gin and hard liquors, treated them as children.

Ward's fancy was to observe the whites treating themselves as children, incapable of personal selection and good judgment in making decisions as to habit.

"Prohibition was invented for our benefit," he said, "but the white man started something. It's with the greatest of pleasure that I see him going around in the hot sun with his tongue out or gulping down unsatisfactory substitutes for beer."

It has taken a good many years to give Ward his revenge, but he has it. The stronger race has no more self-control in appetite than the weaker and confesses it. How, brother!

SETTLING THE TRACTION CONTROVERSY.

Thus far the temper of both the union leaders and the street car officials in negotiating with regard to wage demands has been such as to deserve commendation. We hope the attitude of conciliation and compromise may be continued. The prospect of a strike does not seem as menacing as a few days ago, though in presenting the demand for an eight hour day as an "ultimatum" the union leaders have admittedly paved the way for a possible tieup of the street car lines.

We do not pretend to know the merits of this phase of the controversy. The traction companies aver the demand is merely a scheme for getting higher pay, as was the case when the railway brotherhoods insisted on a "basic" eight hour day. If that is the case we think the unions should be ready to make some compromise, inasmuch as any wage settlement must be based on compromise.

The union men are entitled to the same wages and working hours as men in other cities where conditions are similar to those in Chicago. Whether they are entitled to better wages and shorter hours is a question that must be determined in part by the effect on the rate of fares. There are other working people beside the conductors and motormen whose interests are involved. We can easily conceive that a 9 or 10 cent fare would work a real hardship on a large number of these people.

JUSTICE FOR MOONEY.

The feeling has become rather widespread that Tom Mooney was not given a fair trial. Clearly the public is not sufficiently acquainted with the facts or the evidence to justify any judgment in the matter, and it is equally clear that the impression of unfairness has been instigated and fostered by labor unions.

The report of Director Densmore of the federal employment service is a statement by an accredited official that Mooney was the victim of a conspiracy on the part of tories and reactionaries. But even this statement, though apparently founded on a careful investigation, gives evidence of something closely akin to prejudice. It is not so much a report of facts as it is the argument of a special pleader or the attorney for the defense. It is not sufficient to discredit the fairness of the trial merely to charge that the prosecuting attorney consorted with the "worst elements" among San Francisco business men. Mere denunciation will not suffice.

Nevertheless, if it can be shown that these business interests, tories and reactionaries, were in fact involved in a conspiracy to hang Mooney regardless of his guilt or innocence then the case is a matter of grave concern to all people of the United States. The radicals are exploiting the Mooney trial as one of the chief illustrations of their charge that justice in this country can be influenced by wealth or political power. We believe this sort of tampering with the courts is rare, and especially rare in the United States courts, but it would be unfortunate to have it appear that even in one case justice was administered according to the desires of selfish interests. American people as a whole pride themselves on the integrity of their courts; they have faith that justice is rendered impartially to the rich and the poor, to the powerful and the weak. There is no question but the propaganda in behalf of Tom Mooney, and particularly this latest report of a federal official, tends to undermine that faith.

Inasmuch as one department of the government has made an investigation which on the face of it was more concerned with presenting conclusions than facts, it would seem to be the part of wisdom for some other department, say the department of justice, to make a thorough and impartial inquiry. The accusations of unfairness in regard to the Mooney case will continue to be exploited to the detriment of our courts until the facts are impartially determined and strict justice is done in accordance with those facts.

Editorial of the Day

RELATIONS WITH MEXICO.

[New York Times.]

If the mention of Tampico more and more suggests outrages upon American citizens, it is for two reasons: first, the oil district is overrun by rebels against the Carranza government, which was recognized by the United States in good faith early in 1918; and, again, the course of the Carranza government in imposing taxation and regulations of a confiscatory nature upon Americans engaged in developing oil lands to which they have title has caused friction between them and officials and soldiers who call themselves Carranzistas. The government recognized by the United States has formally bound itself to protect American citizens in the Tampico district, but has signally failed to prevent outrages upon them or to secure them in their property rights. Furthermore, it has persisted in its policy of arbitrary and unlawful taxation, so that the situation is rapidly becoming intolerable.

The Tampico problem is now more vexatious than the border problem. It is comparatively a simple matter to police the Mexican border when aggressions against Americans occur there, but what shall be done about Tampico, where outrages upon Americans occur almost daily? They are killed and despoiled, and the threat of taking their property from them is constantly made under forms of rapacious taxation.

The pacification of the district would be welcome at Washington. There would then remain the settlement of the oil controversy. The Mexican government understands the American contention. It was set forth in Ambassador Fletcher's note of April 2, 1918, pointing out that the imposition of a tax on the surface of oil lands, together with the separate and additional tax on the rents, royalties, and production derived therefrom, was a step toward confiscation of American oil interests, however the Mexican government might seek to justify it by amending the constitution. Several resolutions have recently been introduced in congress calling for information about the murder of Americans in the Tampico district and the destruction of the property of Americans. The Emerson blanket resolution urged that the military forces be employed to protect American citizens in Mexico, since the Carranza government had failed to demonstrate its ability to pacify the country and afford the protection it had guaranteed. That a crisis impends in our relations with Mexico is not to be doubted. Intervention may not and should not be necessary. It is devoutly to be wished that the Carranza government may come to its senses and, by displaying a capacity to settle the internal affairs of the country, avert resolute action by the United States in defense of its citizens in Mexico.

AMERICA, SAVIOR OF EUROPE

NEW YORK, July 24.—To pool Europe's needs of credit and commodities on the one hand and to pool America's resources to meet them is a plan sugested by James S. Alexander, president of the National Bank of Commerce of New York, for rehabilitating European countries and enabling them to reconstruct their war stricken industries.

Mr. Alexander is a member of a committee recently formed here to investigate methods for supplying Europe with American money and goods during the reconstruction period. This committee was formed upon the suggestion of Henry P. Davison and is headed by J. P. Morgan as chairman.

"A pool of Europe's needs should be met by a pool of America's resources," asserts Mr. Alexander. "That is, America's resources should be applied to Europe's need through a great centralized credit organization with extensive powers of coördination. This may sound like an ideal plan stated in sweeping terms, but I think its details can be worked out in practical, concrete form.

"There seems to be no existing machinery adequate to do so. Therefore a special instrumentality must be set up, probably in the form of a great credit corporation with capital enough to handle transactions of a size that would be involved, transactions representing not merely the business of individual concerns but the combined requirements of nations.

"A necessary step would seem to be that surveys be made of the commodity needs of the nations of Europe; that is, an estimate of how much copper, steel, cotton, wheat, and other supplies would be required for Belgium and also for the other needful countries.

"The supplies available in America are great, but they are not so great as to meet unlimited and unbalanced demands. Therefore there should be a judicious rationing of our commodities among the nations requiring them, in accordance with their needs.

"In addition to this rationing and allocation of commodities there is the question of establishing adequate credits in this country to be considered. The necessary credits will be great, so that they must be carried to the investing public of the whole country in the form of bonds or debentures.

"Because of the deferred maturities of these debentures the banks are not to be expected to absorb them. There will have to be an appeal to the general public on the grounds of a safe and lucrative investment and for the sake of humanity."

Mr. Alexander pointed out that this would be a means of maintaining the business prosperity and integrity of America and of protecting Americans from unsound investments in European securities.

* * *

"The security behind these debentures should make them almost equal to government bonds in point of safety," Mr. Alexander said. "They must be based on everything in the way of collateral that Europe is able to offer. The individual European buyer must be prepared to give a general mortgage upon his entire assets. His loan should be further indorsed by a consortium of banks in his own country, reinforced where possible by governmental guarantees.

"Thus every debenture sold to an American investor would have behind it equal security, consisting of the pool of all the collateral supplied by Europe. There would be no direct loans against the collateral of weak concerns or nations individually by the American investor; neither would the strong be allowed to monopolize the benefits."

Mr. Alexander declared that sufficient credits must be extended to meet the full requirements either of Europe as a whole, of the nations of Europe, or of the individual industries.

* * *

The full needs of Europe must be ascertained and met, he said, and this would make imperative an economic survey of its requirements. Credits supplied should be made available not to the nations of Europe as such, he added, but to the specific interests within the nations, properly coördinated; that is, to industries, manufacturers, transportation lines, and even to municipalities requiring funds for reconstruction.

To put his plan in operation, Mr. Alexander said, there would have to be "this scientific survey of Europe's needs," willingness of individual interests in Europe to coördinate their demands, to furnish satisfactory collateral, and to pay American rates rather than European rates on loans made by the proposed American corporation.

"From the American point of view," he said, "this plan is predicated on the willingness of American producers and manufacturers to coördinate their selling plans, form commodity groups, and permit the allocation of their products to places and in amounts according to need.

"Another factor is the willingness of the American public to buy the debentures at a reasonable rate of interest. Still another is the coöperation required on the part of American banks to subordinate their investment opportunities to the general situation and not attempt to skim the cream of European investments, which they might well be able to do on account of their close connections abroad."

Without this proposed organization, Mr. Alexander said, American investors would have thrust upon them many issues of varying values, some based on the best collateral and some on collateral of very uncertain value.

His plan, he pointed out, would be a means to protect the American people from unsound investments in European securities.

"I believe that unless some broad minded scheme of this sort is adopted there are grave times ahead," said Mr. Alexander. "Solution of the problem of supplying European needs should not be undertaken by governmental means. It should be carried out with private capital, not government funds. Nevertheless the necessary measures should be organized and administered on a semi-public basis and along lines that will have the support and approval of the government of the United States.

"The time is past for the United States government to finance our allies in Europe as it did throughout our participation in the war; there are plenty of domestic problems for attention to engross the full fiscal policy and activities of the government."

Mr. Alexander pointed out that unless a means is found by which America and Europe could work together in solving the problem "unsettled business conditions in Europe will still grow worse and inevitably extend to the United States."

The organization as proposed for dealing with Europe was necessary, he said, from a selfish point of view of American interest in order to conserve America's markets and avert possible industrial depression. Unless such steps were taken, Mr. Alexander believed, the world might be drawn into unsound conditions.

America would be liable to see serious displacements in its business structure—that is, great prosperity in some lines and great depression in others, and ultimately a depression of the whole business structure and possibly a collapse, the weaker elements pulling down the stronger.

SHE HESITATED.

And so you proposed to Ethel last night?" asked the young man's sister.

"Yes, I did," replied her brother, sadly.

"And did she give you any encouragement?"

"O, yes!"

"Then have I to congratulate you?"

"No; she refused me."

"But I thought you said she gave you some encouragement?"

"Well," said the youth, reluctantly, "she looked at me three times before she refused me!"—London Answers.

KEEPING THE REFRIGERATOR COLD.

TO let the ice run low is wasteful. Ice melts more rapidly when the chunk is small and the temperature rises. Keeping the ice in the icebox wrapped may save the ice, but it warms up the refrigerator. There is but one way to cool a warm refrigerator of the ice cooled kind and that is to melt ice. The proper place for insulation is in the wall of the refrigerator and not to wrap it around the ice itself.

Food should be chilled before being placed in the refrigerator. A warm dish set in the food box will raise the temperature several degrees. Warm foods should be set on the shelf to cool and then chilled by being set in cold water before being placed in the icebox.

The coldest place in a refrigerator is just below the ice. Air made cold by contact with ice falls straight down. Therefore the baby's milk should be set below the ice.

The warmest place is in the track of the warm air flowing to the ice. Articles set on the ice and by the side of it are generally warmer than articles set below it. The warm air flows up the side walls to the top. Therefore, next the side walls is the warm zone.

Some food odors are removed from the air by the ice. Therefore, milk, butter, and other foods liable to pick up odors should be set just below the ice.

A refrigerator should be periodically washed and occasionally sunned and aired. While few bacteria grow at low temperatures, in course of time a refrigerator becomes foul unless it is cleaned occasionally. Ordinary soap and water are the only cleansing agents required. At least once a season it is well to supplement the cleaning by sunning and airing.

It is not customary to have the refrigerator drain run directly into the sewer, because of the danger that sewer air will get into the food chamber. In some places the law specifies that there must be a break between the drain pipe and the sewer opening. If the refrigerator drain is not trapped it will act as an intake for warm air.

The pipes and traps require periodic cleaning, else they will fill up with slime and with dirt derived from the ice. Drain pipe odors can sometimes be detected in the milk and butter.

WORRIES AFTER "FLU."

Mrs. A. J. B. writes: "My husband had the 'flu' and the pneumonia last December and now he gets spells and worries over things for no reason, and when he worries he is subject to fright. Has he heart trouble, or is he nervous, or is it weakness? He is 50 years old, 5 feet 8 inches tall, and weighs 225 pounds. Before he had the 'flu' he weighed 245 pounds."

REPLY.

Nothing in your letter indicates that your husband has any heart trouble. He should be examined physically and if no organic trouble is found he should concentrate on improving his mental state. The cure for mental depression is association with cheerful people and getting interests in life. The treatment must be largely self-administered. As to the matter of weight he is still about 60 pounds overweight. About three more attacks of "flu" might get him down to proper weight.

SNUFF.

Mrs. E. W. writes: "I know of a mother almost distracted over a son's use of snuff to excess. He uses it along with tobacco. What effect would excessive and continuous use of snuff have on a person who had aneurysm? Does use of it affect the brain? Does its use along with tobacco [chewed] cause sleep or sleeplessness? Does a man need to sleep from twelve to fourteen hours and do these narcotics cause the half unconscious condition for that length of time? I know a man who has lost appetite and flesh; says he lays awake half the night. He uses snuff and tobacco and has aneurysm."

REPLY.

Using snuff has the same drawbacks as the use of tobacco in other forms. It is neither more nor less harmful than chewing. It has no specific effect on aneurysm. A man does not need to sleep twelve to fourteen hours and one who sleeps that long is wrong in some way. But dipping snuff does not act as a narcotic. The excessive dipping of snuff may cause tobacco heart, tobacco blindness and tobacco neuritis.

BROWN SPOTS.

Mrs. D. V. S. writes: "1. I have brown spots on my face, which came there before my child was born and never went away. Can you tell the cause and what I can do to remove them?

"2. Also, what will stop my hair from falling out so rapidly?"

REPLY.

1. A physician from Winnipeg assures me that the application of 1 to 8 watery solution of hyposulphite of soda will cause these spots to disappear. This application will do no harm.

2. Wash it frequently. Brush thoroughly daily. If too dry rub in a little grease occasionally.

GIANT WOULD REDUCE.

Dover writes: "I am a boy of 17 years, 7 feet 8 inches tall, and weigh 167 or 170. What must I do to reduce to normal? I eat lots of sweets and pastry and do not much regular exercise but walking. I get about nine or nine and one-half hours' sleep practically every night. Please outline a diet that would help. How much should I weigh, and is my height in proportion?"

REPLY.

Assuming that you have given your height and weight correctly you are a giant. You are about 75 pounds under weight for your age and height. Dieting will not stop you from growing and you cannot reduce to normal. Giantism results from some abnormality in a small gland—the pituitary body located on the under side of the brain. If you are in a position to do so have this gland examined by means of x-ray pictures. You might get some one to experiment with you in efforts to arrest your growth.

BROADER SHOES.

J. W. writes: "I am a man of 45, in perfect health, correct weight and height for age, but have suffered for years with burning of the soles of my feet. Can you suggest a cause?

REPLY.

Wear broader shoes with cork insoles.

THE FRIEND OF THE SOLDIER

The Friend of the Soldier will coöperate with the war risk insurance bureau of the treasury department, 1307 Stock Exchange building, Chicago, and with the committee of the Chicago Bar association on legal assistance to soldiers and sailors, 105 West Monroe street.

Address inquiries to Friend of the Soldier, "Chicago Tribune." Answers to as many as possible will be published in this department. To insure a personal reply an addressed and stamped envelope should be inclosed.

No attention will be paid to anonymous letters.

BUTTONS EXHAUSTED.

Capt. C. W. Burkett, U. S. recruiting officer in charge of "Victory button" distribution, said last night that the government supply of bronze war badges in his hands was exhausted yesterday afternoon. Six thousand bronze buttons have been distributed since the office established on the second floor of the Hearst building was opened Monday, and distribution has been temporarily suspended. Capt. Burkett said a new supply should be here by Saturday.

RATES ON INSURANCE.

Detroit, Mich., July 21.—[Friend of the Soldier.]—I am a discharged soldier and I should like to have you give me some information regarding my insurance, which I took out immediately after entering the service.

1. Is it possible to convert this insurance now into a twenty-year endowment policy, or hasn't the government decided to do it?

2. I am 28 years old and want to know the premium rates on a twenty-year endowment policy if I reduce the amount to $5,000. Will the rate be the same on the different kinds of insurance?

J. M. K.

1. It may be converted now or any time within five years after the signing of the peace treaty which was the official termination of the war. You may convert it into a twenty year endowment policy, twenty payment life, thirty payment life, thirty year endowment, straight life or endowment maturing at the age of 62.

2. At the age of 28 the monthly premium rate on a twenty year endowment policy for $5,000 insurance is $16.70.

The rate is not the same on all policies.

At the age of 28 years the monthly premium rate on $5,000 insurance is as follows: For a twenty payment life, $10.10; thirty payment life, $8.10; thirty year endowment, $10.60; endowment maturing at the age of 62, $9.35; ordinary life, $6.95.

FIRE ENGINE HOUSE CHIMNEY WILL BE EXTENDED.

Chicago, July 20.—[To the Friend of the People.]—I have been hesitating a long time in writing you, hoping the trouble would be remedied; but it seems it never will be. We have made numerous complaints to the heads of the city fire department ever since a year ago regarding the awful smoke which the chimney of fire house No. 122, located at Sixty-ninth and Indiana avenue, pours forth, to be either neglected or disregarded by them.

It is impossible to stand it. It is so bad at times we just have to shut up everything, as it goes right through the flats and out of the front windows. It must also be the cause of the failure of our blooming crops, as the blossoms drop off, and no more results. If the wind is east our garden gets full force, and when the wind is west or south we get it in the house, which is no small matter.

J. B. K.

In reference to the smoke nuisance occasioned by the chimney of fire engine house at Sixty-ninth street and Indiana avenue, wish to state that we have had this matter up with the fire marshal and have been informed that contract for an extension to this chimney has been let and, no doubt, the condition complained of will be remedied in a few days.

FRANK A. CHAMBERS,
Acting Smoke Inspector.

CAN RECOVER DAMAGES.

Chicago, July 16.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Can I not hold people who rented my apartment furnished, signing an agreement to make good any damage or loss to my goods, who refuse to pay the amount of $30 which I ask and which is really not half the cost of renewing same?

What will it cost to have this done in legal manner, or could you suggest a collector?

C. Z.

On your contract, as you state it, you can recover the damages done to the property. If the tenant will not pay, you will have to retain a lawyer and bring suit. We do not recommend attorneys.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

SHOULD PROBATE ESTATE.

Chicago, July 17.—To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Relative to Minnesota real estate laws, would property left by father without will at death have to be probated at death of mother?

2. What is duration of probate?

3. Does inheritance tax graduate according to value, and how determined?

E. E. C.

1. The estate should be probated after the death of the father, if at all. The estate of the mother would be properly probated after her death, and that would include what she received from the estate of her husband at his death.

2. It may be closed in a year, but frequently cannot be.

3. It depends on relationship of the parties benefited and on the amount of the succession. For near relatives there is a larger amount exempt.

MARRIAGE IS LEGAL.

Chicago, July 18.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—Would this marriage be recognized as legal in the state of Illinois?

Man, single, and resident of Illinois, marries woman single and resident of Illinois, both parties using only part of their full name, meaning that both parties used their correct given names, but used fictitious last names. Is another ceremony necessary to correct this error?

W. B.

No, not to make the marriage legal. If it became necessary to make proof by the record it might be difficult to show the marriage by the certificate. However, that is not often essential.

REGULATING THE PACKERS.

Chicago, July 14.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—Will you allow me a few words of comment regarding a statement in your editorial, "Regulating the Packers," and on some of the statements made by the packers denunciatory of the federal trade commission report?

The history of increasing prices of food products reveals that they are synchronous with the greater control of them by the packers. Fruits, vegetables, eggs, butter, poultry, canned goods, and all kinds of meat products have reached a level of prices that cannot for a moment be justified by any economic law.

Let me take another product in which the packers are interested—leather. The price of shoes began to advance about the time that the packers went into the leather business. The packers now practically control the hide and leather output. Shoes that five years ago could be bought for $5 now cost $10, $12, and $15; and only a few days ago we were told that the price would be advanced from $2 to $4 a pair. Can or will the packers explain why? A pair of child's shoes costing formerly from 75 cents to $1 now cost from $2 to $3. There is no reason for this; and it may be stated in passing that the higher priced shoes are decidedly inferior in quality to the shoes of five years ago.

You speak of hogs selling at $22.80. That, sir, is the maximum price paid for a small quantity. The average price paid by the packer in the course of a year falls considerably below $22.80, as their own statistics clearly show.

Twenty years ago the average price of hogs was less than 5 cents a pound. Lard could then be bought for from 12 to 15 cents a pound. In 1912 prices of hogs ranged from $5.75 to $9.40. The average for the year would be about 8 cents per pound.

In 1918 prices for hogs ranged from $13.50 to $20.95. The average price for the year would probably fall below $17.50 per 100 pounds. Yet lard is selling for 42 cents a pound. Would it be asking too much to have the packers explain why lard should increase from 25 to 30 cents a pound, although the price of hogs increased at the most 12½ cents a pound?

I am by no means impressed by the packers' oft repeated claim that they make less than a fraction of a cent per pound on their meat and by-products. The truth is that they so figure costs as to show just a fraction of a cent per pound profit, which is merely a trick in bookkeeping.

A few weeks ago one of the packers, in an advertisement, declared that "You can buy a steak for 33 cents or for 66 cents," and explained that, of course, the higher priced steak came from higher priced cattle. I have been wondering ever since just what price the packer paid for the cattle from which the 33 cents a pound steak came, and how much he paid for the cattle from which they produced the 66 cents a pound steak, since no such difference in prices of cattle is observable in any published statistics.

The packers say the report of the federal trade commission is prejudiced and unfair, and that the real question is, "Why are prices high?" It is, indeed, and the public will be grateful for a complete statement of the packers' side of the case, together with all their facts and figures, definitely and correctly stated, so that every man may compute the subject for himself. This would be altogether preferable to the general denial they are now making.

LA BALDUS.

DESECRATING THE BATTLEFIELDS.

PARIS, France, July 4.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—We of the A. E. F., two, three, and four stripers all, feel quite sensitive concerning the proposed influx of the hordes of American sightseers who will run wild over France and Belgium rummaging the sacred ground of battle and rushing in "where angels fear to tread."

We can see now, in our mind's eye, a vivid picture of their grand entrance, their fourteen words of French (often mispronounced) working overtime, wondering what the boys had to complain about in such a "perfectly beautiful" country, and urging their "Cook's guide" to lose no time in getting them to "where the blood flow was greatest."

Somehow, those of us who have seen a bit of the lonesome waste that stretches east and north of brave Verdun, who have climbed with heavy hobs to the summit of "Le Mort Homme" (Dead Man's hill), who, marching, have halted and "fallen out" to rest one's weary feet and backs among the tiny crosses that are strewn along the roadside which borders the Meuse—somehow, those of us who have been sickened by the horrible sights of war feel strong repulsion toward those who, with a guide book in one hand and a gold coin in the other, come to break the quiet of this sacristy of civilization.

And we can imagine, too, some little mother, anywhere in America, leaning on the garden gate, with her gaze ever toward the east, suddenly droop her head to hide the tears in the folds of her old checkered apron—the apron he knew so well—while at the same moment some curious rubberneck, on the battlefields of France two years too late, stumbles over the lovely ground that covers the earthly remains of this brave little mother's only boy.

SPLIT FAHERTY'S AUTHORITY ON BIG STREET JOB

Commissioner Francis to Spend Large Part of $39,521,250.

BY OSCAR E. HEWITT.

"Mike" Faherty, who has been called the "city hall dynamo that works," is to be relieved of some of the responsibility for the street improvements under the proposed bond issue of $28,600,000.

He is to have the assistance of Commissioner of Public Works Francis. Joint work between these two was the plan adopted in the Roosevelt road improvement, and is now revived to simplify and shorten the court proceedings. Perhaps that result will be accomplished, but will it get the improvements sooner?

The Roosevelt road improvement was started two years, at least, before the Michigan boulevard link, but the link will probably be finished a year or two before the Roosevelt road. On the link Mike was and is the sole boss.

Will Fight Any Delay.

"Nothing doing on dragging out the completion of those improvements, if I can help it," Ald. Kavanagh said yesterday. "If Mike can get the results in the quickest time, why muss up the situation by mixing in the commissioner of public works? I can't see any reason for dividing the responsibility. Just exactly the opposite has been public policy for years.

"I will look into the plan of action before the bonds are voted and shall oppose any plan which is likely to delay work on these improvements. You can bet there will be others interested also."

Under the plan of action at present [illegible], or theoretically the board of local improvements, will acquire the land necessary to widen and extend streets, remove the buildings, pave the enlarged space and retire. The commissioner of public works will erect the bridges, viaducts and do other structural work.

Total Cost $39,521,250.

Since the city council approved of the bond issues Monday the engineering and other experts have tabulated the costs in a new form. It was represented to the finance committee that $2,000,000 was needed to complete the Michigan boulevard link and that the remaining $26,600,000 of the proposed bond issues represented "about one-half of the total cost of the improvements."

Yesterday it was given out that the total cost will be $39,521,250 exclusive of the contributions of railway companies, which are not estimated. Of the $39,521,250, $26,600,000 is to be paid by bond issues and the remaining $10,921,250 by special assessments.

Hopes to Beat Lawyers.

These figures were obtained from the board of local improvements. These indicate that the commissioner of public works will spend about $12,000,000 out of the total.

"I have made a lot of progress on Ogden avenue," Mr. Faherty said yesterday. "The city has placed its value upon the land and buildings needed, and if I can keep the outside lawyers off my back for a couple of months, I will see the property owners before they do. If I succeed, the lawyers won't have so much to do. We will get the right of way without the interference of their blockading tactics."

Funeral Plans Private for La Verne W. Noyes

The hour for the funeral of La Verne W. Noyes, who died early yesterday morning, has not been announced. The funeral will be private and the family requests that friends omit sending flowers. Mr. Noyes was president of the Aermotor Company of Illinois and lived at 1450 Lake Shore drive. His death, which occurred at the Presbyterian hospital, was caused by bronchopneumonia. He was known for large gifts to the University of Chicago—a $2,500,000 endowment fund to aid veterans of the great war and their descendants to get an education—and the beautiful hall named in honor of his late wife, Ida Noyes, built for women students at an expense of $800,000.

BUILDING OWNERS FINED.

Owners of six buildings who failed to observe the requirements of the fire prevention ordinance or violated the building code in not making necessary repairs were fined $200 each yesterday by Judge Edmund K. Jerecki.

DISMISSED

Veteran Chief of Lincoln Park Zoo Ousted by Board.

Cy De Vry

DE VRY, OUSTED FROM ZOO, MAY FIGHT TO RETURN

Counsel Plans Appeal to Upset Ruling of Park Board.

Cy De Vry was dismissed yesterday as chief of the Lincoln park zoo.

Three members of an investigating committee of the Lincoln park board, William Wrigley Jr., Bertram M. Winston, and John H. Hardin, yesterday affixed their signatures to a document which severs his connection with the zoo which thirty-one years of his efforts has built up. The discharge was signed after conference with and approval of other members of the board, Francis T. Simmons, Andrew Lanquist, A. W. Goodrich, and Samuel M. Felton, and securing their approval.

De Vry was in Bay View, Mich., filling a lecture engagement at a chautauqua there. He obtained his first word of the board's action over the telephone from THE TRIBUNE.

"I didn't expect that," was his only comment.

He said he could not discuss the case until after conference with his attorneys, Richard Cooney and John A. Verhoeven. They had said, earlier, that with Mr. De Vry's consent they would file a petition for a rehearing of the case against him. They pointed out that a jury in the Municipal court Tuesday had decided that he was not guilty of an assault on Charles Hacht, one of the complaining witnesses who appeared before the park board, and that such a verdict stands as a legal fact which the park board must recognize.

Known to Entire City.

De Vry, known to hundreds of thousands of Chicagoans through his long service at the zoo and close association with the children who have flocked there for the last thirty years, was tried July 10 on charges growing out of an altercation at the park Sunday, June 14. He put several men out of the park after a thorough beating because of their attitude towards women in the Sunday crowds. De Vry, his friends say, has done this for years.

But this time the park police put a finger in the pie and De Vry was arrested after, it was charged, abusing and assaulting Lieut. Charles Thoren of the park police force. Hacht had him booked on the assault charge, on which the jury released him and later filed suit for $15,000 damages, still pending. The park board charges, of which he was found guilty, also allege that he was intoxicated.

This charge of intoxication the attorneys for De Vry expect to thoroughly disprove at a reopened hearing with the evidence of Frank Fairfield, an attorney, who saw the zoo keeper half an hour before the altercation in the park.

Will Start Petitions.

Then, too, petitions asking the park board to reinstate Cy will be started today and circulated among the parents of Cy's young friends. Dr. F. P. Thompson, 39 South State street, who has stopped for a chat with Cy every week day morning for fifteen years on his walk to the loop, was the first to phone THE TRIBUNE that a movement for the zoo man's reinstatement was under way. He was followed by James P. Griffin, 1445 North Fifth avenue, an employé of Sears, Roebuck & Co.

"Anybody who says Cy was drunk must be dreaming," declared Dr. Thompson. "He used to drink heavily years ago," he says, "but he has refused liquor every time I have had dinner with him."

Dr. Thompson, an amateur naturalist, declares De Vry with out a peer in the care of animals in captivity. On a tour of the world a few years ago he found he was known everywhere familiarly—even to a half-Hindu in charge of the zoo in Calcutta, India.

Animals Grow "Seedy."

"The animals show it," he said yesterday. "In the last few weeks they have grown seedy; flies cover them; their ears are bleeding. I never, in fifteen years' daily walks past the zoo, have seen so many flies there as I did this morning. Cy used to spray the wolf and bear dens himself every day. They have not been touched since he left, apparently."

A civil service examination will be held shortly to fill De Vry's place as director of the zoo, according to John C. Cannon, secretary of the park board. De Vry adherents insist that it will be manipulated so as to give the place to a plum-hungry politician.

Cannon declares that the place probably will go to either John Maggenmiller or Alfred E. Parker, assistant directors. Haggenmiller has been in the employ of the park board for nearly twenty years, he says, and Parker was appointed as De Vry's choice.

31 Years in Zoo Service.

Cy De Vry came to Chicago from out of the west thirty-one years ago to attend the funeral of his uncle, Herman De Vry, an employé of Lincoln park. He saw the city's tiny zoo and fell in love with the few animals there. He stayed to care for them—at $40 a month. No one knows how long he worked for this salary, but in 1901, when he was reinstated after being discharged a year and a half before (for refusing to keep a man on his pay roll who wouldn't work), he was getting but $75 a month, though he had a national reputation.

In 1916, when he was being paid $300, a motion picture company offered him $650 a month, $7,800 a year, to care for their animals in California. After a bit of dickering with the park board he refused the offer, accepting an increase to $5,000 a year—though the picture company had raised its original bid to $10,000. Leading citizens, including Gov. Dunne, then offered to go down in their pockets to pay a salary that would keep him here, if necessary, and hundreds of petitions were presented to the park board asking that he be retained.

The upbuilding of the city's zoo is generally credited to Cy's efforts.

ROCKFORD SEEKS DE VRY'S AID.

Rockford, Ill., July 24.—Cy De Vry of Chicago has been invited to visit Rockford and advise the recently organized Rockford zoological society in establishing a new $30,000 zoo here.

RULES AGAINST RAILROADS.

Judge John H. Williams ruled yesterday against a number of railroads which contended 25 cents of the total city tax rate, $1.98, should have been included in the $1.20 set aside for corporate purposes. The eighth of the tax rate to which the railroads objected is set aside for the police, firemen, and municipal employés' pension funds and the municipal tuberculosis sanitarium. Attorneys for the railroads asked Judge Williams to enter an appeal order to the Supreme court. This order was entered.

The Safest Soap for your Washing Machine is

KIRK'S AMERICAN FAMILY SOAP

The time and labor that your fine washing machine will save you, will count for little if your clothes come out injured and bleached white, because of the soap you have been induced to use, that contains bleaching alkalies and other impurities.

There is nothing in American Family Soap that will injure, spot or discolor the most delicate fabrics, and in warm or cold water it quickly washes the clothes lily white, clean and leaves them sweet smelling. Its purity has made it the favorite laundry soap for over three generations.

FAIRY PRINCESS WAVES HER WAND FOR POOR KIDS

Gifts of Irene Frieder Endear Her to Summer Camp.

Once upon a time there was a castle in Spain, where lived a princess and a white horse, and the dreams of people.

It was a nice enough castle as the ones in Spain go, but it never produced gallons and gallons of ice cream every Sunday for kids who get hungry ranging over wide country acres.

And right there is where "The Castle of the Hills," which guards the Fox river right across from Camp Algonquin and THE TRIBUNE summer hospital, has it all over its romantic Spanish ancestor. The princess in this turreted white home is named Irene Frieder.

Fairy Princess at Night.

In the day time she is treasurer of a Chicago mercantile company, but at night she joyously enters the rôle imaginative little vacationers across the river have made for her. She comes down to play with them, and every night looks over at bedtime and plans new things to do for the city refugees.

Last night she called Mrs. Zellar, the superintendent, out of bed to say that no matter how many mothers and children come out in August, they will have all the ice cream they can eat each Sunday. As an afterthought, she said the Frieder family will see the kids have all the fruit they can eat one day a week, and that an entire new set of cool muslin sheets and pillow cases are on their way to the camp.

Wanted: A New Flag.

Just one thing more is needed in the way of equipment, and it is needed badly. It is a bright, new American flag for the staff that is a feature of the camp.

"We've saluted the flag so much it's tickled to pieces," suggested "Jimmie the Swimmer" after the kids' daily formation yesterday.

HIDDEN GAS LEAK KILLS 2 WAITING FAMILY REUNION

A gas pipe hidden in the wall of the home of Herbert Caddock, 424 South Claremont avenue, sprung a leak yesterday. It was not discovered until Caddock and his 8 year old daughter, Mabel, were dead and his wife, Hannah, so overcome by the gas that at the county hospital little hope for her recovery was held out. Henrietta, another daughter, 15, was away from home on a visit and escaped.

Mrs. Amelia Caddock, 5227 Gladys avenue, mother of Caddock, and Mrs. Mabel Paul, sister of his wife, found the bodies when they arrived at the gas filled house to attend a family reunion dinner.

Caddock's body was seated in a chair, a newspaper clutched in his lifeless hands. The child was lying on a bed attired in a night gown. Mrs. Caddock was senseless on the floor.

Relatives refused to permit gas company inspectors to make any repairs after the tragedy and said suit would be filed against the company.

The police are making an investigation.

PAY TAX OR BEWARE COPS.

Delinquent vehicle taxpayers had better make peace with the city collector at once if they wish to avoid trouble with the police. Deputy City Collector George F. Lohman will ask the police department today to arrest 1,000 in arrears for a total of $15,000. Comparison of the 1918 and 1919 vehicle license tables shows there has been a falling off in every grade of horse drawn and motor drawn vehicle licensed by the city.

FOE OF 'WETS' DIES

Muscatine Journalist Who Is Dead, Aged 86.

MURRAY, VISITOR AT MANY WAKES, MOURNED AT OWN

Fire Captain Hugh Murray, who lost his life in the South Chicago fire on Wednesday, had a record of having attended thousands of Irish wakes in the last thirty-five years. The only time he missed one was when duty prevented.

Grizzled fire fighters and policemen wiped their eyes last night as they mourned him at his residence, 8914 Escanaba avenue.

"There'll never be another like Hugh," "Old Tom" Egan, deputy sheriff, said. "Whenever he heard of the death of an Irishman, he tried to get there. During the last street car strike he went to six wakes in a taxicab."

Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at St. Patrick's church, Ninety-fifth street and Commercial avenue. The burial will be at Mount Olivet. The Rev. Edward O'Reilly will preach the sermon. Sixty firemen from the South Chicago department, under Battalion Chief John F. Schmidt, will act as pallbearers and form the guard of honor.

At the inquest it was determined Capt. Murray died of enlargement of the heart, not from gas fumes. It was stated the fumes were indirectly responsible for his death.

Families which lost their homes in the fire were taken care of by Thomas H. McKenna of the Illinois Steel company. Money for rent, clothing, and food was furnished.

CHICAGOAN FREED IN ARSON CASE BY WATERMELON

Aurora, Ill., July 24.—[Special.]—"Listen, judge, you should tell me," said Samuel Minnus of Chicago to Justice Cortez Duton of Aurora, "why I should do my father-in-law the favor to burn his store down when he has a good insurance and I don't like him."

The judge shook his head.

"And," Minnus went on, "I was in Chicago, anyway, eating watermelon at Moses Mack's house when my father-in-law's place in Aurora burned."

Mr. and Mrs. Mack confirmed this.

An Aurora witness said he saw Minnus board a car for Chicago several hours before the store owned by the father-in-law, M. A. Rosenthal, burned.

The evidence convinced the judge.

"I don't care what Minnus said," he declared. "He never set fire to that place. The charge is dismissed."

Minnus was alleged to have said he would burn his father-in-law's store because the latter persuaded Mrs. Minnus not to drop her suit for divorce.

12 Year Old Boy Hit by Troop Train; Dies

When Arthur Perkins, 12 years old, 1307 South Sixth avenue, Maywood, attempted to cross the tracks of the Chicago Great Western railroad in Maywood yesterday afternoon ahead of a troop train, he was struck by the engine and hurled from the right of way. A passing motorist took the injured boy to the Oak Park hospital, where he died a short time later. His father, Alonzo Perkins, is a foreman employed by the American Can company.

JOHN MAHIN DIES; WAS NEWSPAPER EDITOR 51 YEARS

Muscatine Journal Chief Was Fighter for Reform and Good Government.

John Mahin, one of the pioneer newspaper men of the middle west, died yesterday morning at his Chicago residence, 3944 Pine Grove avenue. Mr. Mahin was for fifty-one years—from July, 1852, to January, 1903—editor of the Muscatine Journal. During this period he established a record as a fighter for reform and good government that made him known throughout Iowa and western Illinois. He was prominent in temperance work and in the councils of the Methodist Episcopal church, he having served as a lay delegate to the general conferences in '76, '88, and 1904.

During the anti-saloon fight in Muscatine in 1893 the liquor adherents were held responsible for the dynamiting of Mr. Mahin's home. His residence was blown to pieces and Mr. and Mrs. Mahin, who were asleep in the house at the time, had an almost miraculous escape from death.

After he retired from active work at Muscatine Mr. Mahin and his wife removed to Evanston in 1905 and eight years later took up residence at the Pine Grove avenue address.

He is survived by his wife, Anna Lee Mahin, and four children—John Lee Mahin and H. J. Mahin of New York City, Mrs. Louis T. Jamme, 4934 Pine Grove avenue, Chicago, and Mrs. J. Warren Alford of East Orange, N. J.

Mr. Mahin was born in Noblesville, Ind., Dec. 8, 1833. The burial will take place at Muscatine tomorrow.

MISCELLANEOUS. MISCELLANEOUS. MISCELLANEOUS.

4 Days Cruise to the "SOO" and Return $24 50 on the S.S. NORTH AMERICAN

A Four-Day Cruise full of joyful recreation and most interesting and instructive sight-seeing. To see the great freighters raised and lowered in the immense locks is a sight to be remembered; to watch the Indians shooting the rapids is an exciting scene, and never to be forgotten is the all-daylight sail up the beautiful St. Mary's River. These are only a part of the many attractions there, and you will return fully rested and invigorated. The S. S. NORTH AMERICAN, the largest and most modern exclusively passenger steamship operating on the lakes, carries an orchestra, has beautiful ballroom, children's open-air playground; in fact, all you would expect to find on the largest Atlantic liners. Take advantage of this opportunity to take the family on this wonderful, inexpensive vacation cruise.

ADVOCATE OF I. C. TUNNEL CALLED TO EXPLAIN PLAN

G. A. Hyers Threatens to Kill Latest Scheme for Improvement.

George A. Hyers, 3532 Lake Park avenue, said yesterday that he has been invited to the corporation counsel's office to explain his ideas on the lake front development ordinance.

Two months ago Mr. Hyers in a public speech to the railway terminal commission threatened to defeat the improvement.

"I killed your scheme in 1913," he said, "and I'll do it again. You will never get a permit for that plan from the federal government, and without a permit you cannot carry out your plan.

"I was the man who blocked you, the mayor of Chicago, the Association of Commerce, the south park commission, the Illinois Central railroad, the Chicago plan commission, and other civic organizations, when you applied for a permit to the secretary of war in 1913. You will never get a permit unless those tracks are lowered, covered, and a boulevard placed on top."

"Old Man of the Sea."

Carter H. Harrison is the mayor referred to. In one of his messages to the council he spoke of the influence of "an old man of the sea." Hyers was at that hearing and the permit was refused, for the announced reason that the city council had not approved of the application for the permit.

"Are you the old man of the sea former Mayor Harrison referred to?" was asked Hyers yesterday.

"I suppose so," he replied.

"Who invited you to the corporation counsel's office?"

"I don't believe I will give that out."

"When are you to appear?"

"When it is convenient for the office."

"What do they want to confer with you about?"

Demands Covered Tracks.

"The ordinance. It requires the park development in ten years and does not require electrification before twenty years. What's the use of a park with smoke belching over it? I want a boulevard on top of the tracks."

Little attention was paid to Mr. Hyers' speech and less to him since, although he has appeared frequently at committee sessions and occasionally with his plats and maps. He was at the city council meeting last Monday and applauded freely when Ald. Passmore said that the lake front question will not be settled right until the tracks of the Illinois Central are placed in a tunnel.

Unusual significance is attached to Mr. Hyers' statement that he has been invited to confer with some one in the corporation counsel's office, because from this source Mayor Thompson is expected to gain information upon which to determine his attitude to the lake front development ordinance.

FORMER "KING OF LEVEE" FREED. Edward "Beck" Moriarity, former "king of the levee," recently arrested at the Metropolitan hotel, 2507 South Michigan avenue, was discharged yesterday by Municipal Judge Frank Graham. He was arraigned on a charge of pandering.

Ione Gibbons
Edward L. Smith

When Miss Ione Gibbons, 18 and pretty, became bookkeeper for the Public Service company in Oak Park, Edward L. Smith, twelve years her senior, employed in the "trouble department," began to take a keen interest in bookkeeping and soon Miss Gibbons forgot to "carry" her figures from column to column, when Edward was about.

And now Edward has taken out a license to marry Ione Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Grace Episcopal church.

The bride to be is the daughter of Mrs. Ellen Gibbons, Witch Lake, Mich., and was graduated from Oak Park High school in 1918. Smith lives at 1041 Erie street with his mother, where after a honeymoon the young couple will make their home.

"Nervous" Chicago Woman Jailed in Los Angeles

Los Angeles, Cal., July 24.—[Special.]—Mrs. Georgia Gardiner of Chicago, Santa Barbara, and Los Angeles, but now a prominent member of the exclusive Victoria and Casa Blanca Lawn Tennis club set of Riverside, was a prisoner in the city jail last night six hours, booked on a charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated.

The traffic officer who made the arrest charged that Mrs. Gardiner drove her twelve cylinder limousine into the back of another car and that she then backed away and proceeded to drive the big car over the curbing and onto the crowded sidewalk in the heart of the business district.

She denied the intoxication charge, claiming her actions were due to nervousness.

STAR NO SHIELD TO TAXI FEUDIST, ETTELSON RULES

Says "Slugger" Deputies Must Obey the Laws Against Assault.

Deputy sheriffs have the right to wear stars and carry concealed weapons, but they must obey the laws prohibiting assault and battery like ordinary citizens. So ruled Corporation Counsel Ettelson yesterday in the feud between the Yellow Taxicab company and the union and independent taxi owners.

E. N. Nockels, secreatry of the Chicago Federation of Labor, charged recently to Chief Garrity that the Yellow Taxicab company employes had a "slugging crew" composed of deputy sheriffs to intimidate independent taxi drivers.

"Slugging" Winked At?

Mr. Nockels said in many cases the police have appeared to wink at the "sluggings" and the state's attorney has been appealed to without results.

In connection with Mr. Ettelson's opinion it was learned Chief Garrity had assigned Detective Sergeant William S. Orthman to investigate Mr. Nockel's charges. Orthman reported that in substance Mr. Nockel's charges are true, and in addition turned over to the chief a list of names which he reported are those of the members of the "slugging crew." He also reported each of these men as a deputy sheriff, in that each has a star from Sheriff Peters' office, although they are regularly employed by the Yellow Taxicab company.

Here's Ettelson Ruling.

Chief Garrity carried this information to Mr. Ettelson, who yesterday handed down his ruling. It follows in part:

"If it be true, as stated, that these persons are deputy sheriffs, they have a right under the law to carry revolvers. They have, however, no right to violate the law and make assaults upon any class of citizens. If they are guilty of acts of that kind, the owners of the individual taxicabs or their attorneys should procure warrants and cause their arrest."

WILMETTE FOLKS PAY BILLS; TRADE BODY MAY QUIT

In a letter sent out yesterday to members of the New Trier Commercial association, officers of the organization, which is composed of business men of Wilmette, threatened to resign in a body unless the members showed more interest in the affairs of the association by attending meetings.

According to the letter the bad debts of the members have been cut down to a minimum through the efficient business methods of Otto Falk, the secretary. Until members had been relieved largely of their bad bills they had regularly attended meetings and offered suggestions to aid each other.

The officers who threaten to tender their resignations unless members attend meetings and help out in the work are: President, Leo M. Dean; vice president, Albert Lips; treasurer, F. H. Gathercoal, and secretary, Otto Falk.

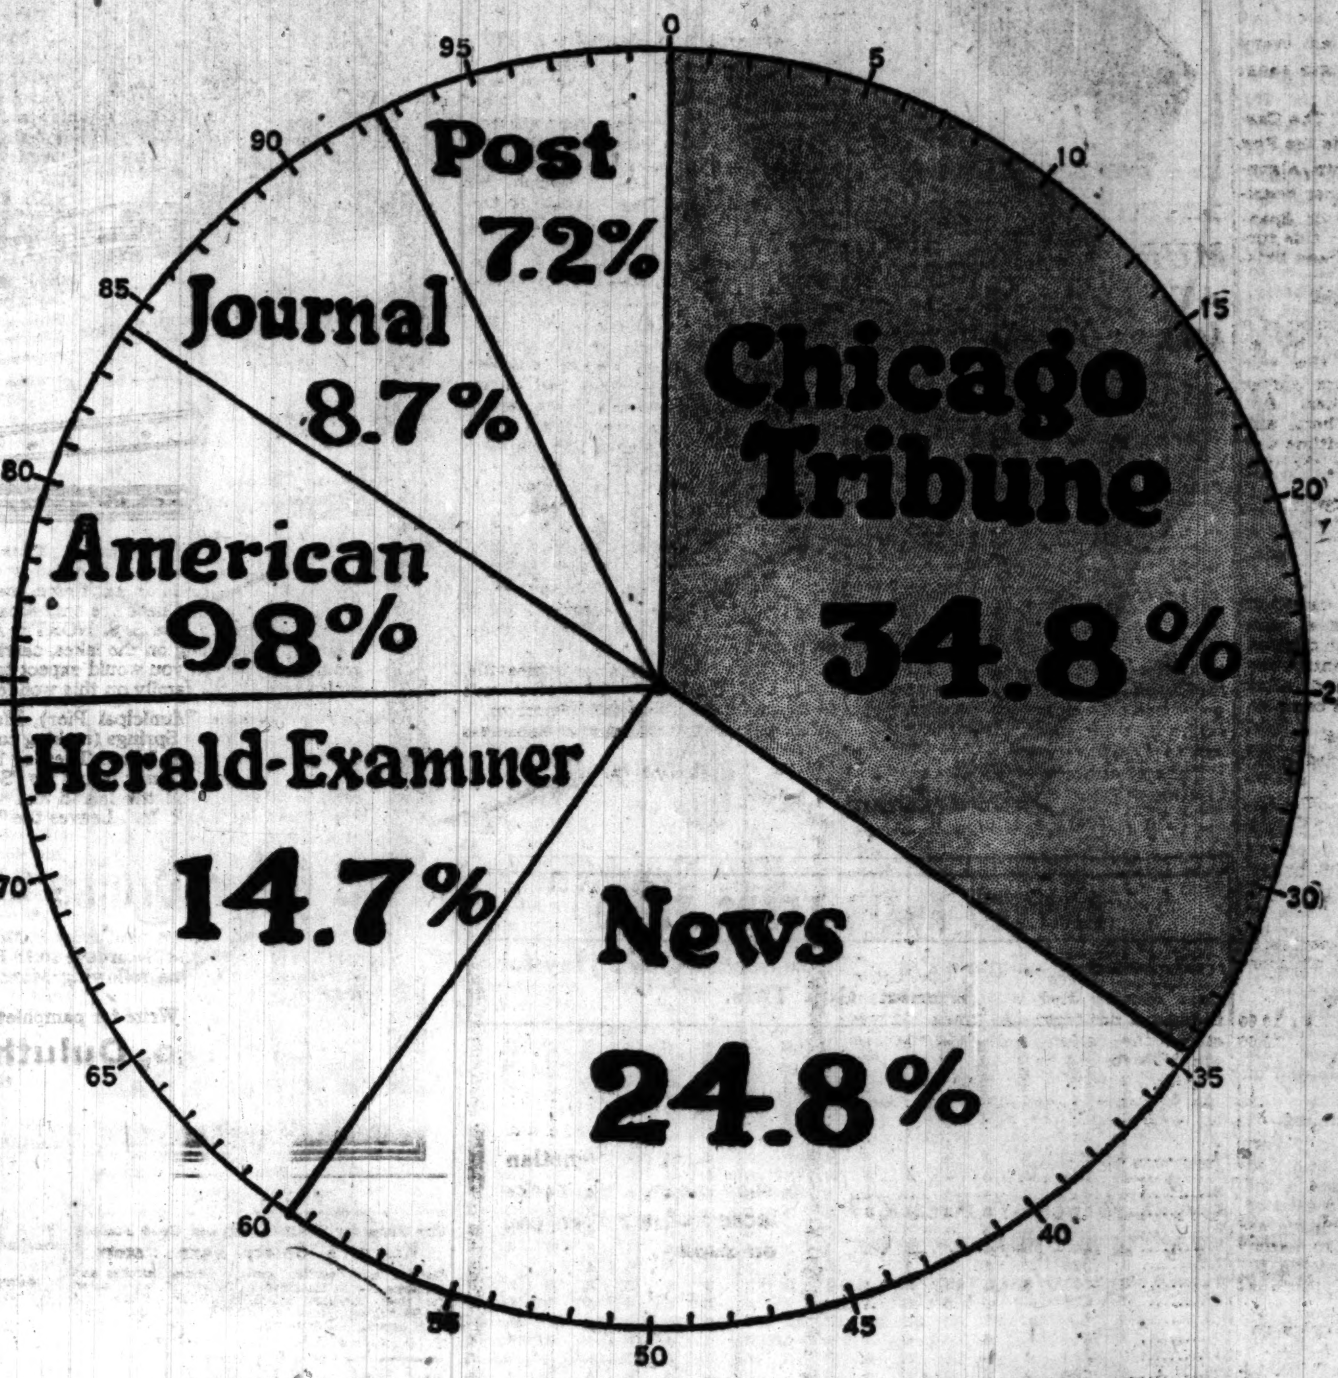
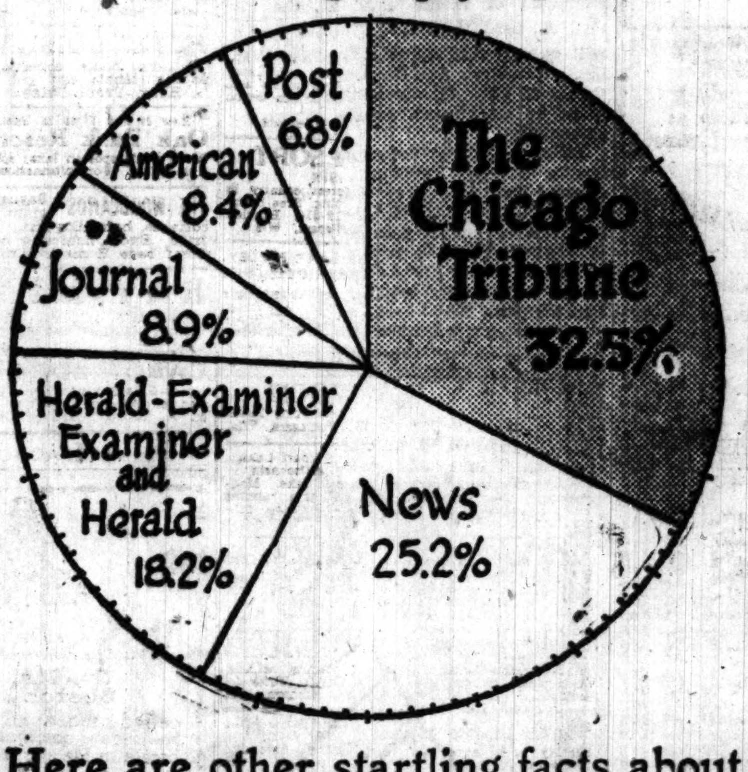
Tribune Carries a Third of All Chicago Advertising!

This chart pictures graphically the proportions which each Chicago newspaper printed of the total advertising in Chicago from January 1st to June 30th, 1919:

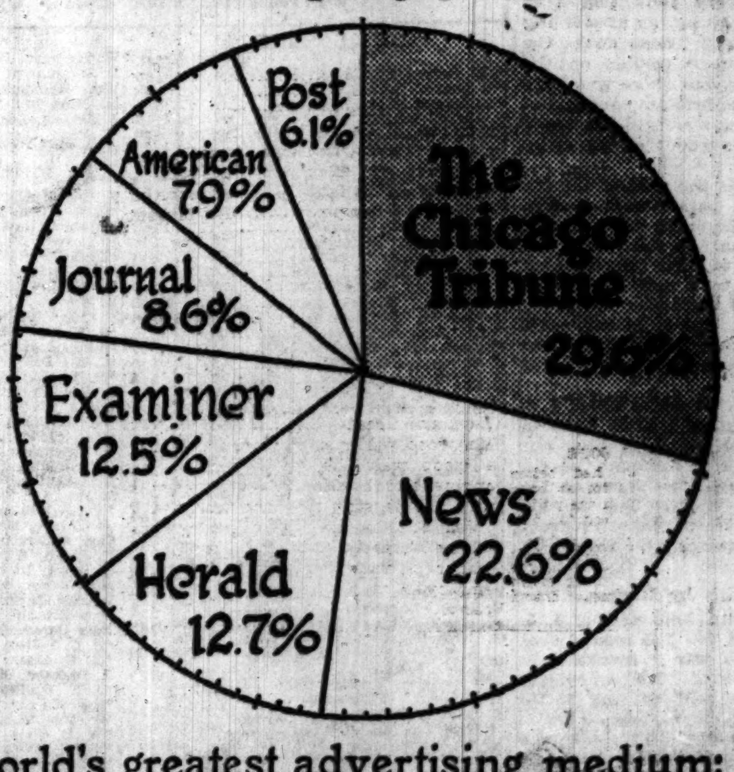


These two charts show how The Tribune is steadily increasing its lead over all other Chicago papers:

Advertising all papers 1918



Advertising all papers 1917



Here are other startling facts about the world's greatest advertising medium:

More money was spent for Want Ads in The Chicago Tribune from January to June, 1919, than in all other Chicago papers combined. During the same period approximately $55 out of every $100 spent for display automobile, truck, tire and accessory advertising in Chicago newspapers was spent in The Tribune. The Tribune has printed more automobile advertising, financial advertising and publishers' advertising during the six months of 1919 than during the twelve months of 1918.

BARNES SHOOTS BRILLIANT 70, LEADING GOLF FIELD AGAIN

TOPS PLAYERS IN WESTERN MEET FOR SECOND DAY

Hagen Four Strokes Behind St. Louis Man; Bob MacDonald Fifth.

BY JOE DAVIS.

Cleveland, O., July 24.—[Special.]—Playing a superlative round of 70, within one stroke of his course record of the previous day, Jim Barnes of Sunset Hill, St. Louis, again topped the field in the race for the western open championship at the Mayfield Country club today. The long Cornishman was given an adedd incentive to make a low score, as T. B. Wadley, the Texarkana amateur, promised to pay his expenses to the Canadian open championship if he shot 70 or better.

Barnes, with a total of 139, has a four stroke lead over Walter Hagen, national and metropolitan champion, who reported with a finely played 72. It looks as if the 36 hole struggle tomorrow will be a title duel between these veteran campaigners, and it seems hardly possible they can maintain the pace of the two first rounds.

Two Tie for Third.

Fred McLeod, the North Berwick Scotchman, from Chevy Chase, who had a card of 74, tied for third place with Leo Diegel, the Michigan open champion, who also had 74, their total being 145. Bob MacDonald of the new Evanston Golf club was in his best mood, and a round of 71 elevated him to a tie for fifth place with Otto Hackbarth of Cincinnati at 146.

MacDonald's play up to the green was superb, and coming home he set a new mark of 33 for the incoming nine. On the home green he had a ten inch putt for a 70, but played it carelessly and missed. His mark of 33 for the last nine was tied later by Harry Hampton, the Scotch professional at Richmond, Va., who formerly was located at Long Island.

J. Douglas Edgar of Atlanta, who holds the French open championship, was another stellar performer, his round of 71 being a fine exhibition of sound golf.

Hutchinson Improves Standing.

Jock Hutchinson of Glen View, whose 76 on Wednesday left him tied for twenty-sixth place, hurdled a lot of the opposing experts with a card of 72 and is now tied for tenth place at 148. He is too far behind to catch Barnes or Hagen, but is expected to climb higher in the money positions tomorrow.

Two of Chicago's young players redeemed themselves for their mediocre work of the preceding day, William Melhorn of Oak Park cutting off fifteen strokes and finishing with 72, which put him in the list of sixty-five players eligible to continue tomorrow. Raymond W. Treacey, assistant professional at Flossmoor, was the other. He improved his card eleven strokes, finishing with 73 and a grand total of 157.

Fifty-Six Shoot Under 80.

There was every indication that scores would go kiting, as at starting time a stiff westerly breeze swept the course. It presaged trouble on the slanting fairways, but there was little difference in the brilliant quality of the play, fifty-six men getting under 80, as against sixty-four on the opening day.

Jim Barnes was the first of the big guns out, being paired with George Sargent. The champion opened with a birdie three on the first hole, but at the second, put his second shot over the green to a deep trap. He pitched his third back over the green to another trap, and it looked as if his scant lead would be dissipated, but he dug into the sand and nearly holed for a 4.

At the sixteenth hole he neded 4, 3, second nearly out of bounds close to a tree stump. He had to play out at right angles and, although he did not clear the rough, was home on his fourth and down in six. This was his only poor hole. He played with great care, frequently gauging the wind with his handkerchief.

Great Finish by Barnes.

At the sixteenth hole needed 4, 3, and 5 to finish in 70. His second shot for the sixteenth was a mashie iron effort from 175 yards. He gauged the wind finely, the ball curving in to fifteen feet from the pin, netting him a sure four. He got his three at the short hole. Trying for a low slice from the eighteenth tee into the face of a stiff wind, he ran into a trap on the lift, landing against the bank.

Digging a stance with his feet, Jim smashed the ball out sixty yards to the fairway. He broke his niblick on the operation but it was a life saver, as he put his third shot on the green, holed out in two more, and won his trip to the dominion championship.

Hagen Starts Fast.

Hagen got off well, getting a birdie three on the long third hole, 455 yards. A drive and a mashie iron left him a short putt. He was off the edge of the green at the fourth hole, but took three putts, and three putts netted him a 5 at the next hole.

He recovered a shot at the long sixth, 515 yards, getting a 4 and a 10 foot putt at the short eighth gave him a 2. At the ninth he found the grass on the right, and his second also found the rough, but he got down in 4.

Coming home he played perfect golf, except at the twelfth hole, where he kicked into a trap and took three putts for a 5 and at the home hole where he hooked his drive and took a 5.

Putts Costly to MacDonald.

MacDonald had three putts on the first, fifth, and ninth holes and three at the sixteen and eighteenth.

Hutchinson had three putts on the second green and missed a three footer for a 3 on the third. A topped tee shot led to a 6 at the eleventh hole and at the next green he took three putts. At the home green he missed a three footer.

DAVE ROBERTSON BECOMES A CUB; DOUGLAS GIANT

McGraw Given Hurler in Exchange for Star Outfielder.

Dave Robertson, who shook the dust of baseball off his heels after the world's series between the White Sox and Giants in 1917, now is a full-fledged member of Mitchell's Cub troupe. Following several days of dickering, the one time star of the Giant outfield yesterday signed a two year contract with the local team. This took place at Norfolk, Va., where President Bill Veeck of the Bruins went for just such a purpose.

The signing of Robertson clinched a deal with the Giants whereby Phil Douglas goes to the league leaders. This swap was arranged several days ago, but was conditional in view of the fact that Robertson has shown considerable independence about where he plays ball. His acceptance of Cub terms was all that was needed, and after obtaining the desired signature Veeck hustled back to New York, informed McGraw of his success, and the deal then was officially completed.

McGraw Gets Needed Pitcher.

Putting through the trade gave McGraw the pitcher he has been seeking for some time. A good hurler was greatly needed to keep the Giants' nose up in the pennant struggle, and if Douglas shows the same form as he did when a Cub it is a pretty good bet that the New Yorkers will not be headed. The deal weakened the Giants in no way, as Robertson had refused to play for McGraw and there was no indication that he would alter his stand.

When Robertson quit the Giants he ranked about the best fly chaser in the old league, and it is a certainty that his defensive and offensive ability will be of material assistance to the Cubs. Robertson's last act in baseball was to figure in the world's series with the Sox, and in those games he proved about the most valuable man McGraw could muster in a vain attempt to crush the American league champions.

Robertson Not a Veteran.

The former Giant outfielder is not a veteran, so there is no reason to fear that his lay-off has in any way affected his playing ability. He was born at Portsmouth, Va., in 1892 and should still have about six or seven years of good baseball in his system.

McGraw discovered Robertson in 1911 when he was playing with the Elizabeth City club of the Tidewater outlaw league. Dave had just finished two years of college ball. McGraw kept him for a season and then farmed him out as an outfielder with the Mobile club in 1913. He hit .335 that year and stole fifty-seven bases. Then he returned to the Giants and gradually worked himself into the position of topnotch fielder of the circuit.

Sox Discover Douglas.

Douglas first came into prominence in the fall of 1912, when the Sox drafted him from the Des Moines Western league club. He was found wanting as a big leaguer and the next year drifted into the Pacific coast and then into the Northwest league. In 1914 he bobbed up again, this time with the Reds. He spent 1915 with three clubs—Reds, Dodgers and Cubs. Since then he has been with the Bruins except for a short period spent at St. Paul.

Douglas will start from St. Louis for New York immediately. Robertson will don a Cub uniform for the first time next Wednesday when the champs open a long at-home stay.

H. Sime, a Washington park entrant in the American Roque league championship tourney at Washington park, continued his victorious play yesterday, and now holds nine perfect scores. He stands out as the man most likely to capture honors in the first division, with which goes a gold medal.

Players in the diamond medal competition played at both Washington and Lincoln parks yesterday. At the former courts Joseph Kennedy of Chicago defeated F. C. Turner of Pasadena, 32 to 5, and Kennedy followed this by trimming H. Walker of Chicago, 32 to 7. At Lincoln park Turner won from Walker, 32 to 3.

Matches will be played this afternoon at Washington park between the hours of 1 and 6 o'clock and at night from 7 to 10 o'clock.

"SKIN BALL" IS BAFFLING, BUT SOX SKIN BROWNS BY 1 TO 0

CICOTTE 'SHINER' IS WINNER OVER SOTHORON FREAK

Great Battle by Pitchers Ends When Gleasons Score in Tenth.

BY JAMES CRUSINBERRY.

Did you ever hear of the "skin ball"? Well, that was what Allan Sothoron was flinging at the White Sox at Comiskey park yesterday and that was why it took Eddie Cicotte ten innings with his celebrated "shine ball" to defeat St. Louis, 1 to 0, in one of the prettiest pitchers' battles of the season.

The "skin ball" is very similar to the "shine ball," so far as can be learned in the fact that they are exactly opposite. The former is supposed to be prepared for deadly action by peeling a bit of the hide off the ball with one's finger nail while one is bluffing at fixing the ball for a spitball delivery. The "shine ball" is supposed to be prepared for action by filling the seams of the ball with paraffin while one is bluffing at throwing the spitball.

Game of Bluff by Hurlers.

If all those theories are true, Cicotte and Sothoron were combating each other during the ball game with a bluff, for they are bluffing more than half of the time when they are supposed to be throwing the deadly spitter or the unhittable shine ball. This bluffing went along until the tenth round when Cicotte, first up, called the bluff by swinging at one of those supposed "skin ball" flings of Mr. Sothoron. It wasn't a "skin ball" fling at all. Instead it was a simple fast ball which Mr. Sothoron was trying to sneak over on Mr. Cicotte for a strike, but Cicotte being a wise fellow on this freak stuff took a guess that this was no freak and swatted it for a single to center field.

Nemo Liebold followed this with a bunt down third base way that caused Cicotte to be forced at second base, but when Gerber made a wide heave to first base Liebold got to second. Nemo was trying to put Cicotte on second with his poke, but as it turned out, Cicotte was out and Liebold, a fast base runner, was on the middle bag.

Felsch Wallops Run Home.

In this pinch Eddie Collins wasn't given anything he could hit, so he walked to first base, then Weaver bounded one to Sisler that was turned into an out only because the clever Mr. Sisler was playing at first base. This moved Liebold to third and Eddie Collins to second and Joe Jackson was the next hitter. Joe was purposely passed as every one expected he would be, and it was up to Hap Felsch to do something. Felsch didn't wait even to look 'em over. He just took a healthy clout at the first pitched ball and knocked it out for a base hit that sent Liebold home with the one run of the game and the only run needed to win.

No one ever found out whether or not it was one of Mr. Sothoron's deceptive "skin balls" that Hap hit. It was plain to all that Felsch delivered a regular one base swat. Sothoron and Cicotte had been battling all afternoon, but in this instance either Hap figured the St. Louis hurler was bluffing or else he hit one of those "skin balls" just as if it was a groover right over the middle of the plate.

How Browns Failed.

For the entire nine innings there hadn't been much advantage in the pitching. The Browns got a couple of blows in the first inning, but they came after two were out and were harmless. They got two in the fourth, but a double play wrecked the opportunity for results. In the tenth they got two hits and one batter was hit by a pitched ball, but all this happened after two were out and the next batter was an easy victim.

The Sox had slight openings in the first, the third, the sixth, and the seventh, but the "skin ball" stopped them until the tenth. The Browns had openings in the first, the fourth and the seventh, but the "shine ball" stopped them. So, on the whole, it looks as if the "shine ball" has something on the "skin ball," but at the same time some of the old fashioned fans would like to see a regular old time Rube Waddel or a Mordecai Brown, with nothing but a curve and a fast one, come in and have a battle with some fellow who has this new fangled stuff.

JACK DEMPSEY TO LIVE HERE AFTER MONDAY

Heavyweight Champion Jack Dempsey is coming back "home" next Monday. Home means Chicago, for Dempsey has decided to make this city his habitat in future. The man who dethroned Jess Willard has been making a visit with his parents at Salt Lake City. It is expected that when he arrives a band of promoting gents will swarm down on him in the effort to sign him to contracts, theatrical and otherwise.

Joe Welling, who battles Sailor Friedman in Benton Harbor one week from tomorrow afternoon, is in the city, and this afternoon will invade the Arcade gymnasium to start the conditioning process. Next Tuesday he will go to Benton Harbor and work there to give the natives a peek at him.

NOTES

The same teams will battle again today at the south side park.

Ring Lardner, baseball author, called at the Sox office and got some ideas or something for a baseball story.

Hap Felsch got only one hit in the combat but it was worth six or seven ordinary blows. It drove in the winning run in the tenth round.

John the barber, who in the old days used to shave the Cubs, including President Murphy, witnessed the game as a guest of Murphy.

Jimmy Burke, boss of the Browns, made more noise on the third base coaching line than did Boss Gleason of the Sox. But there is no indication that noise will win the pennant.

Joe Jackson might have made a hit yesterday had any one but George Sisler been playing first base. The latter grabbed one of Joe's hot smashes with his bare hand and tossed to Sothoron in the ninth for an out.

Smith of the Browns nearly opened the way for a St. Louis run in the eighth when he led off with a beauty line drive to right. Liebold came in at top speed and caught the ball off his garters.

Ralph Works and "Buddy" Quinn are traveling with the Browns and informing the St. Louis fans just what happened. The former was a pitcher for the Detroit Tigers not many years ago. He stated yesterday it was much more pleasant to sit in the press coop and write about the Sox than to go out and pitch against them.

Fultz Rules Thompson Property of Toronto

Toronto, Ont., July 24.—President David Fultz of the International league has upheld the Toronto club's claim to Pitcher "Lefty" Thompson, turned over to Baltimore by the Philadelphia Athletics, according to advices received today by President McCaffery of Toronto. Fultz ruled that the fact that the player was transferred from Washington, which drafted him from Toronto and then sent him to Philadelphia, does not void the Toronto club's claim to the player. Manager Dunn of the Baltimore club will appeal the award.

Niesen Threatens to Sue for Services of Sullivan

Billy Niesen, semi-professional magnate, yesterday sent a letter to Owner Comiskey of the White Sox, threatening court action in an endeavor to hold the pitching services of Lefty Sullivan, who was under contract to the Gunthers and recently signed with the White Sox. Last spring Sullivan was turned over by the Sox to an American association club, but he refused to pitch in the association, where the spit ball is barred. Niesen points out that Sullivan was without a job when the Gunthers signed him.

RUTH'S FIFTEENTH HOME RUN OF YEAR DOWNS YANKS, 4-3

Boston, July 24.—Ruth's home run drive into the right field stands, scoring Roth, who had singled ahead of him, in the eighth, was the big factor in Boston's 4 to 3 victory over New York here today. It was Ruth's fifteenth home run of the season. Score:

RACERS IN SPILL, BUT ESCAPE AT STREATOR TRACK

Streator, Ill., July 24.—[Special.]—There was an unavoidable spill in the last heat of the 2:15 pace this afternoon at the race meet. The heat and race went to Johnnie Quirk, a Clinton, Ill., gelding. Approaching the last turn he was closely trailed by Laddie, Mae Arthur, Recall, and Col. Allen, who got in a tangle. The driver of Laddie was thrown, but neither horses nor drivers were injured.

The 2:12 pace, for which a $1,000 stake was offered, went to Hallie Hayt, owned by J. C. Beatty of Creston, Ia., with three heats in 2:09¼. Four heats were needed to divide the money, the fourth being featured by a nose and nose finish between Hallie Hayt and Oregon Boy.

Timothy Hall took first money in the 2:17 trot after four heats had been run. He was hard pushed in the final heat by Bell Agile. Russell Boy, in an exhibition mile as a special feature, made the mile in 2:05½. Summaries:

DIARY OF A TENDERFOOT—VOL. 5.

MORLEY, Alta., July 24.—We're off, little diary. Ere I park the little Corona which indites your pages, I must sit me in the depot and record the getaway.

We railroaded from Banff to this point to break the fall as much as possible, and hence we motor eighteen miles to join the steeds, which await us, gnawing at the bit, at the crossroads where the white man's country fades out and the untrammeled beyond leads on into the trackless domain of antelope, catamountain, occasional tourists, and other dumb animals.

Ere yet we left Banff, which is disgustingly civilized in spite of the magnificent mountains which the Canadian Pacific had put about the lovely Banff Springs hotel, we all wormed into our riding togs and mounted cayouses in order to be photographed.

It was a motley collection. Porter Emerson Brown made his entrance in a leather aviation jacket and lumbermen's boots. Grantland Rice wore golf things and army pants. Charles Hanson Towne had on spiral puttees, patent leather pumps, a quiet business sack, and an informal Tuxedo hat. Jack Wheeler wears khaki breeches and blue flannel leggings. Murray Gibson sports tan leather military puttees and well polished black naval shoes, and about his throat there is a nonchalantly knotted bandana handkerchief. And I? O, little diary, you should see your father!

A natural equestrian, however, I look fit and appropriate in any costume. My lines mold into the saddle and drape themselves about the horse as though I were part of him or her, as the case and gender might be. What though my rough flannel shirt be faded by sun and water and the heels of my shoes be worn from dancing in town? The moment I drop into the saddle all minor detail is blotted out and I become to the eye as I am in spirit, a wild thing embraced again in the waiting arms of nature, an aboriginal child of the wooded trail.

Ta-ta, little diary, ta-ta until I return, tanned and weathered, conqueror of unbroken path through forest and fen, Nimrod of land, fishrod of stream, to again take up the literary burdens which my genius heaps upon my back.

It is the law of living: he who can enlighten a world must enlighten; he who can break paths through the jungles must break; he who can breast the unknown and give to the world new territory for expansion and the eternal struggle for a bankroll must breast. It is a little tough, though, to have everything all concentrated up in me. I hope it isn't too much for one horse to carry.

BIRD NOTES.

IN England the English sparrow is called the "house sparrow." In this country he shows a marked preference to towns, but bird lovers are becoming alarmed at the increasing numbers of sparrows they see in the country nowadays. In the towns they are clannish enough, but in the country they travel about in flocks like a gang of car barn bandits—robbing and bullying and beating up any bird brave enough to resent their impudence.

* *

While fishing a bass stream the other day we heard a great hullabaloo in a nearby thicket. We stood up our rod and investigated. A flock of sparrows was making short work of a store of seeds they had found in the nest of a field mouse. A pair of blue jays stood by screaming "thief!" "thief!"

My impression was that the jays were rifling the nest and the sparrows came along and drove them off, and there they sat, crests abristle in righteous indignation, and their attitude said: "Isn't it a pretty how-to-do when good, honest robbers cannot go about their business without being set upon by dishonest ruffians like the bloomin' British sparrows!" My sympathies were all with the mouse. With all the watchful hawks and owls about, maybe she is a widow mouse laying up something for a rainy day, and the cost of living so high, too!

Farther down stream I scared up a sandpiper. "Wheat, wheat," he said. Some day I am going to write a story about a pit gambler walking along a stream, contemplating suicide, when he scares up a sandpiper, who says, "Wheat." He follows the hunch and buys wheat and cleans up, and out of gratitude establishes a bird refuge. The only thing that bothers me is that people who gamble in foodstuffs seldom contemplate suicide, and would never establish a refuge for anything but for more dollars, any way. Outside of that it ought to be a good story.

CUBS FLIP ONE LOCAL TRAIN AFTER ANOTHER EN ROUTE TO S'LOUIS

BY I. E. SANBORN.

Cleveland, O., July 24.—[Special.]—Compelled by Barney Dreyfuss' curious schedule to cross five of the United States in one jump, Chicago's Cubs spent a tedious but busy day trying to get from Brooklyn to St. Louis in time to play the Cards tomorrow.

The only way the administration would handle the haul was by a route that called for three connections. The Cubs made the first one at Albany this morning all right, but were held up by a freight wreck which tore up three of the famous four tracks west of Syracuse.

Hold Train at Cleveland.

That caused them to miss their train out of Buffalo, but the kindly trainmaster sent the Mitchell warriors along on a fast mail and wired the folks in Cleveland to hold the train for St. Louis until the special Cub sleeper could be annexed to it.

The combination made the trip wearisome for all except Secretary Seys, who was kept busy chasing railroad officials and making sure the Cubs' uniform trunks get to St. Louis on time. Where the rest of the party's personal baggage will catch up nobody knows.

Next winter when Chief B. Dreyfuss is drafting the National league schedule, we would suggest he consult a through time table and not ask clubs to make jumps by local trains that don't necessarily make connections.

Four Games with Cardinals.

Four games are booked in four days with the Cards, and after their tough jump the Cubs are rejoicing there are no double headers in sight. Vaughn and Hendrix, one of whom will pitch tomorrow, were sent on ahead, and should have landed in the Mound City last night, so as to be fresh for the opening fray.

The stay in St. Louis will end Monday night, but some of the Cubs will have to stop off in Bloomington for an exhibition game before returning home to repel the invasion of the north side by the eastern teams.

The trip so far has been disappointing, more so in the matter of revenue than in a playing sense. The Cubs won nine of thirteen games, but two of their defeats were by the Giants—whom they must lick to land the pennant. And the loss in receipts caused by the week of rain in New York was a heavy one to the club's treasury.

REDS, 3; PIRATES, 1.

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 24.—Cincinnati defeated Pittsburgh today, 3 to 1, both Ruether and Cooper pitching good ball. Bressler's home run, a pass to Daubert, Groh's triple and Kopf's double scored the visitors' runs, while doubles by Stengel and Barbare tallied the locals' run. Mollwitz was hit by a pitched ball in the third inning and threw his bat at Ruether, who narrowly escaped injury. Mollwitz was put out of the game. Saier took his place. Score:

Walter Cox Drives Horse to Victory in 2:09 Trot; Best Time 2:04 1-4.

Toledo, O., July 24.—The Fort Miami stake of $3,000 for 2:09 trotters, the feature event on today's Grand Circuit card at Fort Miami, was won by Mignola, driven by Walter Cox, the favorite. Mignola's best time was 2:04¼ in the second heat. The race was a straight heat affair, as were all others on the program.

The 2:14 pace for a purse of $1,000 had sixteen starters. The judges decided that the field was too large and the race was split into two divisions. Jack Keith, driven by Valentine, won the first division and Sanardo with Murphy up took the second.

John R. Braden Winner.

The 2:07 pace with seven starters was won by J. Thomas driving John R. Braden.

It was reported today that Edward Allen, who suffered a compound fracture of an arm in an accident at the track the second day of the meeting, had been taken to a hospital. Frank Hedrick, injured in the same accident, is in a hospital suffering from internal injuries.

A Chance for You to See Snow in July

"MAN'S DESIRE."
Produced by Lewis Stone Productions.
Directed by Lloyd Ingraham.
Presented at the State-Lake.
THE CAST.

Tom Denton	Lewis S. Stone
Mary Larkin	Jane Novak
Vera Patton	Charlotte Burton
Slim Dorgan	Bill Dyer
Howard Patton	George Pearce
Bob Denton	Joe Bennett
Bull Larkin	Jack Curtis

By Mae Tinée.

This is the story of a man who played square.

While admitting the tale to be virile and possessing some "punch," while declaring that Mr. Stone, as the man in the case, makes a fairly agreeable impression, I think most of us will say that for us the charm of this picture is the scenery. The producers have taken you into the big woods country and showed you it in its various guises. The snow scenes are the best, it seems to me, I have ever witnessed on the screen.

The character represented by Mr. Stone is one Tom Denton, junior partner of the Patton Lumber company, and an object of admiration to Mrs. Patton, who gets quite foolish over the matter. Result—Mr. Denton, realizing that his partner thinks everything is not as it should be, buys him out and settles down to see what he can do on his own. He had really snubbed the lady unmercifully, but how is one to tell a woman's husband such a thing?

Denton becomes acquainted with a young woman whose husband beats her—Jane Novak, of course, who is always being persecuted in the pictures. It is usually Mr. Hart who comes to the rescue, but in this case Mr. Stone does the hero act, and marries the girl after both believe the brutal husband is dead.

There is much to do about the burning of Denton's mill; some happy scenes before the husband turns up again; a little melodrama when Jane is forced to take her child and accompany her legal mate through the blizzards, and later when he would compel her to do his evil bidding in a dance hall. But then reënter Mr. Stone. Also enter happiness. For the brutal husband pulls a gun, but Denton beats him to it.

And the verdict of the sheriff's court is: "The deceased showed poor judgment in pulling his gun and lost on the draw."

There are some places where you will be a bit bored, I'm afraid—but on the whole you will like "Man's Desire" pretty well—especially if you see it on a hot day—for O, you snow!

Tribune Cook Book

Cooked Vegetable Salads.

In general, cooked vegetables put through a food chopper seem to me to be too mushy and therefore unattractive for a salad. But there are exceptions to all rules. String beans as cooked may or may not be pretty in a salad, and when we have but a few of them it is not an undesirable thing, it seems to me, to put them through the food chopper. If they have been bronzed in the cooking instead of kept grass green, then put through the grinder they serve mainly as filling, and perhaps to set off a vegetable of another shade.

A salad of salf-cooked beans so prepared, and the other half of raw carrot put through the food chopper, may be mixed with French dressing, mixed in a garlic rubbed bowl, molded, turned out on a lettuce leaf, garnished a bit or not as one chooses, and be a most acceptable hot day salad. The carrot makes it handsome of color. It is easy to mold after it is mixed with the dressing. Simply pack it into a small cup and turn it right out. It is not necessary that it stand. Cooked clipped beets may be used in this salad or sliced for a garnish.

A recipe for a cooked salad noted the other day called for peas and wax beans, which were to be served with the ever popular Thousand Island dressing, for which the following recipe was given: "One cup of thick mayonnaise dressing, six tablespoons of chili sauce, two chopped pimientos, one-half tablespoon of chopped chives. Combine and serve at once. The mayonnaise should be thick."

In general, Thousand Island dressing is to be preferred on uncooked salads, especially on the bleached head lettuce.

Rodger was afraid of dogs, both large and small. When Jack, our little bull terrior, ran out to him he gave a little scream and, running in the other direction as fast as he could, cried shrilly, "Tate him way! I's fraid I might bite him!" L. B. K.

Dorothy is a regular little mother to Baby Jack, and she does hate to see him punished, although she knows he deserves it sometimes. The other day Jack's mother had him all dressed in fresh linen, ready to go to an afternoon affair, and before she was ready herself Jack went out to the curb and sat down in the only mud puddle in sight. Dorothy frantically rescued him, but realized that some disturbance was imminent, when his mother should see his plight. So she took the bedraggled little creature to the door and said pleadingly, "Don't you think here's when a feller needs a friend?" E. R.

When I came home from the neighbor's yesterday my little niece who is staying with me, met me at the door. When I left she and her little brother were fast asleep on the bedroom floor, having made the excuse that it was too hot on the bed. When asked why she had waked up, she replied, "Well, when I waketed up I found me asleep unner the bed, and I thought that was hotter yet." N. K.

REAL LOVE STORIES

His Father's Wife.

Wallace was the only son of a banker in a village of the west. Wallace's mother died when he was 5 years old and a maiden aunt, the sister of his father, came to take charge of the motherless boy, and to look after her widowed brother's household.

When Wallace was 22 years old he was graduated from a college for men. His father gave his son as a present a promise to pay all expenses for a year's trip through Europe.

While in New York, waiting to start across, Wallace went on a sightseeing expedition with a number of other people. For an entire day he was thrown into closest companionship with a charming young woman. She made a great impression upon him and at the end of the day when they parted she gave him her name and address. He promised to call. The next day found him ready to call and then he found that he had lost the woman's card and he could only remember part of the address.

He could not find her, although he remembered the name. His disappointment augmented his feeling toward the strange woman and he decided that he was in love.

Europe proved attractive to him, and, in spite of his father's disappointment, he decided to stay for a while. Every month the old man's check came signed with a liberal hand, and it was easy for the youngster to loaf and have a good time. But somehow he could not forget the strange New York girl who had disappeared so mysteriously.

Meanwhile the father at home was lonely. He did not have the same zest for work and the slightest exertion seemed to upset him completely. He consulted a physician. "A heart disorder of a severe kind," the doctor said. He went on to insist upon an absolute rest for a few weeks. "You may live for years. You may die in a week. It all depends upon how you take care of yourself."

So the father took his physician's advice and went to the hot springs. He came back a month later much improved and with a wife. She was a lovely young woman; she had been all alone in the world and she had consented to marry the banker. The little town received the banker's wife with open arms. She was a winning person and soon became popular. Even the banker's sister, who had so long been the undisputed manager of his household, grew to love the young wife dearly.

The young man came back from his wanderings in Europe to find the wife was the strange young woman he had sought so long in New York. She had felt exactly as he about their chance meeting, and it had the same effect upon her.

They kept the story of their love from the father, and one day the father did not come back as usual from the office. He had been stricken with a sudden heart attack, from which he never recovered consciousness.

In due course of time the young people were married. J. M.

DORIS BLAKE'S ANSWERS

She Doesn't Trust Him.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am a girl of 20 years of age, and I have been keeping company with a young man seven years my senior. He is a gentleman in every way, but even so, I don't trust him. He often gives me hints about getting married, but I think every man will try to tell these things to a girl just to get the advantage of her. Do you think it is wrong of me to think that way? The reason I am asking you these questions is because I don't know how to take those hints, and girls tell me never to listen to a man.

"I love this young man very much, but whenever I go out with my girl friend and I don't tell him about it he finds out anyway. It makes me angry to think he watches me like that or has some one else do so for him. Don't you think if he loved me he would also trust me? JULIA."

What a strange, distrustful girl you are! I am afraid some one has been filling your young mind with a lot of foolishness about men. When a man gives hints of marriage you may be sure he is not a trifler unless he uses that as a means of urging you to be unduly friendly with him. But you do not intimate that this man is anything but a gentleman. Let him talk marriage to you if you love him. Why should you object to his being interested in the girls you go out with. That's only natural in the man who wants you for his wife.

A Friend in Need

I want to be the medium through which the friend in deed and the friend in need may be brought together. It may be you have some discarded article which has not outgrown its usefulness that will make some less fortunate one happy, and you would gladly give it if you knew how to go about it. Write to me and I shall be only too happy to be of service to you. Please write on one side of the paper.

When information is wanted by mail a stamped, addressed envelope should accompany the request. Please do not send parcels to "The Tribune," but write for the address of the applicant and send direct.

Wants a Poodle Dog.

"I am a nurse and, though this may seem strange to you, I want a poodle dog. If any one has a poodle they could give me I would be grateful. They may be sure it will have a fine home. And I thank you a thousand times for helping me to get something I have always wanted but never been fortunate enough to get. "MRS. F. W. U."

This a chance for a lover of dogs to provide one of our four footed friends with a good home. I hope soon that Mrs. U. may have her heart's desire, and some little woolly pup a kind mistress.

Lonely Little Girl.

"I am a lonely little girl of 12 years. Won't some other little girl write to me. ETHEL S."

I hope, Ethel, some little girl will write to you soon. It was hard to find the little friend you hoped for had so many letters before yours. This time I hope you will be first and that you will find a "bestest" friend through this column.

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

WRINKLES: YOU WOULD BE surprised to know that many of the wrinkles that are being worn on faces that pass us by are the results of bad habits of expression, such as scowling, dejection, and discontent. Knowing that, we may discover ours have somewhat the same origin. So, first remedy is to keep the corners of the mouth up; then begin with the work of massaging away the wrinkles with skillful manipulation and a good skin food. Now, I have a formula for an excellent skin food and detailed instructions for massage which I shall send you if you will send me a stamped, addressed envelope.

WEAK ANKLES: FOR STRENGTHening the ankles stand with the feet slightly apart. In this position bend the ankles out and in alternately as far as possible each way.

When Going to Church Is "a Regular Picnic"

It's fun to go to church, that is, when the church is on week days and ends in a big picnic.

That's the verdict of 15,000 of the youngsters of Chicago who closed yesterday the vacation daily Bible schools which began June 30 and who today will go—at least 5,000 of the older ones—to Washington park.

The Glenwood boys' band of forty pieces will play. There will be exhibits of the work done in the schools, which will be displayed in the shelter house at the park, and all manner of athletic contests, three legged races, sack races, potato races for the boys, standing broad grin and cracker eating contests for the girls, and just everything.

CARE OF TRACTORS

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Fitting the horse to do heavy work used to be one of the farmer's greatest worries, but with the advent of the tractor his problems of keeping the iron horse in condition are even more complex. Keeping the tractor fit means constant care of the operator. "Like a good horse, it should be handled and cared for by one man who can become familiar with it and know its individual requirements. Inadequate though it is, it still has individuality and responds to intelligent treatment. The operator should study the principles of its construction, and better judgment will be used in its care," says H. H. Musselman of the Michigan Agricultural college.

The book of instructions that accompanies every tractor should be studied. It will enable the operator to become familiar with its parts and principles. This book is indispensable in ordering new parts, as each piece of the machine is listed, with the number and description, and in most cases illustrations are included.

"The greatest foes of the tractor are friction and wear. It is required to pull heavy loads, resulting in high pressure, which is occasioned by the explosions within the cylinder," says Mr. Musselman. "Prompt and careful lubrication is, therefore, necessary and vitally important, as the lubricating properties of the oil are destroyed by the heat. Frequent inspection of the supply of oil is necessary because the tractor, being a heavy duty machine, consumes much more oil than an automobile engine running at full speed.

"Where kerosene engines are used it is advisable to remove the old oil from the crank case and replace with fresh after a period of from twenty-five to sixty hours. The kerosene gets into the cylinder and dilutes the lubricating oil so that it does not have the essential properties," he says.

Cleaning the tractor daily with rags adds to its appearance, but also enables the operator to detect loose nuts and bolts, worn or overheated parts, and parts bent or out of adjustment. The tractor represents an investment probably equivalent to the value of two teams of horses, and is therefore entitled to as much daily attention as four horses would require. Every tractor owner should follow out a daily schedule in going over the machine to see that tanks contain fuel, oil, and water, and that all parts are properly adjusted before using.

$15,000,000 of M. E. Fund for Chicago

The Chicago area of the Methodist Episcopal church will receive $15,000,000 from the total gifts to the Methodist centenary fund of more than $100,000,000, according to an announcement yesterday from the Rev. R. J. Wade, executive secretary of the Chicago area. This is $2,000,000 more than the total contributed by the Chicago area to the national fund.

"Some of the money," said Dr. Wade, "will go to the founding of scholarships in Northwestern university for the benefit of returned soldiers."

It is also known that one of the projects to be helped will be the Halsted Street Institutional church, Nineteenth and South Halsted streets, which will receive $150,000. Lincoln Street Institutional church, South Chicago church, the Italian and Bohemian populations, will be helped by new churches or institutional buildings.

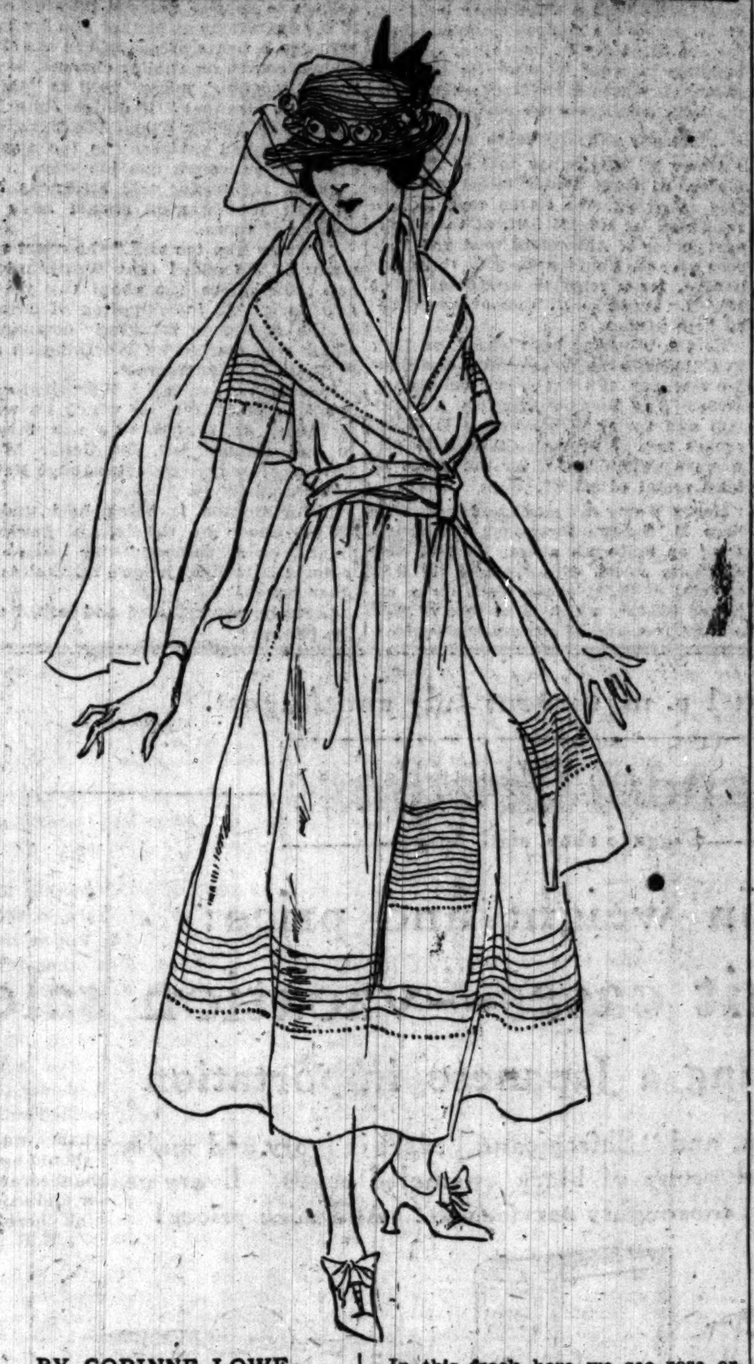
FASHION'S BLUE BOOK

Trade Mark Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.



BY CORINNE LOWE.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—Every material that can stand to be tucked is seen tucked some way, some how. And of course the materials that are crisp, the organdies and the dimities, and even the voiles and satins, come in for even more than their share of this tucking.

In this frock here we see rose organdy untrimmed except for its many small tucks. Tho sleeves are short, of course, above the elbow considerably, and the waist has the new surplice effect—new old, that is, since the style is one that has been worn for generations by women and just recently adopted new.

JUDGE 'KNOWS WORTHINGTON TOO WELL' TO TRY

When John W. Worthington, who was brought from Seattle by federal officers to answer charges growing out of his operations as banker and broker, and who is being prosecuted in the Municipal courts on similar charges, says "Good morning, judge," he'll be "talking to a stranger," if Judge John R. Newcomer, before whom Worthington was arraigned yesterday in the South Clark street court, has his way.

Judge Newcomer told attorneys he thought Worthington should have a change of venue.

"I know him too well," the court explained. He added that Worthington had been before him about two years ago during an investigation of assets of the American Banking company, which was started by Worthington at 17 South Dearborn street.

Newcomer raised Worthington's bonds from $10,000, on which he was at liberty, to $50,000. He was taken to the county jail, but Jailer Will Davies refused to recognize Judge Newcomer's mittimus.

"Worthington is being held under $25,000 bonds by the federal government," he explained, "and I cannot honor a Municipal judge's mittimus on other bonds."

Later he reconsidered and locked up the prisoner.

TAXES GOING UP FORTY PER CENT, FIGURES SHOW

Joker Seen in Custom of Cut Rates and Higher Valuation.

BY OSCAR E. HEWITT.

Taxes are going up next year—the rate on 1918 valuations now being reviewed—taxes due next winter. The best guess now is around 40 per cent.

It is the custom in Chicago and Cook county. Whenever the basis of assessment is revised, tax bills are revised upwards.

It was so about 1900. It happened again in 1909, and it will occur once more next year.

The humorous feature of it, which makes many property owners cuss about their taxes, is that the tax rate with each change appears to go down. That is another local habit.

Rate Goes Down; Taxes Up.

In 1900 the tax rate in the West Town was $9.24. Then they revised the system and the next year reduced the tax rate to $6.24. But taxes advanced. In 1908 the rate was $7.98. There they changed the system, and the next year the tax rate was reduced to $4.91. But taxes went up. This year the rate was $6.24, and the system was modified. Next year the rate will probably be between $5.45 and $5.60. But the tax bills of the property owner will be larger.

Of course, the rate alone does not control the size of tax bills. There is another factor, the value placed upon the property. Suppose the rate is increased one-third and the valuation on the property remains unchanged. The owner will pay a third more taxes. But if the value on the property is increased also between 15 and 17 per cent, the taxes of the owner will be boosted about 40 per cent. That supposition is a forecast of what will happen next year.

Accurate figures are not available. The board of assessors are still working. Their valuations are revised by the board of review. Later the state tax commission can do more revising as well as fix original valuations on certain kinds of property. Not all of the tax expending bodies have filed levies, therefor no accurate rates can now be reckoned.

How It Was Done.

But getting back to the manner of taxing which the lawmakers use on the property owners. Back in 1900 the tax rate of $9.24 was on the "legal" basis of assessing on the full fair cash value of the property. Theoretically that rate would produce a much larger amount of taxes than a rate of $6.24 in 1901 on a one-fifth valuation. But the legal basis in 1900 was fiction.

"I'll tell you honestly," said an assessor, who determined valuations at that time, "we intended to arrive at a tax valuation of one-tenth of the real value. There was much rivalry between the assessors in those days to take care of their own people, and sometimes we did not even make it one-tenth. The board of assessors were elected in 1898, but they went along on the old system until they straightened things out in 1901."

So a rate of $9.24 on a one-tenth valuation does not get as much taxes as $6.24 on a one-fifth valuation. But that is not all. The valuation on the property inside of Chicago in 1900 for taxation purposes was $276,565,880, and in 1901 it was jumped to $374,580,[illegible]40. That further increased taxes.

One-Third Valuation.

Then the system of taxing on one-fifth of the real value continued until 1909, when it was changed to one-third. The rate of $7.98 in 1908 on a one-fifth basis was the equal of $4.79 on a one-third valuation. In 1909 the rate was $4.91. But the increase in taxes was larger than the increase in rate indicates, because the valuation on the property was again boosted.

The legislature this year has changed the basis of valuation from one-third to one-half, and the rates accordingly as heretofore. The tax rate of $6.24 this year equals $4.16 under the new system, but in the scaling process it would not be brought down below $4.40. That rate equals $6.60 under the present system.

How They Go Up.

But the legislature did not allow the rates to remain the same. It gave a large increase to the city, another to the mother's pension fund, a third to the county board, and a fourth to the school board. On a rough guess these increases in rates will jump the $4.40 to the neighborhood of $5.57. Putting this on the one-third basis, it is equal to $8.35 as compared with $6.24 this year.

More of the tale lies in the hope of the assessing bodies that they will be able to increase tax valuations 15 per cent at least. If that is done then the probable increase in taxes is represented by the difference between $6.24 and $8.76—or about 40 per cent.

Hair Turns White in War; Returns, Weds in 3 Hours

When Warren T. Smith of Winnetka, formerly a motorman on the Chicago and North Shore Electric railroad, enlisted in the Canadian army four years ago he was a blonde. He returned home yesterday with his hair as white as snow. The change didn't appear to worry Miss Catherine Brown, keeper of a beauty parlor, for they were married three hours later.

"My white dome may come in handy some night if the headlight on the car fails to work," Smith said. "I'll be back on the job Monday."

POLICE BESIEGE HOUSE IN BATTLE OVER A BEQUEST

A fight over a family inheritance yesterday called out all the reserves of the Cottage Avenue police station and the central bureau rifle squad. Detective Sergeants James Burns and Michael Lahardt were talking with Patrolman Walter J. Healy, near the home of Edgar J. Smith, colored, 2961 Wabash avenue, when they heard a women scream for help.

The detectives started up the rear stairway while the patrolman entered the front door. Burns was met by Smith, who commanded a large dog to attack him. The dog bit the detective on the leg and the colored man pushed the detective off the porch. Unhurt, Burns started back up the stairs, when he was fired on by Smith with an automatic rifle.

Reinforcements were called, Smith meanwhile firing two shots at Patrolman Healy. Healy soon after surprised him at a window with the rifle and took away his weapon. Jesse Smith and Edgar's wife, Nora, were found hidden in a closet.

Jesse and Edgar, according to the woman's story, had quarreled over property left them by their father. She said Jesse sought to intimidate her into telling where part of the property was concealed.

The trio was locked up.

AGAIN WE HAVE THE 2 DROMIOS

Max Troyanski, who says he is the son of a wealthy retired Kansas City merchant and a buyer for a large firm, cast himself for the generous hero in a little sketch entitled "His Brother's Sin" at the detective bureau last night.

Detective Sergeants James McCafery and George Hans had arrested him at the general delivery window in the postoffice as answering the description of "M. Troyanski," wanted in Tulsa, Okla., for a $250 forgery.

Troyanski declared he was not the man wanted, that he was a double for his brother, who, he said, was the "family black sheep." He announced he'd go to Tulsa without formal extradition. Later he changed his mind and said he'd fight extradition, but would shoulder his brother's blame.

"He's got a wife and kid, and anyhow they'd turn me loose as soon as they saw me," he confided to the police. And the cops admit he has them at sea, as 'twere.

WORM TURNS, ALL THE WAY ROUND, AND BITES HIM

And Mr. Safranek's Gay Vacation Ends in a Cell.

Back last May, when the air was filled with that peculiar something that makes one want to ease out of workaday existence and wander among the twittering birds and budding flowers, J. G. Safranek, 34 years old, 3334 West Twenty-fourth street, a bookbinder, mentioned to Mrs. Safranek that he'd like to take a vacation. He hadn't had a day off in sixteen years.

The missus vetoed the idea, but Safranek played hookey from work one afternoon just the same. Some one told the missus and when he reached home that night she turned on the conversation. Among other things she informed him he couldn't afford any vacations. She let it be known that any more playing hookey from work would be sternly dealt with.

Safranek managed to edge in a remark about the well known turning of the worm, intimating that if wife didn't issue a permit for a holiday, he'd take one anyway.

Barrage from the Missus.

Whereupon the missus said a few things about bringing home the pay envelope unopened or taking the consequences, and told him to help himself to any vacations he might manage without coin of the realm.

Safranek, it so happened, had been financial secretary of the Pilsen lodge of the Bohemian-Slavonic union, and had made such a hit in that job that they'd just elected him financial secretary of the grand lodge of the union, which has jurisdiction over sixty-five lodges scattered about the country, and into the coffers of which, through the hands of the financial secretary, some 10,000 hard American dollars jingle each month.

So Safranek hinted to the missus that if the worm ever started to turn it might be able to find something to turn on. Whereupon the missus told him that if there was any more shenanigan she'd tell Dr. J. P. Pecival, 3756 West Twenty-sixth street, president and medical adviser of the grand lodge.

Elects Himself Peacemaker.

But in spite of that the arguments over a vacation continued daily. The neighbors got to talking. Dr. Pecival heard about and elected himself peacemaker for the Safraneks. Along about May 10 he dropped around to spread a little salve on the Safranek family jar.

Safranek wasn't home. He'd been missing a couple of days, his wife said. The good doctor was sorry. He didn't worry about the finances of the grand lodge, for they were checked by an auditor each month, but he hated to have his good friends, the Safraneks, in a row. But along about May 13 it occurred to him that several thousand dollars had been paid in dues to Safranek. He decided Safranek should be turning them over to him.

Again he visited the Safranek home. Safranek hadn't returned. Mrs. Safranek turned over to the doctor some $3,000 she had collected. But the doctor said Safranek had as much more. He got a warrant for Safranek, charging embezzlement.

Safranek couldn't be found. Then a letter came from him—he was in San Francisco, but not when the police sought him.

Hides Behind Wife's Skirts.

Yesterday Detective Sergeants Gregory Moran and Patrick Loftus got a hot tip that Safranek was back home. They found him hiding in a clothes closet behind some of his wife's skirts. He explained that he'd been back in Chicago working every day for quite a spell. He said he'd used only some $1,800 of the union's money. Dr. Pecival says it's $3,000.

Safranek reposed in a cell last night. He was sorry, he said, but explained a fellow has to have a vacation and a little beer money, and when he works like a worm for year, well, the worm just couldn't help turning—

All the way around.

TORN BETWEEN LOVE AND PRISON, HE TAKES BOTH

Three Wives and More Sentences End in New Arrest.

Fifteen years ago Arthur Balliancoure came forth from a period of meditation and self-denial behind the walls of Joliet penitentiary. Describing himself as a traveling salesman—just out of New York—he made ardent love to Miss Clara Payette. On June 3, 1905, they were married. Their son, Frank, now 13 years old, resides with his mother in Breedsville, Mich. Domestic life irked the soul of Arthur, accustomed to the quiet of the penal cloisters. So he went away, leaving his wife no forwarding address.

His mother, Mrs. Mary Martell, was living at 628 South Peoria stret. At No. 630 Lillian Lehmann resided. Mrs. Martell knew her in a neighborly way and made her acquainted with Arthur—"her devoted son, a fine boy, God bless him."

Takes Second Wife.

Arthur had a way with him, and on June 21, 1912, he married Lillian at Crown Point. Their son, Frank, now is 6 years old. After a time, it seems, Arthur's conscience began to bother him. He told Lillian he had a wife living. The news ruffled Lillian's sunny disposition. She's living at 848 Vernon Park place now, with her son. There's no "welcome" sign on the mat for Arthur.

After the debacle in his second romance Arthur sought forgetfulness in travel. He migrated to the coast. Eventually the criminal courts of California admitted him to the big stone house were silence prevails and where one's meditations are not interrupted by the sparkling wine or the tinkling jazz. When he again resumed life's cares he laid his heart at the feet of Frieda Howard, a nurse. They have two children.

Third Love Grows Cold.

In this quarter, too, it appears, Arthur's love has grown cold. He breezed into Chicago a few days ago to visit his dear old mother, Mrs. Martell, at 3108 West Twenty-seventh street.

Yesterday the telephone at the detective bureau jingled.

"If you'll go to Mrs. Martell's, 3108 West Twenty-seventh street, you will find an ex-convict and bigamist," a female voice cooed into the ear of the desk sergeant.

Lieut. John W. Norton and Sergt. Arthur Claus went there. They found Arthur. They invited him up to the bureau and checked up his record. They found he had served prison terms under the names of Holland and Martell as well as his own. And they learned of his career as a smasher of hearts.

The police sort of feel a few more years of quiet and meditation would be of benefit to Arthur. They're going to try and make a judge and jury let him have it.

MAN WHO FEARED MOTORS KILLED ON HIS FIRST RIDE

BENJAMIN KLASENS, 54 years old, 6102 Honoré street, had long looked with disapproval on motor vehicles. He regarded them as death dealing contraptions and mourned the good old days when a man went riding in reasonable safety with a horse and buggy.

He didn't like it when his son Joseph, 25 years old, bought a motorcycle.

"You'll get killed with that thing some day," was his warning as he daily refused his son's pleas to go for a ride "up behind."

"If you'd just take one ride, dad," the son coaxed last night, "you'd be a regular motorcycle fan. Come on. Go riding once. Be a sport."

The father finally consented to "go for just one ride."

With his dad perched on the rear seat, Joseph headed his motorcycle north on Honoré street. At Fifty-ninth street a westbound street car struck them.

The father died a few moments after he was taken to the Englewood hospital by the police who picked him up. The son is in the Englewood hospital suffering a fractured skull and internal injuries. He may die.

Lloyd Young, 10, 205 South Whipple street, was fatally injured when he was thrown from his motorcycle at Washington boulevard and Oakley avenue yesterday after hitting a dog. He died at the Washington boulevard hospital.

NEW FLYING LAW BASED ON RULE 200 YEARS OLD

Draw Ordinance to Control Aviation Over City.

Under municipal police powers the city of Chicago has the right to pass an ordinance regulating the use of the skies over the city by aircraft, Corporation Counsel Ettelson decided yesterday.

In consequence of the decision, which was taken after looking into many law books for legislation regulating aircraft, Assistant Corporation Counsel Leon Hornstein set to work to draft the ordinance. He conferred with Capt. Benjamin B. Lipsner, who was the first superintendent of aerial mail service in Chicago, and studied the data turned over to the city legal department by Ald. Crowe, Maypole, and Link of the city aviation committee.

European Cities Bar Flyers.

"We learn that aircraft have been forbidden by law to fly over several large European cities," said Mr. Hornstein. "We propose to limit by means of strict legislation the use of airplanes and other aircraft in exhibitions and will try to limit flying over the central part of the city.

"We intend to put a provision in the new ordinance which will limit the altitude at which aircraft may fly even over the less thickly populated sections, and will prescribe definite routes for the use of planes and dirigibles crossing the municipality.

"In addition we propose, if possible, to include a section requiring all pilots flying over Chicago to be licensed and planes to be registered. If we find that we can do this we may go so far as to require an examination of all pilots and an inspection of the aircraft they use. We will also provide that only standard machines shall be used in flights over any part of the city and propose to prohibit entirely all experimental flights within the city limits."

Go Back 200 Years.

In seeking authority for legislation the city law department has harked back 200 years to the time of the learned jurist Coke, who declared that a landowner owns from the center of the earth to the skies above. Coke stated this legal principle in the Latin "Cujus est solum, ejus usque ad coelum," which is known as Coke's maxim.

CHARGE PRESIDENT OF COMPANY SPENT $12,000 ON HIMSELF

MISAPPROPRIATION of $12,000 of company funds is charged against George Sunderland, president of the Sunderland Manufacturing company, manufacturers of automobile pumps at 600 West Twenty-second street, in a bill filed in the Superior court yesterday by Walter W. Hoops and Robert C. Wheeler, 6 Scott street, stockholders in the company. The bill was filed by Attorney Egbert Robertson, a law partner of Wheeler.

According to the bill, since the first of this year the president of the company has used the company's funds for his own personal luxuries and pleasures. He is said to have purchased a motor car for his own use with company funds.

"It's an attempt to get control of the company," Sutherland said last night. "The fact is that the books are audited each year and a copy of the audit goes to the stockholders. I owe the company about $12,000, but the books show that I owe it, and nobody ever has made any kick about it. The charge that I bought an auto with the company's money is untrue."

EVANSTON WANTS WORLD TO KNOW IT'S EVANSTON

Intellectual Evanston forgot itself long enough last night to issue a statement that "Chicago is getting away with a lot of rough stuff." Those are the exact words of a prominent resident.

They have placed their own business and traveling men on the pan because they haven't the courage to write "Evanston" after their name when they register at hotels in other cities and in Europe. A boosting campaign to let the world know "Where Evanston is" was started by the residents. Dr. Lynn Harold Hough, president of Northwestern university, said that London hadn't even heard of Evanston.

"While in England's metropolis some years ago," the professor related, "I stopped at a hotel and signed 'Evanston' after my name. The hotel clerk scratched his head and then asked if Evanston wasn't the capital of Chicago. I told him it was—the intellectual capital of Chicago."

BLIMP OWNERS NAME BODY TO PAY ALL CLAIMS

Commission of Three to Do Away with Court Costs.

A commission to determine the damage due for deaths of persons killed and just compensation for those injured by the explosion and crash of the dirigible "Wingfoot express" last Monday evening was established last night in Chicago by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company of Akron, O. The three men appointed have accepted the commission.

The announcement of the precedent setting action came last night from the offices of the company's attorneys, Stein, Mayer & David. It was signed by G. M. Stadelman, vice president of the tire company, and indorsed by the president, F. A. Seiberling, who is now in Los Angeles, Cal.

The commission consists of Judge Henry Horner of the Probate court, John H. Wigmore, dean of the Northwestern University Law school, and John J. Mitchell, president of the Illinois Trust and Savings bank.

To Obviate Court Costs.

The commission, according to the attorneys, is established with the view to helping all of the people who suffered injuries by the blimp accident. It is established with a view of doing away with court costs and expenses of hiring attorneys.

The application to the commission for compensation is not binding, the attorneys state. It is not final. Any person dissatisfied with the judgment or ruling of the body may appeal to the courts and pursue the usual course for relief in the civil courts.

All friends and relatives of deceased and injured persons are urged by the company to present their claims to the commission as soon as possible. They may do so at the offices of Stein, Mayer & David in the First National Bank building.

The statutes of Illinois provide for a compensation of $10,000 in the loss of life. For injuries any amount may be asked.

Goodyear Statement.

The statement issued last night by the Goodyear people is in part as follows:

"The local officials of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber company communicated by telegram and telephone with F. A. Seiberling, president of the company, who wired on Thursday response from Los Angeles, California, as follows:

"'I agree with you that we should waive all technicalities and treat the situation in a broad and liberal way from the standpoint of humanity. Suggestion of placing our case in the hands of disinterested commission excellent and I will willingly accept the findings of the disinterested commissioners.

"[Signed] F. A. Seiberling.'

"Pursuant to this telegram, the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, without admitting legal liability, and notwithstanding the advice of its attorneys that there is no precedent upon which liability could be predicated or established for the results of the disastrous catastrophe of last Monday, has concluded that it will pay full and fair compensation to all persons who suffered injuries and full and fair damages to the members of the families of the deceased entitled to compensation.

"To thsi end the company, together with representatives of the Illinois Trust & Savings bank, acting for itself and its employés, have agreed to submit all claims for damages or compensation to a disinterested commission."

Inquest Today.

The coroner's investigation into the cause of the blimp disaster will be reopened this morning. The inquest will proceed at 11 o'clock in room 1123 county building, under the personal direction of Coroner Peter M. Hoffman.

The pilot of the blimp, the crew, officials of the Goodyear Tire and Rubber company, and several authorities on dirigibles and airplane motors will testify this morning.

All to two ends—one to determine, if possible, who is to blame for the tragedy, and the other to make Chicago, its citizens, and buildings safe from the hazards of aeronautics.

Prepares Questionnaire.

Yesterday Coroner Hoffman prepared the following list of questions to be answered with testimony at the inquest:

The questions prepared by Coroner Hoffman are:

Who owned the balloon and who owned the motors?

What was the object of the flight.

What was the route and purpose of the course taken?

What were the names of the pilot and mechanician?

Who was the man by whose final authority the start was made?

What was the efficiency, knowledge and experience of the crew?

What did the crew know of the use of the Rhone rotary motors on a dirigible of this type?

What was the composition of the balloon casing and what were its qualities as to inflammability?

Where was the exhaust from the cylinders and what means was used to prevent it from igniting gas which may have escaped in some way?

Pay Silent Tribute to Dead.

While the inquiry was halted yesterday the funerals of seven of the victims occurred. For five minutes yesterday morning business in the Illinois Trust and Savings bank came to a complete stop. Not a typewriter clicked, not a pencil moved, and the telephones went unanswered. The employés rose to their feet and bowed their heads—a silent tribute to their co-workers who were killed.

PROFIT TAKING PUTS BRAKES ON BULL MARKET

Early Upward Rush Is Followed by Heavy Selling.

The New York Times.

New York, July 24.—[Special.]—The extensive downward movement which got under way today among the industrial stocks after an early period of strength could probably be best explained by reference to the rise of Tuesday and Wednesday. The price improvement of those two sessions was sizeable and impressive, especially when considered with the fact that it occurred despite constant warnings of brokers to customers to use caution in making new commitments. In periods when an uncertain feeling is evident in brokerage offices and in the literature of the market, the trading element stands ready to realize profits quickly and the quality of today's dealings indicated that a great deal of profit-taking sales were made.

The steel shares, oil and motor stocks and tobacco issues were prominent in the reaction, these being stocks most likely to be affected by a selling movement because of their recent advices. In the afternoon the pressure upon the active stocks became more noticeable as time passed. There seemed to be no new development outside of the elimination of the Bethlehem Steel corporation's extra common stock dividend to unsettle the trading front.

Call Money Easier.

Call money was easier than in several weeks, with rates as low at 5½ and 8½ per cent depending upon the class of collateral. The sterling exchange market again moved in favor of London and other rates were fairly steady. An offering of 375,000 shares of Shell Transport and Trading company shares almost an innovation for the American security market, was disposed of in a few minutes. The news from industrial centers dealt less with strikes and more with progress in production than earlier in the week.

The decision of the Bethlehem Steel directors to limit the quarterly disbursement to the regular payment was not altogether unexpected, but appeared to have a depressing effect upon the steel shares because of the announced reason for the board's action. The official explanation said that the profits at present being made, with current high costs and price level, did not warrant special disbursement. An inference which the street seemed to draw from this was the likelihood that steel prices would not advance much in the near future while manufacturing expenses were expected to remain stiff. The Bethlehem shares were the weakest of the steel group.

Scattered Advances Made.

In regard to prices for steel products, it is understood that the largest unit in the industry would prefer to see heavy bookings completed in various lines before quotations were advanced. Whether a similar sentiment exists elsewhere is not known. There have been scattered advances, a few concerns raising wire and steel bar prices, but the trade reviews indicate that operations and advance orders have not reached a level to warrant many increases.

It seems probable that the extent of foreign buying will have much to do with prices throughout this year, as the vast increase which has occurred in steel plant facilities since 1914 presents opportunity for a huge output before capacity will be reached in certain of the major products. The ability of foreign consumers to buy in the face of extraordinary discounts on their exchanges at New York will supply an interesting subject for study.

Sterling sight drafts at 4.39¼ closed with a gain of 1⅛ cents to the pound. Francs went down 2 centimes at 7.09. Dutch, Swiss and Spanish rates were little changed for the day, and Italian rates improved slightly.

Income Return on Old Bond Issues Surprising

New York, July 24.—[Special.]—In view of the interest that is being taken by investors in the new security offerings that are now being made to yield from 6 to 7 per cent or more, the question was raised in banking circles as to what could be found in the way of income return on the old outstanding issues. The results in some cases are surprising.

In the list of foreign government bonds income returns are found of between 5½ per cent on the Canadian 5s of 1931 and 9.40 on the French cities due in November. These bonds are being offered at 99½. As much as 7.45 per cent is offered on the Anglo-French 5s due May 15, 1920. The bonds of Great Britain offer between 5.15 and a fraction over 6 per cent.

In the industrial list the income return on the old outstanding short term issues ranges from 4¾ per cent on the American Cotton Oil 7s due in September to 6.42 on the Cudahy Packing company 7s due July 15, 1923.

AUTOCAR TO INCREASE STOCK.

NEW YORK, July 24.—[Special.]—At a special meeting of the stock holders of the Autocar company of Ardmore, Pa., it was voted to increase the capital stock of the company from $2,000,000 to $10,000,000.

Wayne Coal Company.

C. J. M., Dubuque, Ia.—The Wayne Coal company was formed early in 1917. It has issued $6,320,105 of stock and $3,051,000 of bonds. In the year ended Oct. 31 last 844,114 tons of coal were sold at an operating profit of $1,258,064. After deduction of interest and depletion charge net profits of $696,212 were left. The present coal market is abnormal and nobody can predict what this company could earn under normal conditions. The bonds are quoted at 75 bid, 78 asked, which is about an 8¼ per cent income basis.

Boone Oil.

M. M. T.—The Boone Oil company controls lands in Texas and Louisiana and is said to have a production of 500 to 600 barrels a day. It has issued $1,400,000 of stock of $5 par and at last accounts had a funded debt of $835,000. Earnings a few months ago were said to be running at the rate of $300,000 a year. Little information has been made public.

Brief Answers.

E. M.—The John R. Thompson company has issued a statement for the first six months of 1919. It shows earnings of $394,547 after depreciation and taxes. This figures out at the rate of 15 per cent a year on the $4,500,000 of common stock after deducting the dividend on $1,675,000 of preferred.

A. P.—The dividend on Armour & Co. preferred stock is covered about four times. This stock is entitled to a good rating among preferred shares. It is not so conservative as Armour first mortgage bonds.

LEAD TURNS FIRMER.

NEW YORK, July 24.—[Special.]—Lead, like copper and zinc, is firming up in price. It is now quoted at 5.95 cents a pound, the highest price thus far registered this year. The present price compares with 8.05 cents a pound in November, 1918, and the low level of 5 cents reached early this year.

BY EUGENE HECTOR.

In order to acquaint itself with what it deemed a trustworthy view of the condition of the banks of Germany one of the largest local institutions received yesterday, in response to a query, the following reply from an Amsterdam banking interest:

"All the leading banks of Germany are considered good, but everything depends on the political situation."

The qualification resting upon the political situation has reference to the condition of the banks as related to state or government securities. The banks of Germany, it is generally understood, have all their capital and surplus and presumably a considerable part of their deposits tied up in various government obligations.

In Sound Position.

In the event of a turn in political affairs which would lead to a cancellation of government debts, then the German banks could not be considered in a good position. Barring repudiation, however, the Amsterdam judgment is interpreted as meaning that banking institutions are in a sound position.

It may be observed that what has happened in the case of the German banks is probably largely true of French and British institutions. In the case of these latter, however, there is no thought of failure to meet government obligations. Also it is probably true that if the war had continued several years longer the banks of this country would have been very large holders of government war securities.

The standing of foreign banks in the countries mentioned as affected by the war, is a matter of the credit stability of the governments.

Industrial Discrimination Stopped.

According to private advices received yesterday, the money broker representing the First National bank of New York announced that hereafter his bank would draw no distinction between mixed and all industrial collateral as security for loans. The only criterion, he said, would be that the collateral be good, whether consisting of industrial or railroad securities.

The market for all call loans in Wall street, as well as time loans, has varied 1 per cent in favor of collateral containing railroad securities. The daily quotation is, for example, 6 per cent for loans secured by mixed collateral and 7 per cent for all industrials. The attitude of the First National was considered to be of considerable importance, since it is the first break to be made in the rule of discrimination against industrial stocks.

Predicts Big Bull Market.

A prominent commission house in New York happened to secure yesterday from Jacob Field, former Wall street operator, his opinion of the present market. Mr. Field is quoted as saying he thought we would have a big bull market from now until after the next presidential election in November, 1920. He added that of course all great bull markets suffer serious reactions and he thought this market would go on for more than a year to come with only normal breaks. Directly he said:

"When we went into the war we took a step that was bound either to break us or put us clear at the top. It put us at the top. We have not yet discounted the victory."

Mr. Field has been highly successful in Wall street and his experience has covered a long period of years.

OILS AND MINING

With the opening of wells Nos. 1 and 2 in the Beggs, Oklahoma district, with initial productions of 200 and 700 barrels respectively, the Shaffer Oil and Refining company has completed five wells on its various holdings within the last three weeks and increased its oil production more than 1,200 barrels a day. The company is drilling nineteen other wells in Oklahoma and Texas and has let contracts for the drilling of seven additional wells to be put down on its Kansas acreage.

The Maryland Refining company's well No. 6 in the Poncha, Okla., field has been completed and is flowing 2,100 barrels daily.

Lone Star Gas stockholders of record may subscribe for new stock at $100 for each three shares owned. Rights will expire Sept. 1.

The Houston Oil company has completed a new well with an estimated daily output of 5,000 barrels.

The Calumet and Arizona Mining company, which has within the last five years opened in Arizona the New Cornelia mine, is now engaged in developing a new subsidiary, the Gadsden, a prospect adjoining the United Verde Extension property in the Jerome district. The average yield of copper per ton of Verde Extension rock treated during 1918 was 20 per cent, or 400 pounds, a record not approached by that of any other copper mine in the world.

The Consolidated Interstate Callahan Mining company in the last four years has become one of the largest zinc producers in this country. During this period it has shipped 215,680,459 pounds of zinc, 52,673,430 pounds of lead, and 300,180 ounces of silver, having a combined total value of $11,461,364. A new high production record was made in February, with shipments of 4,180,000 pounds of zinc, 1,750,000 pounds of lead, and 20,000 ounces of silver having a combined total value of over $370,000.

CHICAGO STOCK TRANSACTIONS

Chicago stocks were irregular but did not follow the declines experienced in Wall street. The packing house shares were but moderately active, and ruled generally steady.

Passing of the dividend by Republic Truck directors led to an early decline of five points from previous close. Thereafter the stock began to advance and after touching 54 closed at 53, two points below the previous day. Mitchell Motor shares were up one point at 52. Stewart Manufacturing showed fractional improvement, as did John R. Thompson.

The traction shares traded in were about steady. The same was true of the bonds, with the exception of Series A 5s, which were off 3 points from the last previous sale.

Goodrich company, making the total amount listed $39,600,000. The $2,000,000 common stock of the Holland-St. Louis Sugar company, par value $10, was approved and placed in the unlisted group.

The Association of Railway Executives is expected to complete today the details of the national car trust plan. This will involve the issuance of $280,000,000 in railway equipment trusts running from one to fifteen years, one-fifteenth of the issue falling due each year. The rate of interest is expected to be 6 per cent. The proceeds will go to pay for a portion of the $400,000,000 of equipment purchased by the railroad administration and allocated to the roads. The remaining $120,000,000 will be advanced to the roads by the railroad administration.

The New York stock exchange has announced the incorporation of the new stock clearing corporation, whose operations are expected materially to relieve the credit situation, reducing the daily loan extension by about 65 per cent. The plan is expected to be operative early in the fall.

Stockholders of the Firestone Tire and Rubber company have been asked to approve an increase in capitalization from $15,000,000 to $75,000,000, of which two-thirds will be in preferred and one-third in common stock. Ten million preferred will be used to finance plant extensions.

Initial trading was begun yesterday on the New York stock exchange in stocks of the United Retail Stores corporation, the Shell Transport and Trading company, the American Malt and Grain company, and the Pacific Gas and Electric company.

More than $100,000,000 is immediately available for banks of the Ninth Federal Reserve district for aid in harvesting, milling, and transporting the record crops this year, it was announced yesterday. The capitalization of the British Dyestuffs corporation is given as £10,000,000. Of this amount £4,500,000 will be 7 per cent preference, there will be a similar amount of 8 per cent preferred, and £1,000,000 deferred. The British government has entered a subscription for £850,000 preference stock and a similar amount of ordinary shares. The shareholders of the British Dye corporation and Levinsteins will receive £756,000 in preference, £727,000 in preferred, and £980 in ordinary. There is now being offered to the public £2,500,000 in preference and a like amount of preferred. The offering is made at par.

It is reported the International Agricultural corporation is considering a plan to compromise with the owners of the 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock by payment of the 40½ per cent arrears of dividends on the issue in new 6 per cent refunding bonds. This would be in lieu of the suggested compromise involving an increase in the issue of common stock.

YOUR FIRST INVESTMENT

RELATIVELY, the investment of the first one-hundred or five-hundred dollars saved or otherwise accumulated is a transaction of much more importance to the possessor than the one or more thousand dollars withdrawn annually from an established business and invested in selected bonds to insure a steady income.

The success or failure of the initial investment of the first savings will largely determine the plan or ambition of the small investor with respect to his savings; therefore, it is of paramount importance that this first step be taken wisely.

And there is no reason why the small investor should not enjoy all the benefits and protection of the large investor.

To meet this situation and to enable the investor with one hundred dollars or any multiple thereof to get his money working without waiting until one thousand dollars has been accumulated, we have selected a list of safe bonds and preferred stocks yielding from 6% to 7.50% available in amounts of $100 and $500 and upwards.

Get started right—the safety of your principal our first consideration.

WEATHER PLAYS STAR ROLE IN GRAIN MARKET

Rumor of Illinois Rain Sends Corn Down, Rally Follows.

BY CHARLES D. MICHAELS.

The corn market is so sensitive to any heavy buying or selling or any news of a change or probable change in the weather that operators are kept on edge as in all markets where weather conditions are the leading factor. Closings were at a gain of ⅝c on September, while July lost ½c and December was the same as the previous day. Oats were bought largely by shorts and closed ¼@¾c higher, December leading. Rye gained ¼c to ½c, and barley 1⅜@3c. Provisions were weaker and lower, pork being off 10c, lard 17½@25c, and short ribs 2½@7½c for the day.

Southwestern corn markets closed unchanged to 1c higher, and oats ⅛@⅞c higher. At Minneapolis oats gained ½@⅝c, while Winnipeg was ½c lower on October and ⅝c higher on December. Rye in Minneapolis lost ¼@½c, and barley gained 1⅝@2½c.

Corn Market Very Sensitive.

Like all weather markets, corn was decidedl sensitive to reports of rain. News other than of a weather character was ignored, and it took but a rumor of rain at Champaign and Streator, Ill., to start the market downward at one time. At the inside figure prices were off 1⅝@2c from the top, but as soon as denials were received the early sellers started to cover and a good rally followed, September closing within ⅛c of the top, at $1.95½, leading the advance, while December at $1.66⅝ was the same as the previous day.

The weather map shows no precipitation in the corn belt, and the forecast was for generally fair. Private reports received late in the afternoon showed cloudy at a few points in Illinois, but fair and hot in the southwest, where rain is urgently needed if damage is to be prevented.

At the moment, the crop is at the stage where it will either be made or will deteriorate rapidly. Weather of the next week or ten days will govern, and under these conditions with very little actual damage so far traders are nervous and inclined to go slow on either side of the market.

Cash corn again sold at the highest prices on the crop, with No. 2 white at $2.09. Receipts are small and demand only fair, but there has been no accumulation of stocks, and the buying is of a persistent character. Argentine prices have advanced about 20c in two days, with September-October at Buenos Aires quoted at $1.17½ early, and later at $1.22.

Profit Taking in Oats.

Oat bears were less confident of their position. Country offerings were smaller and generally held above the market, and the tight car situation in many sections of the belt it is feared will have the effect of checking the movement. Prices have declined over 3c from the recent top, and some of the local traders took the buying side on the break, covering shorts, and made a sharp bulge after an early break of ¾c. The close was at the top with July 80¼c, September 80⅝c, and December 83⅛.

Thrashing returns continue disappointing from many sections of the belt, but the quality of the new grain arriving at Chicago was excellent, the color being far above the average. No. 2 whites sold at 80c that weighed 31 to 33.2 lbs per bu, and had a low moisture content. Several cars sold at 81½c.

Seaboard exporters were trying to resell oats at the seaboard, domestic grain, plus ocean freights, figuring about 5c above the United Kingdom maximum import price. Domestic call was fair with sales of 110,000 bu. Sample values unchanged to ½c lower, with receipts 158 cars.

Provision Trade Small.

A large part of the trading in provisions was in buying July ribs and selling September, and in buying ribs and selling lard. Buying of lard against export sales was said to be on. Cash trade in meats was fair and pork loins are materially higher at 28c. Shipments of lard and meats were larger than last year. Cables from Liverpool told of liberal supplies and Denmark cables said short clears were offered there lower than they can be shipped from here. Hog supplies were larger and a better run is expected next week should there be no labor troubles at the yards. Prices follow:

SHIP GOLD TO ORIENT.

NEW YORK, July 24.—Shipments of gold, totaling several million dollars, have been sent recently to the orient. Approximately $7,500,000 has gone to Japan for purposes of exchange and $2,000,000 more is to be shipped this week as a basis for an increased issue of bank notes in Formosa. China has been sent shipments of $5,762,000 in gold and $8,500,000 in silver during the last week.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Every day of dry weather is expected to make corn crop prospects less favorable and bring in enlarged complaints of deterioration. It means a sensitive market with traders watching the weather and clouds for any decided change. Reports that it was raining at Champaign and Streator, Ill., received around midday yesterday, although quickly denied, cost many of the local longs considerable money, as they sold out at a loss. So great is the feeling of uneasiness that traders are going slow on the buying side fearing a break in the drought, while the bears who are watching for a high spot on which to sell December corn are timid about selling, being afraid that it will not rain. Until there is a decided change either way a nervous market with sharp price changes is to be expected.

The best buying of corn and oats was by leading elevator interests who were said to be covering shorts. Corn was bought on the less favorable crop and weather reports and oats because of the strength in corn. It was the belief that continued drought would bring buying and advance corn prices and under such a condition oats would sympathize and it was best to reduce lines.

The Wagner house was the largest seller of corn and oats futures yesterday and have been the last four days. Their market letter on corn reviewed the crop conditions of the last four years and said in part: "The 1919 corn crop after a marvelous rally has reached July 25 with probably a condition of 87, a high condition. A crop of 3,000,000,000 bu may result. The critical period for corn is from July 15 to Aug. 15. Favorable weather is always necessary for ten days following the blooming period. Only dry weather has any effect on pollen at earing time. A cool and wet July means a fair crop. A warm and dry July a moderate to small crop. Twenty-five years' experience in Kansas shows corn keeps on growing with a small quantity of moisture if no serious heat or fairly cool. Based on experience of 1916, when the crop endured a drastic sixty day July and August hot spell, a crop of 2,583,000,000 bu was raised, or the same as last year, the crop can endure a two weeks' hot spell if fair August rains arrive, and yet run 2,800,000,000 bu."

Winnipeg wheat prices closed 5⅝c higher for October and 4⅛c up for December yesterday. A good part of the business is spreading between the two months, October being bought and December sold. Black rust has been found in Canadian wheat fields. The government recently commandeered 15,000,000 bu for Italy and it will take more than is in the Canadian visible to fill the order.

Many elevators in Illinois will be forced to shut down Saturday unless cars are furnished by the railroads to move wheat. Conditions are said to be very bad along the Illinois Central railroad. The United States Grain corporation is conferring with the railroad administration in an effort to secure a better supply of cars, but no relief has been promised so far.

July deliveries were: Corn, 25,000 bu; rye, 10,000 bu; barley, 5,000 bu; lard and ribs, 100,000 lbs each.

FINDS ECONOMIC CONDITIONS IN EUROPE BAD

Economic conditions in Europe are bad, according to J. Ralph Pickell, editor of the Rosenbaum Review, who has returned from a four months' trip through England, Belgium, France, Holland, Italy and Spain. In a talk to Board of Trade men last night he said, "The problems of food, finance, ocean transportation, international trade, embargoes and tariff walls are all mixed up, and with the problems of the unrest of labor and the high price of food there are many elements of anarchy, which is the condition of Europe at this time."

After a careful investigation of conditions he found that depression was likely to continue in Europe for many months. The situation is rendered more serious because of the universal high price of food. There is no world's scarcity, for with the crops now being harvested and the supplies on hand there is enough and to spare with the exception of meat.

He believes that the policy of government control of wheat has forced foreign governments to do the same, and is retarding readjustment throughout the world. He looks for high prices to continue, but European import requirements will be less this year than the highest figure of pre-war times.

Estimated import requirements of the leading countries of Europe are around 550,000,000 bu wheat based on the information he received, or 50,000,000 bu under the minimum suggested by Herbert C. Hoover recently. Their crops are 580,000,000 bu. Russia is expected to export 25,000,000 to 50,000,000 bu through Black sea ports.

PREDICTS 75 CENT COTTON

That cotton will advance to 75 cents a pound and cotton goods to 50 per cent higher than at present, were predictions of merchants who attended the fourth "Business Builders' Conference" in the Congress hotel yesterday.

The conference was held under the auspices of the Dry Goods Reporter, for the purpose of bringing together in a sort of round table discussion of business problems, and was attended by retail merchants from many middle western and southern states.

"The root of the evil," said a southern merchant, "is the manufacturer and until he comes down on his prices the public will continue to pay all sorts of war prices for every household necessity."

DRY GOODS.

New York, July 24.—Cotton goods and cotton yarns markets today were quieter, but prices held firm. Raw silk was steady and burlaps advanced. Ready-to-wear trading was active.

General live stock trade was more uneven than usual, best cattle and better grades of hogs selling steady, while undesirable cattle and packing hogs ruled weak at 50c lower, with sheep and lambs generally 25c lower.

Best cattle offered sold at $18.30, top hogs at the recent record of $23.50, and choicest lambs at $17.40. Top cattle were 15c higher, hogs, $1.10 higher, and lambs 75c lower than previous Thursday and lowest in two weeks.

Packers and shippers purchased better grades of all kinds of stock freely while undesirable offerings were considerably neglected, several thousand cattle and 8,000 hogs remaining unsold. Calves closed 50c@$2.00 lower than Tuesday with heavy kinds off most.

Armour's Hogs Cost $23.00.

The Armour houses purchased 4,000 hogs which cost $23.00, against a cost of $21.98 Wednesday for about an equal number decidedly on the packing order, averaging close to 300 lbs.

There was another liberal supply of western range cattle among the offerings, including many calves and thin cows and steers which are being marketed principally from Montana owing to the drouth and shortage of grass and forage. This week's receipts of rangers will total close to 15,000, an unheard of supply for so early in the season.

Receipts for today are estimated at 5,000 cattle, 23,000 hogs, and 15,000 sheep, against 7,543 cattle, 19,197 hogs and 16,535 sheep corresponding Friday a year ago.

JOHN V. FARWELL REVIEW.

The John V. Farwell company in its weekly review of trade says:

"The most prominent factor influencing the dry goods and general store merchandise situation at present is the increasing shortage of goods. Mills in some textile lines are notifying their customers that orders will be accepted only with the reservation that they can reduce quantities to any extent they deem advisable. Under these circumstances the conservatism in buying which would naturally follow the high trend of prices is being reduced to a minimum and buyers are in the market in very much larger numbers picking up available merchandise to cover their future needs.

"Leading mill this week advanced bleached shaker flannels from last quotation 38 per cent to 58 per cent, according to grade. Sheets and pillow cases were also again advanced by mills. Voiles are being taken very freely for next spring.

"Laces are in brisk demand and are rapidly advancing. Samples of val lace from Calais show an advance of from 30 to 75 per cent over prices ruling a few weeks ago. Collections show noticeable gain."
